SUMMER HOUSE WITH SWIMMING POOL

I am a doctor. My office hours are from eight-thirty in the morning to one in the afternoon. I take my time. Twenty minutes for each patient. Those twenty minutes are my unique selling point. Where else these days, people say, do you find a family doctor who gives you twenty minutes? And they pass it along. He doesn't take on too many patients, they say. He makes time for each individual case. I have a waiting list. When a patient dies or moves away, all I have to do is pick up the phone and I have five new ones to take his place.

Patients can't tell the difference between time and attention.

The Confabulist

Steven Galloway

From the author of the bestselling The Cellist of Sarajevo comes a spellbinding novel about Harry Houdini – the illusions, the intrigue and his shocking sudden death.

The world's gaze is focussed on the feats and daring of the amazing Harry Houdini, while not a soul is aware of down-and-out Martin Strauss. However, Strauss's fate is inextricably linked with the magician's, and as Houdini continues to rise, and Strauss continues to fall, their lives converge in spectacular and devastating fashion...

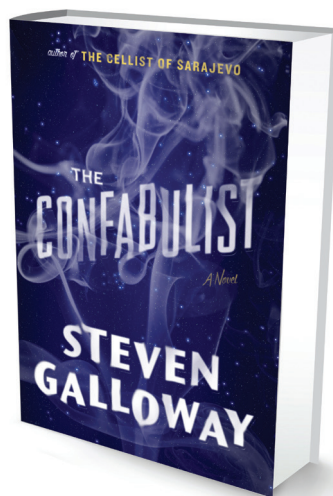

At once entertaining and suspenseful, historically rich and cleverly told, The Confabulist is a novel of magic and memory, truth and illusion. It uncovers the ways that love, hope, grief and imagination can – for better or for worse – alter who we are and what we believe.

Praise for The Cellist of Sarajevo:

'Heartbreaking' Guardian

'Marvellous' Daily Mail

'Gripping' J.M. Coetzee

The Incorrigible Optimists Club

Jean-Michel Guenassia

Translated from the French by Euan Cameron

European bestseller The Incorrigible Optimists Club is a truly lovable novel of growing up, idealism and disappointment.

Paris, 1959. Twelve-year-old Michel Marin – amateur photographer and compulsive reader – is drawn to the hum of the local bistro. It is less the grown-up world of rock ‘n’ roll and the Algerian War that interests him, more the huddle of men gathered in the shadows of a back room. Here, a group of eastern European men gather to share stories of their lives before France – of lovers and wives, children and ambitions, exiled behind the Iron Curtain. It is a world beyond the boundaries of Michel’s childhood experience, a world of men made formidable in the face of history, ideas and politics: the world of the Incorrigible Optimists Club.

‘Extraordinary... The Incorrigible Optimists Club feels as if you are witnessing the birth of a true, great novelist.’ Le Lire

‘Powerful, deep, sad and joyful... A debut novel of staggering mastery’ L’Express

‘A debut, a door-stopper, a masterpiece’
La Parisienne

Jean-Michel Guenassia was born in Algeria in 1950. He is a prolific screenwriter and lives in France.

The King and the Slave

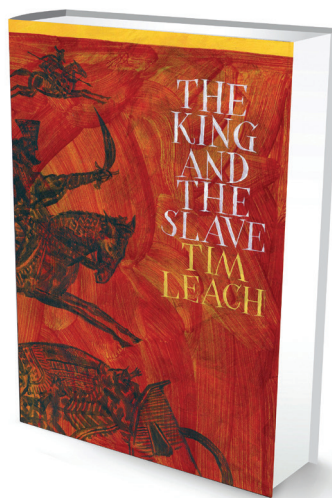

Tim Leach

When power falls on the shoulders of a callow young man, only his slave can teach him how to be an emperor. But power corrupts, and absolute power...

Ten years after the fall of Babylon, Cyrus's army is on the march again. His slave Croesus, no longer a young man, accompanies him as always, as does the king's son and heir Cambyses, who has inherited none of his father's diplomacy and all of his vanity and violence. When the warriors of Persia are unexpectedly crushed in battle Cyrus is put to death, and Cambyses assumes the throne. Croesus, once a king himself, is called upon to guide the young man; but the new king cannot be guided. After taking offence at an insult by an Egyptian ruler, Cambyses takes the full force of his empire to Africa to seek bloody and brutal vengeance.

Praise for The Last King of Lydia:

'An extraordinarily assured debut novel, bringing together fascinating research and storytelling talent' Tim Parks

Tim Leach is in his late twenties and lives in Sheffield. His first novel, The Last King of Lydia, was shortlisted for the Dylan Thomas Prize 2013. This is his second novel.

Volcano Street

David Rain

In the tradition of great Australian literature, Volcano Street is a wonderful portrayal of 1970s small-town life and the uncertainties of childhood.

When Skip and Marlo Wells' mother is sectioned, the sisters must move to the backwater city of Crater Lakes to stay with relatives. Skip puts her faith in her big sister, but even the ever-resourceful Marlo can't think of a solution when she is told sixteen is too old for school, so she must instead go to work in her uncle's shop.

The sisters dream of escape, but with no sign of their mother's release they resign themselves to their fate. As they are drawn into the lives of their new neighbours, it seems that Crater Lakes may not be as dull as it first appeared... Against the backdrop of a broken home, the Vietnam War and the fight for equality, Volcano Street is a heartfelt tale of acceptance and belonging.

Praise for The Heat of the Sun:

'This book captures the gaiety and tumult of a troubled age. But it is ultimately a novel of friendship, of love, and of lives' Irish Examiner

The Visitor

Maeve Brennan

A stunning novella from one of Ireland's finest and least-known writers, The Visitor is a literary masterpiece.

The Visitor tells the haunting tale of Anastasia King, who returns to her grandmother's house in Ireland after six long years in Paris. An exile in the place she once called home, Anastasia is forced to learn some bitter lessons in love and betrayal as the daily cruelties of family life begin to close in on her. The Visitor lays bare the destructive power of pride, and an emotionally unreachable side of the Irish temperament.

The revival of the work of Maeve Brennan has won her the reputation as one of the best Irish writers since James Joyce. The Visitor lay unknown and unpublished for sixty years. Now, this literary masterpiece is re-issued by Atlantic to give the work of Maeve Brennan the audience it deserves.

'A formidable phrase maker... She is constantly alert, sharp-eyed as a sparrow for the crumbs of human event' John Updike

'Brilliant... will be treasured by a new generation of readers' Sunday Times

'An astonishing miniature masterpiece'
Nuala O'Faolain

Maeve Brennan was born in Dublin in 1917 and moved to the United States in 1934. She wrote regularly for The New Yorker and died in obscurity in 1993.

Empty Mansions

The Mysterious Life of Huguette Clark and the Loss of One of the World's Greatest Fortunes

Bill Dedman and
Paul Clark Newell Jr

The New York Times number one bestseller

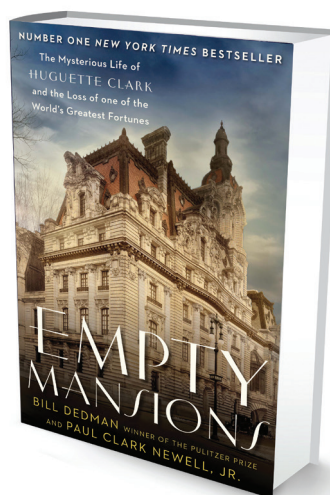

Empty Mansions is a rich mystery of wealth and loss, connecting the opulence of nineteenth-century America with a twenty-first-century battle over a $300 million inheritance. At its heart is a reclusive heiress named Huguette Clark, a woman who valued the privacy she guarded above all else. Though she owned palatial homes, why did she live for twenty years in a hospital room, despite being in excellent health? Was she in control of her fortune, or controlled by those managing her money?

This is an enthralling story of an eccentric of the highest order, a last jewel of the Gilded Age who lived life on her own terms.

'Hugely entertaining and well researched, Empty Mansions is a fabulous read.'

Amanda Foreman

'An amazing story of profligate wealth . . . an outsized tale of rags-to-riches prosperity'
New York Times

Bill Dedman received the 1989 Pulitzer Prize for Investigative Reporting while writing for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and has written for the New York Times, the Washington Post and the Boston Globe. Paul Clark Newell Jr, a cousin of Huguette Clark, has researched the Clark family history for twenty years.

The Iceberg

A Memoir

Marion Coutts

Beautifully written and full of unflinching truth, The Iceberg is a memoir that will leave an indelible mark on all who read it.

In 2008, Marion Coutts' husband, the art critic Tom Lubbock, was diagnosed with a brain tumour, and told that he had not more than two years to live. The tumour was located in the area of the brain that controls speech and language, and would eventually rob him of the ability to speak. Tom was fifty-three when he died, leaving Marion and their son, Eugene, just two years old, alone. Written in beautiful, textured prose, The Iceberg is Marion's description of the eighteen months leading to Tom's death. It is about staring death in the face and finding solace, even beauty and joy, in the experience of dying. It is a story of pain and sadness, but also an uplifting and life-affirming tale of great fortitude, courage, determination – and above all, love.

Marion Coutts is an artist and writer. She is a lecturer in Fine Art at Goldsmiths College and wrote the introduction to Tom Lubbock's memoir Until Further Notice, I am Alive, published by Granta in 2012. She lives in London with her son.

A Strange Business

Making Art and Money in Nineteenth-Century Britain

James Hamilton

From the author of the acclaimed biography of Turner comes a major new book on the art market in nineteenth-century Britain.

In A Strange Business, James Hamilton investigates the relationship between culture and business in nineteenth-century Britain. He explores how art was made and paid for, the turns of fashion, and the demands of a growing middle class, prominent among whom were the artists themselves.

While the leading figures of the art world are players here, so too are patrons, collectors and industrialists; lawyers, publishers and journalists; artists' suppliers, photographers and curators; shopkeepers and brothel keepers; quacks, charlatans and auctioneers. James Hamilton brings them all brilliantly to life and shows how this potent mix hurried the rapid growth of culture in Britain.

Praise for Turner: A Life:

'James Hamilton is an outstanding biographer. He reveals Turner's world for all its wild contradictions and, like Turner, brings to life what the eye cannot see.' Amanda Foreman

'A pleasure to read' A. S. Byatt, Sunday Express

James Hamilton is an art historian and biographer. Formerly Alistair Horne Fellow at St Antony's College, Oxford, he is University Curator and Honorary Reader in the History of Art at the University of Birmingham. His biography of Turner was shortlisted for the James Tait Black Memorial Prize.

Dove Among Hawks

How I Helped Shape the American War in Iraq

Emma Sky

The riveting first-hand account of a young British civilian woman who went to Iraq following the invasion in 2003, and found herself advising the future US Army chief of staff.

In 2003, shortly after the invasion of Iraq, Emma Sky volunteered to assist the Coalition Provisional Authority in the occupation. She was a Brit and a liberal. Shortly after her arrival, Sky moved in to a US Army compound, initially sleeping in a tent with seven soldiers, and soon won the confidence of top US military officials. Among them was General Odierno, now head of the US Army, who became a friend, confidant and mentor. Over the following seven years, Sky spent three extended periods in Iraq, becoming Odierno's key political advisor and finding herself at the heart of US operations during the volatile days of the Surge. This vivid account of the occupation of Iraq reveals what it was like to be a British woman at the heart of the US Army.

Emma Sky has worked at senior levels on behalf of the US and UK governments, in Iraq, Afghanistan and Jerusalem, within multiple civilian and military agencies. She was made an MBE in 2003 and an OBE in 2008 in recognition of her services in Iraq.

The Good Soldier

The Biography of Douglas Haig

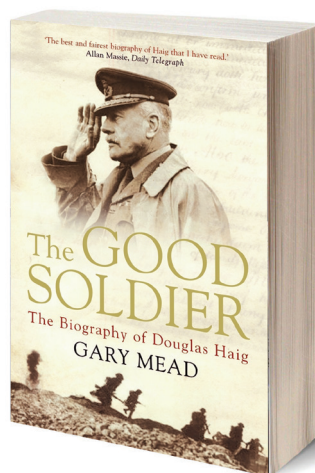

Gary Mead

To mark the centenary of the commencement of the First World War, Atlantic are re-issuing this evocative biography of Douglas Haig – one of the Great War's most controversial commanders.

Posterity has not been kind to Douglas Haig, the commander of the British Expeditionary Force on the Western Front for much of the First World War. Haig has frequently been cast as a commander who sent his troops to slaughter in vast numbers at the Somme in 1916 and at Passchendaele the following year.

The Good Soldier re-assesses Haig's record in these battles and examines with a fresh eye the most divisive decisions he made. More importantly, it evaluates Haig himself, exploring the nature of the man, turning to both his early life and army career before 1914. Finally, in this definitive biography, the man emerges from the myth.

'The best and fairest biography of Haig that I have read.' Allan Massie, Daily Telegraph

Gary Mead was a journalist for the Financial Times for ten years and has worked extensively with the BBC. He is the author of The Doughboys: America and the First World War (2000).

The Trials of Oscar Pistorius

John Carlin

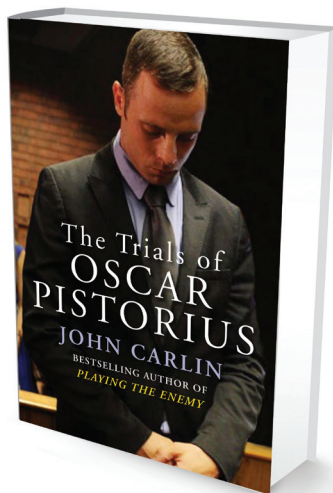

The sensational insider story of Oscar Pistorius, by the acclaimed author of Invictus.

The murder trial of Oscar Pistorius will rivet the world's attention in a way no other case has since another famous sportsman, O. J. Simpson, was tried for the murder of his ex-wife in 1994. John Carlin brings his own extensive knowledge of South Africa and unique access to Pistorius himself, including his friends and family, to tell the story of the rise and fall of a tragic hero.

It is the most remarkable sports story ever told – about a man whose legs were amputated at the age of eleven months and ended up running in the Olympic Games – and it is a story too about crime and punishment, love and death that has at its heart a compelling set of characters, among them the beautiful victim, two brilliant rival lawyers and the fascinating figure of Pistorius himself.

Praise for Invictus:

'Very few books match the historical sweep and world-shaking urgency of this one.'
Independent, 'Books of the Year'

John Carlin grew up in Argentina and in the UK and spent 1989–95 in South Africa as the Independent's correspondent there. His previous book, Invictus, was the basis for an Oscar-nominated Hollywood film directed by Clint Eastwood.

Today the symbol of family togetherness is a nuclear family gathered around a dinner table. Family breakdown is deemed visible in the millions of family members who eat individually, often in front of the television. Yet this picture of the family gathered around the dinner table was a novelty of modernity, and of times of plenty. Historically few sat around the family dining table for the simple reason that most households did not have tables, or enough chairs: in 18th century Pennsylvania, nearly one household in two did not possess a single table.

THE MAKING OF HOME

The Making of Home

Judith Flanders

The acclaimed author of The Victorian City and The Victorian House explores the history of the idea of home, how it has come to mean what it means to us and how our homes have come to be what they are.

‘There’s no place like home,’ says Dorothy in Oz. By 1900, this was a cliché, but two centuries before, it would have been incomprehensible. In The Making of Home, Judith Flanders tells the story of how the idea of ‘home’, a special and private place for families, developed economically, physically and emotionally.

By tracing the development of ordinary household items in northwestern Europe and the USA – of windows, of cutlery, even tables and chairs – Flanders shows how the idea itself was born and developed, dismantling many myths along the way. As full of fascinating detail as her bestselling The Victorian House, this is also a book teeming with original and provocative ideas.

Praise for The Victorian City:

‘Full of detail and colour about everyday life in Dickens’s London, and leaves you with a sense not only of how hard life was then, but how strange.’ Sebastian Faulks, Mail on Sunday, ‘Books of the Year’

‘Outstanding’ Sunday Times

Judith Flanders is the author of The Victorian House, Consuming Passions, A Circle of Sisters, The Invention of Murder and The Victorian City. She is a frequent contributor to the Sunday Telegraph, the Guardian, the Spectator and the TLS. Currently a senior research fellow at the University of Buckingham, she lives in London.

In 2014 the World Wide Web

By 2039 everyone alive will be online.

But has the unregulated digital market

THE INTERNET IS

is the solution to the crisis.

The Internet is Not the Answer

Why the Internet has Been an Economic, Political and Cultural Disaster – and How it Can be Transformed

Andrew Keen

In this controversial new book, Andrew Keen argues that the Internet has had a disastrous impact on all our lives.

There can be no doubt that the digital revolution has transformed the world, but, according to Andrew Keen, instead of making us more equal, more prosperous and more empowered, the reverse is actually true.

Twenty-five years on from the invention of the World Wide Web, its cultural, political, social and, above all, economic failures are becoming painfully apparent.

So what is to be done? Keen says we need to rethink the Web, revive government authority, rebuild the value of content, resurrect privacy and reconceive humanity. If we do nothing, he warns, this new technology will continue to impoverish us all.

HITCHENS

Why Religion is Immoral And Other Interventions

A new collection of Hitchens' sharpest unpublished interventions on religion – the subject that made him a household name.

The publication of god Is Not Great (2007), which was a worldwide bestseller, established Christopher Hitchens as one of the most famous polemicists in the world. The book caused a firestorm of debate and controversy, with its author at the centre, taking on all comers.

Why Religion is Immoral brings together Hitchens's most vigorous and memorable interventions in the debate that followed publication of god is Not Great, including 'Why Religion Poisons Everything', 'Is Islam a Religion of Peace?' and 'The Tyranny of Censorship'. It is essential reading.

Praise for god is Not Great:

'The anti-religion argument has never been put so well, so comprehensively or so definitively as in this razor-sharp book.'
A. C. Grayling, Independent on Sunday

'Easily the most brilliant and fascinating contemplation upon the role of religion in human society in recent times'
Kevin Myers, Irish Independent

Christopher Hitchens (1949–2011) was a contributing editor to Vanity Fair and the author of numerous books, including works on George Orwell, Mother Teresa, Henry Kissinger, and Bill and Hillary Clinton, as well as his international bestseller god Is Not Great. His memoirs Hitch-22 and Mortality were Sunday Times bestsellers.

‘Writing about Queen Victoria has been one of the most joyous experiences of my life. I have read thousands (literally) of letters never before published, and grown used to her as to a friend. Maddening? Egomaniac? Hysterical? A bad mother? Some have said so. What emerged for me was a brave, original woman who was at the very epicentre of Britain’s changing place in the world: a solitary woman in an all-male world who understood politics and foreign policy much better than some of her ministers; a person possessed by demons, but demons which she was brave enough to conquer. Above all, I became aware, when considering her eccentric friendships and deep passions, of what a loveable person she was.’

Victoria

A Life

A. N. Wilson

A majestic portrait of a monarch whose name defines a golden era in British history, told by one of Britain's finest biographers.

When Queen Victoria died in 1901, she had ruled for nearly sixty-four years. She was mother of nine and grandmother of forty-two, and the matriarch of Royal Europe. Her reign was the period when Britain rose, for a few decades, to be the most supremely powerful nation on earth, and Victoria is the embodiment of this golden age.

A. N. Wilson's far-reaching and exhaustively researched biography explores the circumstances that led to Victoria's coronation, her isolated childhood, her passionate marriage, Prince Albert's pivotal influence and her intimate friendship with John Brown. He sets this against the backdrop of this most momentous political and historical epoch in Britain – and Europe's – history.

Praise for Tolstoy:

'An outstanding biography... Wilson is an ideal biographer' Daily Mail

Praise for The Victorians:

'A masterpiece of popular history' Independent

'Wonderful' Sunday Telegraph

A. N. Wilson grew up in Staffordshire and was educated at Rugby and New College, Oxford. A Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, he holds a prominent position in the world of literature and journalism. He is a prolific and award-winning biographer and celebrated novelist.

Havel

A Life

Michael Zantovsky

On the 25th anniversary of the Velvet Revolution comes the remarkable biography of Václav Havel, the first president of the Czech Republic.

Václav Havel is an iconic figure: internationally successful playwright who became a political dissident then, reluctantly, a president. He played a pivotal role in the Velvet Revolution, the end of communism and the birth of the Czech Republic. A courageous visionary and a leader who inspired great loyalty, Havel remained wracked with self-doubt and ambivalent about his role on the world stage. Author Michael Zantovsky and Havel were fellow dissidents and lifelong friends; during Havel's first presidency Zantovsky was his press secretary, speech writer and translator. He is uniquely placed as Havel's biographer; a rare witness to a most extraordinary life.

Michael Zantovsky is the current Czech ambassador to the Court of St James. He was among the founding members of the movement that coordinated the overthrow of the communist regime. In January 1990, he became press secretary and advisor to his lifelong friend, President Václav Havel. Zantovsky has also authored fiction and translated into Czech many contemporary British and American authors.

Goldblatt's Descent

Michael Honig

A biting, brilliant, black tragicomedy of doctors, patients, lost hopes and last chances.

When Dr Goldblatt finds himself working in yet another dysfunctional, griping and back-stabbing hospital department, the temptation to press the self-destruct button begins to feel less like professional suicide and more like salvation.

Michael Honig trained in medicine and worked at a number of London's teaching hospitals. He lives in London with his wife and son.

The Madonna on the Moon

Rolf Bauerdick

Translated from the German by David Dollenmayer

'Dazzling, larger than life, exuberant... German literature has a powerful new voice.' Focus

A novel of immense charm, The Madonna on the Moon is a stunningly inventive tale of satellites and gypsies, theft and revenge, the burden of guilt and the desire for redemption; all told in glorious Technicolour by one of Europe's most exciting emerging talents.

Rolf Bauerdick was born in Germany in 1957. The Madonna on the Moon won the prestigious Prix du Livre Européen.

'Rolf Bauerdick is a natural born narrator. The fierce realism of his story spoils neither its magic nor its humour.' Der Spiegel

The Chef

Martin Suter

Translated from the German by Jamie Bullock

‘Sex, spices and arms dealing – a perfectly executed novel’
Le Monde

Maravan and Andrea have formed an unlikely business partnership – aphrodisiac-food catering. But when their new company begins to struggle, they are forced to enter into a much more unsavoury business, plunging them deep into an underworld where murder and sex feed otherwise unquenchable thirsts.

Martin Suter was born in Zurich in 1948. His novels have enjoyed huge international success and have been published in twenty-nine languages.

The Erl-King

Michel Tournier

Translated from the French by Barbara Bray

‘The most important book to come out of France since Proust’
New Yorker

The Erl-King is a magisterial tale of innocence, perversion and obsession. Following the passage of Abel Tiffauges from submissive schoolboy to adult misfit, it takes us into the dark heart of fascism, where Abel meets his strange fate in the collapsing ruins of the Third Reich.

Michel Tournier is one of France’s greatest living writers, winning the Prix Goncourt for The Erl-King in 1970.

‘No summary can suggest the rich texture, the dazzling profundity and creative vitality of this novel.’ Sunday Times

‘Tsiolkas writes with compelling clarity about the primal stuff that drives us all: the love and hate and fear of failure. He is also brilliant on the nuances of relationships. Some of the scenes in this novel about the hurt human beings inflict on each other are so painful that they chill the blood. At times, the prose is near to poetry... There are shades of Faulkner in this brilliant, beautiful book. If it doesn’t make you cry, you can’t be fully alive.’

Sunday Times

‘Tsiolkas is a master chronicler of the zeitgeist’

Guardian

‘Terrific’

The Times

‘This involving and substantial tale – surprisingly tender for all its swears and shock-value – is carried swiftly along by Tsiolkas’s athletic, often lyrical prose.’

Daily Mail

‘Unputdownable, a riveting rollercoaster of a novel’

Melbourne Age

‘Just too good to miss’

Barracuda

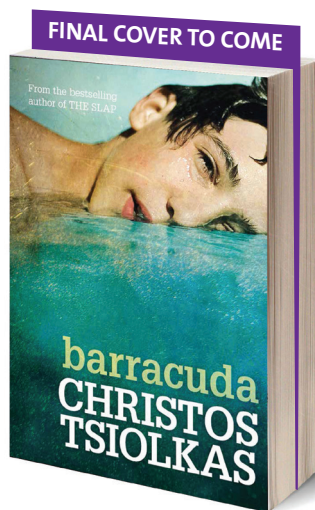

Christos Tsiolkas

An electrifying coming-of-age novel from the author of the phenomenal bestseller The Slap.

Daniel Kelly has one chance to escape his working-class upbringing. His astonishing ability in the swimming pool should transform his life and silence the rich boys at the private school to which he has won a sports scholarship. Everything Danny has ever done, every sacrifice his family has ever made, has been in pursuit of his dream. But when he melts down at his first big championships and comes only fifth, he turns on everyone around him and begins to destroy everything he has ever wanted.

‘Tsiolkas is a master chronicler of the zeitgeist... The words hurtle out as he depicts characters trapped between irreconcilable worlds... If The Slap was excellent material for a TV series, then Barracuda’s more substantial plot has all the hallmarks of a feature film.’

Guardian

Christos Tsiolkas is the author of The Slap, which won the Commonwealth Writer's Prize 2009 and was longlisted for the Man Booker Prize 2010. He lives in Melbourne.

Sword at Sunset

Rosemary Sutcliff

'Without doubt Rosemary Sutcliff is a historical writer of genius.' Guardian

For centuries the story of Arthur has been considered a myth. But Arthur was real – a man of towering strength who lived, fought and died for his impossible dream. In Sutcliff's now legendary re-telling, King Arthur is brought passionately to life.

Rosemary Sutcliff wrote more than forty historical novels for young adults. She died in 1992.

'I defy you to read this and not to be able to smell the moors and weep for the doomed king.' M.C. Scott

Before I Burn

Gaute Heivoll

Translated from the Norwegian by Don Bartlett

'One of the best Scandinavian crime books to reach our shores' Daily Telegraph

Gaute Heivoll's semi-autobiographical novel tells of a four-week period in 1978 when a pyromaniac ran amok in a close-knit community in rural Norway. Told from the perspective of the author, who was born at the time of the fires, it explores the darkness that can exist within us all.

Gaute Heivoll is the author of poetry, children's books, short stories and novels. He won the 2003 Tiden-prisen Prize.

Cataract City

Craig Davidson

The new novel by critically acclaimed Craig Davidson is at once a tough, visceral story of masculinity and a powerfully sensitive elegy to childhood friendship.

Owen Stuckey and Duncan Diggs are childhood friends who have grown to adulthood in the seemingly picturesque border city of Niagara Falls – a hardscrabble factory town known to locals as Cataract City. Both young men dream of escape, but as Duncan, the less privileged, is drawn into the city's underworld, he and Owen become reluctant adversaries on opposite sides of the law.

'Terrific... A superb, thoughtful and thoroughly entertaining novel that is, page-by-page, riveting and its prose flawless. Davidson is a seriously talented writer.' National Post

Craig Davidson is the author of the short-story collection Rust and Bone and the novel The Fighter. His work has been published by Esquire, GQ, the Paris Review and the Washington Post among others.

THE VESPASIAN SERIES

Masters of Rome

Robert Fabbri

The fifth instalment in the bestselling
Vespasian series: in the shadow of Stonehenge, an epic battle begins...

Britannia, AD 45. Vespasian's brother is captured by the druids. They want to offer a potent sacrifice to their gods – not just one Roman legate, but two. They know that Vespasian will come after his brother, and they plan to sacrifice the siblings on mid-summer's day.

Vespasian must strive to save his brother while completing the conquest of the south-west of the haunted isle, before he is drawn back to the heart of imperial politics in Rome. Claudius' three freedmen remain at the locus of power. As Messalina's time as Empress comes to a bloody end, the freedmen each back a different mistress. Which woman will be victorious? And at what price for Vespasian?

Chronicles of the Tempus

The Queen Alone

K. A. S. Quinn

The final instalment in the extraordinary time-travelling adventures of Katie Berger-Jones-Burg. A historical trilogy for 9–12 year olds.

Katie Berger-Jones-Burg is a lonely New York teenager. It's Christmas, and with her pop star mother away on a whirlwind tour, all is not well with Katie. She is having visions. She remembers.

Katie is needed in another time. In 1860 it's Christmas too. Princess Alice is helping her father Prince Albert with his endless stream of work while the rest of the family – including Queen Victoria – are enjoying the wonderful snow. But the merry royal family are under a shadow. There is a plot – both political and supernatural – to bring down the Queen.

A Britain without its Queen is weak, and where Britain stumbles, the rest of the world falls...

Cole and Hitch Series

Brimstone

Robert B. Parker

A stylish Western from bestselling grandmaster of crime Robert B. Parker, in which gunslingers Cole and Hitch ride again...

Gunslinging saddle pals Virgil Cole and Everett Hitch rescue Allie French, Virgil's former sweetie who ran off to become a prostitute, and head to Brimstone, south Texas. The two gunmen sign on as deputy sheriffs, but Brimstone fails to provide a quiet respite. A mysterious Indian is killing locals, and a brutal saloon owner and corrupt preacher are headed for a showdown...

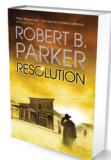

Virgil and Everett settle on a tricky solution that involves a talented tracker, a bribe, a double-cross, a noxious cloud of gun smoke and a pile of perforated bodies. The result is classic Parker – exciting, suspenseful and entertaining.

Praise for Robert B. Parker:

The DCI Rosen Series

What She Saw

Mark Roberts

A boy is locked in a burning car. David Rosen investigates. This terrifying thriller announces Roberts as a major new star.

David Rosen is scouring a crime scene for evidence. On a sink estate in Peckham, a boy was left to die inside a burning car. Above the wreckage is an exquisitely detailed graffiti image of a sinister eye. Behind it, mysterious markings are etched into the wall.

Eleven-year-old Macy Connor is the only witness. She appears to be observant, articulate – an innocent. But her version of events doesn't add up. Are darker forces at work among the children of the estate? Rosen must discover the truth before another attack takes place, and another soul is taken...

Praise for Mark Roberts:

'Intricate, fast paced, and with a protagonist I am sure we will hear more of, Roberts announces himself as a genuinely innovative crime writer with a taste for the macabre and unexpected' Daily Mail on The Sixth Soul

Mark Roberts has been a teacher for the last thirty years. He has received a Manchester Evening News Theatre Award for Best New Play. This is the second novel in the DCI Rosen series after his acclaimed debut, The Sixth Soul. Find out more at www.markrobertscrimewriter.com.

Return to Fourwinds

Elisabeth Gifford

From the author of Secrets of the Sea House comes the mystery of a runaway bride. For fans of Kate Morton and Katherine Webb.

One house. Two families. A lifetime of secrets...

At Fourwinds they gather: Alice and Jack, Patricia and Peter, to celebrate the marriage of their children. The marquee is on the lawn, breathing in and out in the summer heat. But the bride is nowhere to be seen.

As both families are drawn together, the past floods through the corridors of the house. What secret has Jack been keeping from his wife? What is it about Alice's wartime encounter with Peter that has haunted her ever since? And what could have caused the bride to vanish without a word to the people she loves?

Night after Night

Phil Rickman

From the hugely popular author of the Merrily Watkins mysteries comes a tale of reality television in a haunted house.

When a group of minor celebrities are thrown a lifeline – a new reality television programme set in a notoriously haunted house – they snap the opportunity up. But as they explore the shadowy old building, uncanny things start to happen. While the camera rolls, their orchestrated fear turns into terror as they realise not all of the happenings in the house are for effect...

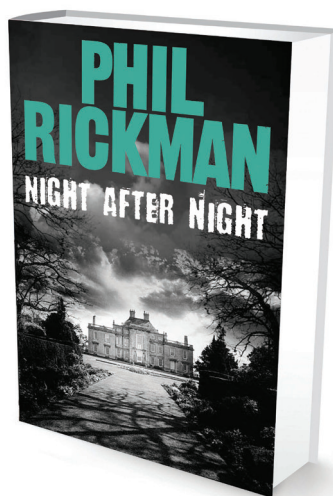

Praise for the Merrily Watkins series:

‘Compassionate, original and sharply contemporary, Rickman’s crime series is one of the best around’ Spectator

‘Ancient history, violent deaths, feuds, intrigue and murder. A most original sleuth’ The Times

‘Few writers blend the ancient and supernatural with the modern and criminal better than Rickman’ Guardian

‘First-rate crime with demons that go bump in the night’ Daily Mail

Phil Rickman lives on the Welsh border where he writes and presents the book programme Phil the Shelf on BBC Radio Wales. He is the acclaimed author of The Heresy of Dr Dee, The Bones of Avalon and the Merrily Watkins series.

Mother of Eden

Chris Beckett

A richly imagined, thought-provoking sequel to Dark Eden, winner of the Arthur C. Clarke award, 2013.

Generations after the break-up of the human family of Eden, the Johnfolk emphasise knowledge, the Davidfolk tradition. But both have built hierarchical societies sustained by violence and dominated by men – and both claim to be the favoured children of a woman from Earth that Eden knows as Gela, the mother of them all.

When Starlight Brooking meets a handsome man from across Worldpool, she believes he will offer an outlet for her ambition. But she has no idea that she will be a stand-in for Gela herself, and wear Gela's ring on her own finger...

The Good House

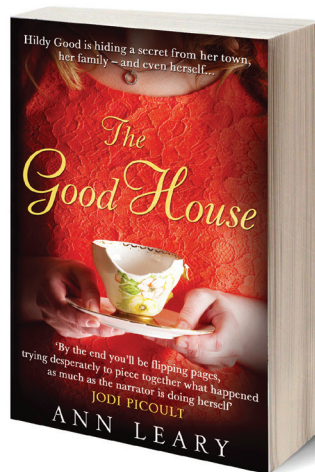

Ann Leary

A funny, poignant and revealing novel that's become a huge word-of-mouth hit in the US.

Hildy Good has reached that dangerous time in a woman's life – middle-aged and divorced, she is an oddity in her small but privileged town. But Hildy isn't one for self-pity and instead meets the world with a wry smile, a dark wit and a glass or two of Pinot Noir. When her grown-up children stage an 'intervention', she thinks the fuss being made is ridiculous. Why shouldn't she enjoy a drink now and then?

But we start to see another side to Hildy Good, and to her life's greatest passion. Soon, a cluster of secrets become dangerously entwined, with devastating consequences...

'The Good House creates a one-of-a-kind character in Hildy Good... By the end you'll be flipping pages, trying desperately to piece together what happened as much as the narrator is doing herself' Jodi Picoult

Ann Leary is the author of the memoir An Innocent, a Broad and the novel Outtakes from a Marriage and has written fiction and non-fiction for various magazines and literary publications. She lives on a small farm in Connecticut with her family, four dogs, three horses and an angry cat.

Save Yourself

Kelly Braffet

A stunning novel about power struggles and divided loyalties, and how one decision can alter the course of your life...

When Patrick Cusimano's alcoholic father kills a child in a hit-and-run, Patrick is faced with a terrible choice: turn him in or keep quiet. But can Patrick's brother, Mike, live with the choice that was made that night?

Layla Elshere was once a poster girl for purity. But when her evangelical father forces her to spearhead a campaign against her school, it compels her to question everything she's ever known. Verna loves her older sister Layla, but as events begin to spiral, Verna must make the hardest choice: save the person she loves most in the world – or save herself.

'One of those extraordinary books where the characters feel like living, breathing people. Dark and bleak yet so compelling' Erin Morgenstern

'You'll find yourself breathless, shaken, moved' Megan Abbott

Kelly Braffet was born in California and has lived in Arizona, rural Pennsylvania and Oxford, England. She is a graduate of Columbia University and Sarah Lawrence College, and has taught novel writing at the Sackett Street Writers' Workshop. She lives in New York with her husband, the writer Owen King.

The Starter House

Sonja Condit

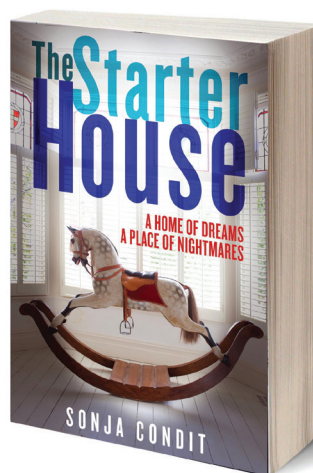

A home of dreams. A place of nightmares.

Lacey has longed for a home of her own all her life. When she views a dilapidated Victorian property on an exquisite tree-lined street, she falls in love. She believes that soon its beautiful sunlit rooms will be filled with the joy of the new family she will build there.

But the house doesn't want her. Beneath the dark stairway, at the bottom of the shadowy hall, there lies a secret: for decades, no child has survived this house, no woman has emerged anything less than broken. Lacey has made a mistake. Now she must fight to survive it – and to save those she loves most.

'Its haunting elements are inescapable... A promising start by a new author' Booklist

'I stayed up all night to finish The Amber Fury. It's gripping and compelling, a real page-turner, written with humanity and warmth.' S. J. WATSON

'Haynes' debut is not only a gripping, can't-stop-turning-pages thriller, but also a beautifully drawn portrait of grief and how we find our way back to life. Along the way, she offers a paean to Classics and teaching, perfectly capturing the fraught and funny rhythms of a challenging classroom. I loved it.'

The Amber Fury

Natalie Haynes

A dark mystery of a novel about loss, obsession and the deep, abiding human need to connect.

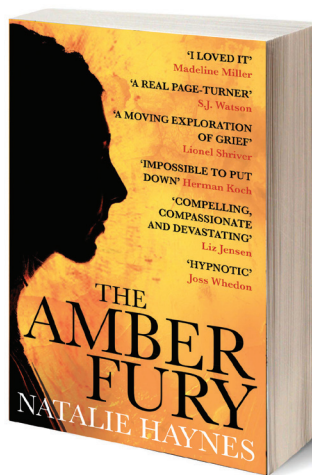

When Alex Morris loses her fiancé in dreadful circumstances, she moves from London to Edinburgh to make a break with the past. Alex takes a job at a Pupil Referral Unit, which accepts students excluded from other schools. These are troubled, difficult kids and Alex is terrified of what she's taken on.

There is one class – a group of five teenagers – who intimidate Alex. But with the help of the Greek tragedies she teaches, Alex gradually develops rapport with them. Finding them enthralled by tales of cruel fate and bloody revenge, she even begins to worry they are taking her lessons to heart, and that a whole new tragedy is being performed, right in front of her...

Gaddafi's Harem

The Story of a Young Woman and the Abuses of Power in Libya

Annick Cojean

Translated from the French by Marjolijn de Jager

An astonishing portrait of the essence of dictatorship.

A shocking and moving investigation into the hidden abuses perpetrated by Colonel Gaddafi, revealing the appalling private life of one of the twentieth century's most malevolent dictators.

Annick Cojean, foreign correspondent for Le Monde, is one of France's most widely admired journalists.

'An astonishing book.' The Sunday Times

'Gaddafi's political excesses have been well documented. His sexual crimes are only now coming to light. Annick Cojean opens the floodgates. Her account of a sex-obsessed tyrant exposes the full extent of Gaddafi's brutality.'

Sweet Sunday

John Lawton

Grove Press is pleased to be re-issuing this standalone novel from John Lawton, set in the tumultuous American summer of 1969.

Turner Raines is Mr Heartbreak. Everybody leaves him. They walk out, they run away... they die. When his oldest friend Mel Kissing dies with an icepick through his skull, Raines picks up the thread and sets out to ask 'who?' and 'why?'

But this is America in 1969 – a nation ripping itself apart, the middle of the Vietnam War – and one death is just a drop in the ocean. Raines' questions take him back to the childhood home he left in Texas, back to the battered remains of his youth... and as his memory unravels, America unravels with it.

'A sprawling heartbreaker of a novel.'

Literary Review

'A terrific job... excellent at catching the mood of that hot summer of 1969 when the Vietnam War had divided families.' Observer

Nick Lockett

John Lawton is the director of over forty television programmes, author of a dozen screenplays, several children's books, seven Inspector Troy novels and two standalones. Lawton's work has earned him comparisons to John le Carré and Alan Furst. Lawton lives in a remote hilltop village in Derbyshire.

The Tea Chest

Josephine Moon

A beautifully engaging novel set in the world of a boutique London tea shop.

Kate Fullerton, talented tea designer and now co-owner of The Tea Chest, never imagined that she'd be flying from Brisbane to London, risking her family's future, to save the business she loves from the woman who wants to shut it down.

Meanwhile, Leila Morton has lost her job; and if Elizabeth Clancy had known today was the day she would appear on the nightly news, she might at least have put on some clothes. Both need to start again.

When the three women's paths unexpectedly cross, they throw themselves into realising Kate's magical vision for London's branch of The Tea Chest. But every time success is within their grasp, increasing tensions damage their trust in each other.

With the very real possibility that The Tea Chest will fail, Kate, Leila and Elizabeth must decide what's important to each of them. Are they willing to walk away or can they learn to believe in themselves and each other?

'What a gloriously wonderful read, I loved it.'
Cathy Kelly

Josephine Moon lives with her husband and son, and their large and diverse animal family, in Queensland, Australia. She has a passion for horses, imported fine chocolate and gourmet teas.

Anzac Girls

An Extraordinary Story of World War One Nurses

Peter Rees

Now an ITV series, this is the profoundly moving story of the Australian and New Zealand nurses who served in the Great War.

By the end of the Great War, forty-five Australian and New Zealand nurses had died on overseas service and over two hundred had been decorated. These were women who left home looking for adventure and romance but were soon confronted with challenges for which their civilian lives could never have prepared them. Their strength and dignity were remarkable.

Using diaries and letters, Peter Rees takes us into the hospital camps and the wards and the tent surgeries on the edge of some of the most horrific battlefronts of human history. But he also allows the friendships and loves of these courageous and compassionate women to enrich their experiences, and ours.

Profoundly moving, Anzac Girls is a story of extraordinary courage and humanity shown by a group of women whose contribution to the Anzac legend has barely been recognised.

Peter Rees has been a journalist for forty years. He is the author of several books including Desert Boys and Lancaster Men. He lives in Canberra, Australia.

'Bleddyn Butcher has been taking pictures of me and my cohorts since I first got up on stage back in Australia right through to the shuddering present and some of these images are so familiar to me, so much a part of the fabric of my life, my little history, that much like the songs I have written, these photographs have become the props around which my memories collect. Without them so many of those days would be lost. Soul-stealer and dream-catcher – here he comes then – with his book of rescued moments.'

Nick Cave

A Little History

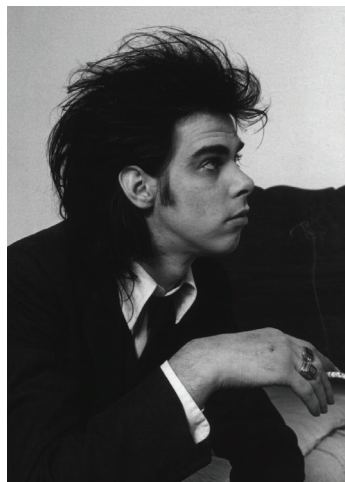

Photographs of Nick Cave and Cohorts 1981–2013

Bleddyn Butcher

An exquisite pictorial biography of one of today's most intriguing performers: Nick Cave.

In 1981, dazzled by Nick Cave's extraordinary talent, rock photographer Bleddyn Butcher started taking photos of Cave and his then band, punk darlings The Birthday Party. A long friendship began. With over one hundred carefully selected and many never-before-seen photographs, A Little History reflects the evolution of one of today's most original artists, burrowing beneath Cave's smouldering public persona to reveal the irrepressible humour that punctuates his private life.

One of rock's few singular personalities, Nick Cave's influence now extends far beyond music into the realms of film and literature. A Little History is the definitive portrait of a crucial artist.

Bleddyn Butcher

Bleddyn Butcher worked for NME throughout the 1980s, photographing musicians ranging from Alex Chilton and Joe Strummer to the Pixies and U2. His photographic work has appeared in most leading music journals and is included in the permanent collection of Australia's National Portrait Gallery in Canberra. He now lives in Sydney, Australia.

Nest

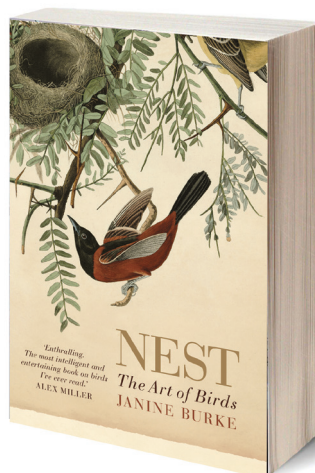

The Art of Birds

Janine Burke

Nest reveals both the art and mystery found in nature and celebrates them with lyricism, insight and great affection.

As an amateur naturalist and nature lover, Janine Burke, art historian and author, has spent many years observing birds. Nest is the story of her passion, a personal, wide-ranging and intimate book – part natural history, part folklore, part exploration of art and aesthetics, part memoir – that will appeal to all those who love nature, literature and art.

In the tradition of Longitude, Cod or The Cello Suites, Nest is a short education that encompasses celebration and theory, investigation and memoir, the familiar and the revelatory – as surprising and enticing as any beautiful, intricately constructed nest.

Janine Burke is an art historian, biographer, novelist and freelance curator. Her books include Joy Hester, Australian Gothic: A Life of Albert Tucker, The Heart Garden: Sunday Reed and Heide and The Gods of Freud: Sigmund Freud's Art Collection, the internationally acclaimed survey of Freud's personal collection.

Broken Nation

Australians in the Great War

Joan Beaumont

The first book to bring together all the dimensions of Australia's role in the First World War.

The Australian experience of war in all its complexity – from the home front as well as the battlefield – as the men and women who experienced it chose to understand and remember it.

Joan Beaumont is Professor of History at the Strategic and Defence Studies Centre, Australian National University.

First Footprints

The Epic Story of the First Australians

Scott Cane

First Footprints* tells the largely unknown and captivating story of Australia's remarkable heritage.

Based on the ABC television series, this is the extraordinary story of how the Aboriginal people of Australia made their way out of Africa 60,000 years ago and how they were able to survive across a vast continent, from the harsh deserts of the inland to the glaciers of southern Tasmania.

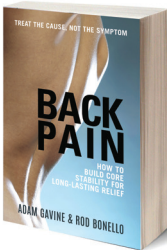

Scott Cane is a consultant archaeologist and anthropologist who has lived and worked throughout Australia. He has spent long periods of time with desert people, including some of the last hunter-gatherers on earth.

Back Pain

Treat the Cause, Not the Symptom

Adam Gavine and Rod Bonello

A self-help guide for sufferers of back pain who want long-lasting relief.

If you are looking for long-lasting relief from your back pain, or to avoid back problems, it's essential to treat the cause, not just the symptom. This book explains how to develop core muscle strength and stability, and provides simple exercises that can be done at home.

Adam Gavine and Rod Bonello are both highly experienced chiropractors. Gavine represented Canada in decathlon and Bonello is the president of the Chiropractic and Osteopathic College of Australasia.

Tsunami and the Single Girl

One Woman's Journey to Become an Aid Worker and Find Love

Krissy Nicholson

A heartfelt and surprising adventure set against the backdrop of adrenalin-fuelled disaster response.

One woman's life as an international aid worker and her (seemingly) never-ending search for Mr Right in some of the world's most dangerous disaster zones.

Krissy Nicholson works for Plan International as the Water, Sanitation and Hygiene Program Manager with a focus on Africa.

The Last Days of the National Costume

Anne Kennedy

A charming and heart-warming novel about illicit love, sewing, blackouts and Belfast.

A five-week blackout brings a city to its knees, and a drama to GoGo Sligo's doorstep. A lover, a wife and finally the cheating husband all come to claim a vintage Irish costume that GoGo's been mending. She doesn't want to like the guilty husband, but can't resist being drawn into the enticing web of his deceit.

Anne Kennedy is a well-known and award-winning poet. She lives between Auckland and Honolulu.

Twins

A Practical Guide to Parenting Multiples from Conception to Preschool

Katrina Bowman and Louise Ryan

A user-friendly guide to having and parenting more than one baby or toddler at the same time.

When Katrina and Louise discovered they were having twins, both had the same thought once they recovered from the shock: buy a book that explains what to expect in order to get organized and prepare, emotionally and physically, for the anticipated upheaval to their lives. When they couldn't find such a text, they decided to write it themselves.

Katrina Bowman and Louise Ryan both have active roles in the main support network for twin parents (AMBA).
