The Atlantic Books fiction list has a reputation for publishing high-quality innovative voices from around the world. Spring 2017 welcomes new authors Affinity

Konar and Ethel Rohan, and celebrates returning authors Allegra Goodman and Meena Kandasamy.

Mischling

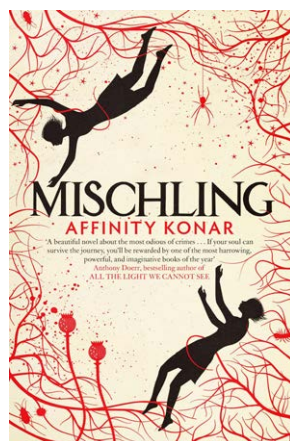

Affinity Konar

An astonishing, bold, lyrical imagining of Auschwitz and those small moments of hope and beauty that light the dark.

It's 1944 when twin sisters Pearl and Stasha arrive at Auschwitz. They take refuge in their identical natures, comforting themselves with the private language and shared games of their childhood, all under the watchful eye of Josef Mengele...

Defying all expectations and traversing one of the darkest moments in human history, Mischling shows us the way toward ethereal beauty, moral reckoning and soaring hope.

'Mischling is a paradox. It's a beautiful novel about the most odious of crimes, it's a deeply-researched act of remembrance that somehow carries the lightness of a fairy tale, and it's a coming-of-age story about children who aren't allowed to come of age. If your soul can survive the journey, you'll be rewarded by one of the most harrowing, powerful, and imaginative books of the year.' Anthony Doerr, author of All the Light We Cannot See

Affinity Konar was raised in California. She is a graduate of Columbia University's MFA programme.

The French Art of War

Alexis Jenni

Translated from the French by Frank Wynne

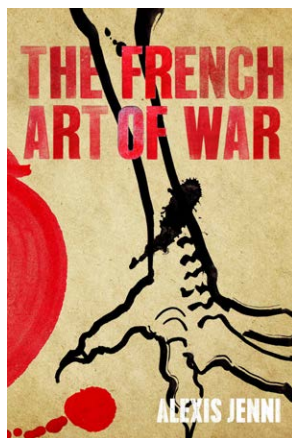

The Goncourt Prize-winning novel about the intervals of peace and the moments of unspeakable savagery in French wars spanning half the world and half a century.

It was the beginning of the Gulf War. Everything was going wrong in my life. I just awaited the end. But then I met Victorien Salagnon, a veteran of the great colonial wars, a commander who had led his soldiers across the globe, a man with the blood of others up to his elbows. He said he would teach me to paint; in return, he wanted me to write his life story. And so he talked, and I wrote, and through him I witnessed the rivers of blood that cut channels through France, I saw the deaths that were as numberless as they were senseless and I began finally to understand the French art of war.

‘A masterpiece’ Frédéric Beigbeder, Le Figaro

‘Complex and profound’ Le Monde

‘A masterpiece’ Le Magazine Littéraire

Alexis Jenni is a French novelist and biology teacher. His debut novel, The French Art of War, won the 2011 Prix Goncourt. He lives in Lyon.

The Chalk Artist

Allegra Goodman

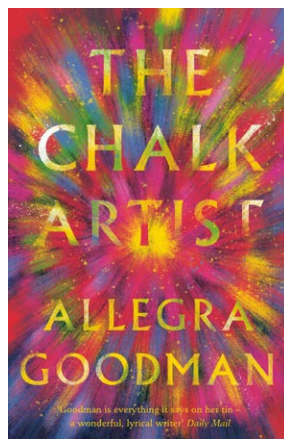

A New York Times bestselling novelist, Goodman tackles love, obsession and alternate realities in this gritty and thought-provoking novel.

Aidan lives with his mother and sister in a small American town, which is dominated by the Arkadia gaming company. By day Aidan is a normal teenager. By night he is a champion fighter in Arkadia's all-encompassing EverWhen game. When Aidan is sent a console that physically transports him into EverWhen's gaming realm, his grasp on normality falters.

Nina, Aidan's teacher and the daughter of Arkadia's owner, wants to help the troubled boy. But the love of her life, Collin, is also being pulled into the clutches of EverWhen. When obsession overpowers everyone, they must each choose where their reality lies.

Praise for Intuition

'A thriller and a page-turner... Brilliant'
Lionel Shriver

Allegra Goodman studied at Harvard University and received a PhD in English literature from Stanford. She is the recipient of a Whiting Writers' Award, Salon Book Award for Fiction, and a fellowship from the Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study. She lives with her family in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

When I Hit You

Or, A Portrait of the Writer as a Young Wife

Meena Kandasamy

Informed and inspired by her own experiences, Kandasamy's second novel is a dazzling and provocative novel of an abusive marriage.

Seduced by politics and poetry, the unnamed narrator falls in love with a university professor and agrees to be his wife, but what for her is a contract of love is for him a contract of ownership. As he sets about reducing her to his idealized version of a kept woman, bullying her out of her life as an academic and writer in the process, she attempts to push back – a resistance he resolves to break with violence and rape.

Praise for The Gypsy Goddess

'Dazzling, maddening, often hilarious... Kandasamy's in-your-face narrative is unashamedly tricky but handled with sublime confidence.' The Times

'Powerful... The Gypsy Goddess has a lyrical, radical core, which offers bold perspectives on the relationship between poverty and power.' Guardian

The Weight of Him

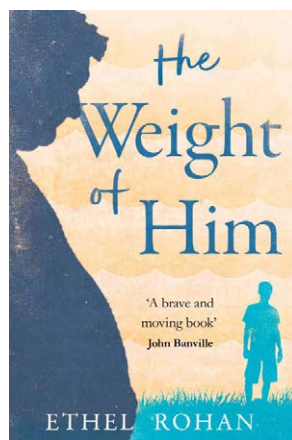

Ethel Rohan

How do you carry on, when you lose someone you love? A poignant, inspiring novel that tackles obesity and suicide, with heart.

Billy Brennan has suffered the greatest tragedy a parent can know – he has lost his eldest son. His family is falling apart with grief, and his marriage is a partnership in name alone. Billy is also obese: at 400 pounds, he can barely walk down the street without breaking a sweat. In his small Irish town, he can't escape notoriety.

So Billy decides to take on the two things weighing him down the only way he knows how. He's going to get fit, and in doing so he's going to tell the world about the terrible plague of suicide haunting the youth of Ireland.

'Ethel Rohan shows herself to be one of those rare, courageous writers who dare to take on the 'ordinary' and show just how extraordinary it really is. A brave and moving book.' John Banville

Ethel Rohan, Dublin-born and living in San Francisco, writes for the New York Times, PEN America, and the Irish Times, among others. She won the 2013 Bryan MacMahon Short Story Award, was longlisted for the Edge Hill Short Story and The Story Prizes, and shortlisted for the Cúirt New Writing, Roberts, and Bristol Short Story Prizes.

Atlantic Books has consistently published a bold, prize-winning non-fiction list. Spring 2017 sees new books from defining modern authors and commentators such as Tim Wu, Andrew Keen and Steve Richards.

Look At You Now

One Girl's Journey from Shame to Strength

Liz Pryor

For fans of Girl, Interrupted, this is a heart-breaking, tender and riveting memoir about a lifelong secret and a girl finding strength in the most unlikely place.

In 1979, Liz Pryor, a good girl from a privileged Chicago family, discovered that she was pregnant. Only 17, her parents decided to keep this shameful event secret, and sent her to live in a locked state facility for delinquent pregnant girls until the birth.

Alone and isolated, Liz developed a surprising bond with the other girls, leading her to question everything she once held true. Told with tenderness, humour and candour, Look At You Now is a deeply moving coming-of-age story that pays tribute to the triumph of the human spirit and the transcendent power of friendship in the toughest of times.

'I devoured this in one sitting... a compelling memoir [and] a tender and finely executed meditation on daughterhood and forgiveness.'

Julia Forster, author of What a Way to Go

Liz Pryor's first book, What Did I Do Wrong? was a Books for a Better Life Award finalist. In 2011, Liz was chosen from among 15,000 applicants to become ABC's Good Morning America life advice guru. Liz lives in Los Angeles.

The Attention Merchants

From the Daily Newspaper to Social Media, How Our Time and Attention is Harvested and Sold

Tim Wu

A revelatory look at the rise of the 'attention merchants', the advertising marketeers who unknowingly influence and control our consumption.

It is no coincidence that ours is a time afflicted by the widespread sense of attentional crisis, at least in the West. In nearly every moment of our waking lives, we face a barrage of advertising enticements, branding efforts and sponsored social media; the end result of more than a century's growth and expansion in the industries that feed on human attention.

Tim Wu tells the story of the rise of the Attention Merchants, and reveals how the defining industries of our time are changing our nature – cognitive, social, and otherwise – in ways unimaginable even a generation ago.

Praise for The Master Switch

'Wu is the rare writer capable of exhuming history and also interpreting current affairs... he excels at both.' New Scientist

Merchants of Men

How Kidnapping, Ransom and Trafficking Funds Terrorism and ISIS

Loretta Napoleoni

A groundbreaking exploration of a new criminal breed funding terrorist activities in the Middle East through kidnapping, ransom and trafficking.

A new breed of criminals has risen from the post-9/11 political chaos and the Arab Spring, coupled with the destabilization of Syria and the rise of ISIS. The ever-increasing political volatility has provided new business opportunities, from trafficking millions of refugees to selling Western hostages to jihadist groups.

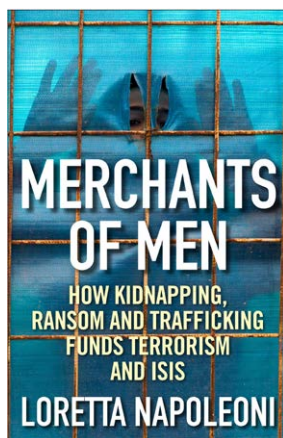

The kidnapping industry in the Middle East is now worth billions of dollars annually. Loretta Napoleoni's exclusive, meticulous research into the business of kidnap and ransom, and its link to terrorist activity, is based on first-hand accounts, and provides a fascinating and eye-opening exploration of this most shocking of financial interdependencies.

Praise for Insurgent Iraq

1941

Fighting the Shadow War: How Britain and America Came Together for Victory

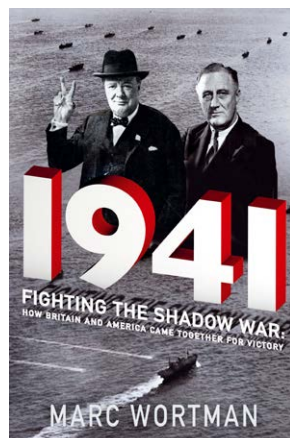

Marc Wortman

The thrilling and little-known story of America's clandestine involvement in the Second World War before Pearl Harbor.

Combining military and political history, 1941 reveals how President Roosevelt concocted ingenious ways to come to Churchill's aid and help Britain fight the Nazis, while having to contend with a population that was unwilling to enter a foreign war.

Waging undeclared war in the Atlantic, conducting espionage at home and in South America to root out Nazi sympathizers and launching Lend-Lease to provide supplies to the Allies, were just some of the tactics with which America was able to battle Hitler in the shadows. By telling the story through the eyes of the powerful as well as ordinary citizens, Wortman skilfully unfolds the events of that crucial year.

'Engrossing... an absorbing worldwide epic... Wortman's brisk narrative takes us across nations and oceans with a propulsive vigor that speeds the book along like a good thriller.'
Wall Street Journal

Marc Wortman is an independent historian, an award-winning freelance journalist, and the author of two previous books, The Millionaires' Unit: The Aristocratic Flyboys Who Fought the Great War and Invented American Air Power and The Bonfire: The Siege and Burning of Atlanta.

The Memory Code

Unlocking the Secrets of the Lives of the Ancients
and the Power of the Human Mind

Dr Lynne Kelly

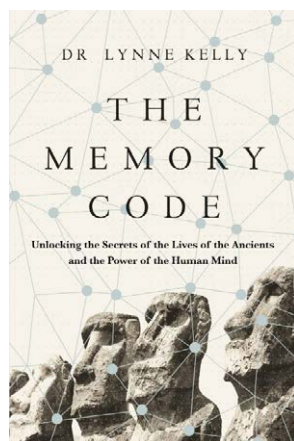

This groundbreaking new book reveals the powerful ancient memory technique that solves the mystery behind monuments like Stonehenge, which have for so long puzzled archaeologists.

The stone circles across Britain and northern Europe, the elaborate stone houses of New Mexico, huge animal shapes in Peru, the statues of Easter Island – these all serve as the most effective memory system ever invented by humans. They allowed people in non-literate cultures to memorize the vast amounts of information they needed to survive. But how?

For the first time, Lynne Kelly reveals the purpose of these monuments and their uses as ‘memory places’, and shows how we can use this ancient technique to train our minds.

‘An intriguing and highly original account of the purpose of Stonehenge, Avebury and other stone monuments.’ Ros Cleal, author of Stonehenge in its Landscape

‘Takes the reader on a fascinating journey into the past and around the world... An engaging and exciting read.’ Iain Davidson, Emeritus Professor, University of New England

Dr Lynne Kelly is a science writer and an honorary research associate at La Trobe University.

Mail Men

The Story of the Daily Mail – the Paper that Divided and Conquered Britain

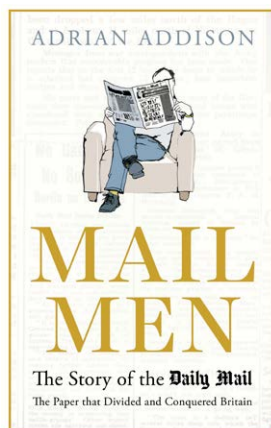

Adrian Addison

1.8 million read it, many millions more hate it. Get the unauthorized inside scoop on Britain's most controversial daily.

From its founding by the Harmsworth brothers in 1896, to turning 'compact' in 1971 and becoming the world's biggest newspaper website in 2011, Mail Men explores the rise and rise of the Daily Mail, Britain's most profitable newspaper.

Charting the controversy that has always dogged the publication – from its flirtation with fascism in the 1930s to its fractious relationship with celebrities today, Addison explains how the divisive paper has shaped British journalism and, indeed, Britain itself.

With colourful portraits of rambunctious life behind the masthead, Mail Men includes fascinating biographical details of key figures in the history of the paper – including idiosyncratic boss Paul Dacre, unrivalled moral arbiter for Middle England and the highest paid newspaper editor in the UK.

Adrian Addison is a freelance journalist. He has worked as a staff reporter for the News of the World and The Sun, as the news editor on the Today programme and as an investigative reporter on the BBC's Six O'Clock News. He lives in Barcelona.

The Crash Detectives

Investigating the World's Most Mysterious
Air Disasters

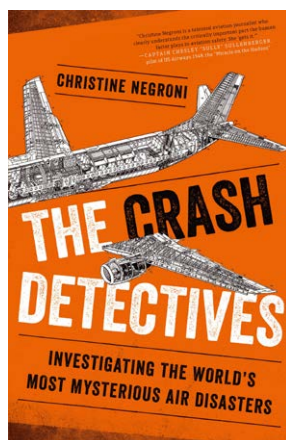

Christine Negroni

A fascinating exploration of how humans and machines fail – leading to air disasters from Amelia Earhart to MH370 – by a former crash investigator.

In this captivating book, Christine Negroni takes the reader inside crash investigations from the early days of the jet age to the present, including the search for answers about what happened to the missing Malaysia Airlines Flight 370.

Tying in aviation science, performance psychology, and extensive interviews with pilots, engineers, human factors specialists, crash survivors, and others involved in accidents all over the world, The Crash Detectives is an alternately terrifying and inspiring book that might just cure your fear of flying, and will definitely make you a more informed passenger.

'The evolution of air safety is rooted in catastrophe. Christine Negroni pulls back the curtain on the people, the places, and the tragedies that have shaped this process over the decades – an unflinching look at a system that most of us take for granted.' Patrick Smith, bestselling author of Cockpit Confidential

Christine Negroni is a journalist, aviation blogger, documentary producer and crash investigator who has more than fifteen years' experience observing and participating in the international effort to create safer skies. She currently reports for the New York Times, ABC News and Air & Space.

The Earth is Weeping

The Epic Story of the Indian Wars for the American West

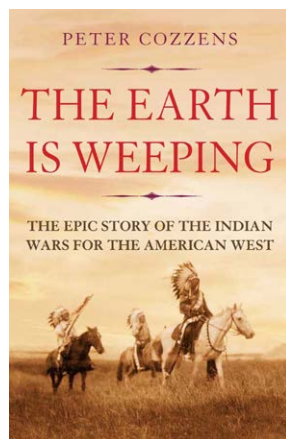

Peter Cozzens

A magisterial history of the struggle between whites and Native Americans over the fate of the West.

In a sweeping narrative, Peter Cozzens tells the story of the wars and negotiations that destroyed native ways of life as the American nation continued its expansion onto traditional tribal lands after the civil war.

Cozzens brings a fascinating cast of characters to life, including Custer, Sherman, Grant, and a host of other military and political figures, as well as great native leaders such as Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, Geronimo and Red Cloud. For the first time, The Earth Is Weeping brings them all together in the fullest account to date of how the West was won – and lost.

'Peter Cozzens, one of our finest working historians, has taken on a massive chunk of Native American history and delivered it with power, style, and insight. He is above all a great storyteller.' S. C. Gwynne, author of Empire of the Summer Moon

Peter Cozzens is the author or editor of sixteen acclaimed books on the American Civil War and the Indian Wars of the American West, and a member of the Advisory Council of the Gilder Lehrman Lincoln Prize.

Cartel Wives

How an Extraordinary Family Brought Down El Chapo and the Sinaloa Drug Cartel

Anonymous

An astonishing, revelatory memoir from two women, now in FBI protective custody, who transformed their lives when they escaped El Chapo's international drug cartel.

The authors of this fast-paced, heartfelt memoir are married to the highest-level drug traffickers ever to become US informants. Their husbands, twin brothers, worked with – and then brought down – El Chapo, as well as dozens of high-level members of the Mexican cartels. They had everything money could buy, but chose to give it all up for their children's future when they cooperated with the US government. A love story that lifts the veil on a highly dangerous, secretive world in a way no one else could, it is both an insider's look into the terrifying empire of the new world of drugs and a moving story of redemption and justice against all odds.

The two women who wrote this book live under assumed names. To their neighbours they're just single mothers, soccer moms and members of the PTA, but their past is better than fiction.

Bullish

The Dramatic Story of Red Bull and its Billionaire Owner

Jennifer Booton

Published to coincide with the thirtieth anniversary of the company, discover how Red Bull grew its wings.

With a flavour likened to cough syrup, and no Western market for the product, the prospects for Red Bull did not look promising. But, in just thirty years, it has become one of the biggest and most successful brands in the world.

In this revealing account, Jennifer Booton explores how iconoclast Dietrich Mateschitz carved out a market for a product no one wanted, eschewing mass advertising, instead building his brand through sponsorship of high octane sports – from Formula One racing and football teams to record-breaking skydives from space.

A rare insight into the idiosyncratic and private billionaire who collects vintage military jets and owns his own private island in Fiji, this is the story of how one man revolutionized business and branding, courting substantial controversy along the way.

Jennifer Booton writes for Market Watch and the Wall Street Journal and is among the top ten most-read journalists across the WSJ's digital properties. She is an extreme sports enthusiast.

The Rise of the Outsiders

The Anti-Establishment and its March to Power

Steve Richards

Discover why outsiders from Donald Trump to Jeremy Corbyn are succeeding like never before – and what this means for you.

Throughout the West, people are angry and rejecting the political establishment. Outsiders are getting closer to the levers of power. Britain leaves the EU. Trump promises walls in America. Corbyn promises a new socialism in the UK. Nationalism rises in Europe. Why has the mainstream lost support? Why are the outsiders flourishing? Do they have the answers to our problems?

Telling the riveting (and often worrying) story of how a group of eccentrics, ideologues and strong men are breaking the political rules, Steve Richards asks why they're gaining ground and examines the implications of the defining political phenomenon of our times.

'Steve Richards is quite simply one of the best in the business.' John Kampfner

'Easily one of our best commentators.' David Aaronovich

Steve Richards is a political columnist, journalist and presenter. He presents Week in Westminster on BBC Radio Four among other programmes on BBC radio and television. He writes for several national newspapers and was formerly chief political reporter at the Independent and political editor at the New Statesman.

Akram's War

Nadim Safdar

A provocative, timely and powerful debut novel about the radicalization of a young Birmingham-born Muslim.

Delicately drawn, Akram's War is an honest and shocking kaleidoscopic portrait of contemporary Britain. Centring on one young, damaged, man, it details his seemingly inexorable journey towards radicalization, and the ways the twists and turns of fate can scar and mark a life.

Nadim Safdar was named one of 2015's 'new faces of fiction' in the Observer on Sunday.

Nadim Safdar grew up in the Black Country. He is married with three children and lives in London.

Nine Folds Make a Paper Swan

Ruth Gilligan

'Reminiscent of Téa Obreht, Nicole Krauss and Maggie O'Farrell... Wonderful' Colum McCann

A gorgeous and inventive literary novel about putting down roots in unfamiliar soil; about falling in love so deep that it is impossible to climb back out again; and about how tradition and tales are born, nurtured and handed from one generation to the next.

'I loved this beautifully written and elegantly managed novel and was sorry when it ended.' Joseph O'Connor

Ruth Gilligan is an Irish novelist and journalist. Her books have been national bestsellers and she writes regularly for the Irish Times.

The Midnight Watch

David Dyer

A gripping novel, meticulously researched, about the ship that failed to help the Titanic.

April 1912. The Titanic slowly sinks, causing 1,500 souls to perish. The SS Californian, close enough to help, does nothing; her crew insist that they saw nothing. As news of the disaster spreads, one journalist's search for the truth will either redeem the men of the Californian, or destroy them.

'Historical fiction at its best.' Antonia Senior, The Times

'Passionate and gripping' Financial Times

David Dyer teaches English literature in Sydney, previously working as a lawyer and a ship's officer. This is his first novel.

Conrad & Eleanor

Jane Rogers

An intricate and revealing portrait of a marriage as it unravels in midlife crisis.

When Conrad fails to return home one evening, his wife Eleanor guesses he may at last be reacting to their stagnating marriage, and the fallout from one summer twenty-five years ago. But Conrad is alone, scared and trying to save his family.

'Her observation of our species is tender, precise, illuminating.'

Hilary Mantel

'A really clever, reflective and dispassionate scrutiny of a marriage in trouble.' Daily Mail

Jane Rogers has published eight novels, written and adapted television and radio drama, and been awarded the Somerset Maugham Award, among others.

Infinite Ground

Martin MacInnes

A luminous debut of modern alienation, of the sinister beauty of the human body and of the enduring splendour of the natural world.

Carlos has disappeared. An experienced, semi-retired inspector takes the case, but what should be a routine investigation becomes something sinister. As the inspector retraces the missing man's footsteps, the trail leads him deep into the country's rainforest interior, where he encounters both horror and wonder.

'A brave new voice' Jenni Fagan

'Stunning. I doubt you've read anything quite like it.' Jeff VanderMeer

Martin MacInnes was born in Inverness in 1983. His work has featured in The White Review among other journals. Infinite Ground is his first novel.

Goodnight, Beautiful Women

Anna Noyes

A dark and brilliant debut collection of short stories by a gifted young author.

With breathtaking control and distinct, lucid prose, Noyes has produced a mesmerizing collection. Set on the rural coast of Maine, imbued with the region's overcast beauty, and depicting small towns and even smaller domestic circles, these are gorgeously unclassifiable, hypnotic stories.

'Noyes' achievement here is nothing less than a high-wire act: precise, fearless, breathtaking... [a] sensuous and startling debut.' Téa Obreht

Anna Noyes' fiction has appeared in VICE, A Public Space and Guernica, among others. Goodnight, Beautiful Women received the 2013 Henfield Prize for Fiction.

Snowball in a Blizzard

The Tricky Problem of Uncertainty in Medicine

Steven Hatch

A captivating discussion of why our overconfidence in medicine can be more deadly than any disease.

Covering everything from the efficacy of Prozac to the barrage of media-driven health advice, this landmark book explains that although medicine has reached new levels of scientific prowess, it is bedevilled by uncertainty that cannot be eliminated – which we need to accept rather than fight.

‘Wonderfully user-friendly. Like a conversation with a doctor that you’d trust with your life.’ Ray Tallis, author and former University of Manchester Professor of Medicine

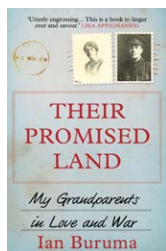

Steven Hatch is an assistant professor of medicine at the University of Massachusetts Medical School, a practising physician and clinical consultant.

Arminius

The Limits of Empire

Robert Fabbri

A stunning stand-alone Roman historical epic from the author of the bestselling Vespasian series.

A.D. 9: In the depths of the Teutoburg Wald, Arminius of the Cherusci led a confederation of six Germanic tribes in the annihilation of three Roman legions. Deep in the forest almost 20,000 men were massacred without mercy. To Rome's shame, three sacred Eagles were lost that day.

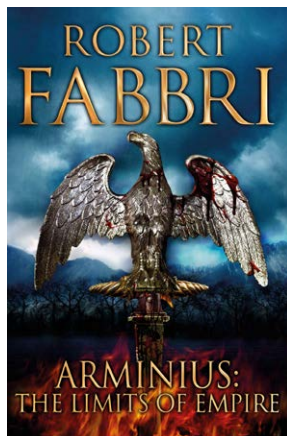

But Arminius wasn't brought up in Germania Magna – he had been raised as a Roman. This is the story of how Arminius came to turn his back on the people who raised him and went on to commit a betrayal so great and so deep, it echoed through the ages.

Praise for the Vespasian series

Everything You Told Me

Lucy Dawson

An utterly gripping female-focused suspense novel, from the bestselling author of His Other Lover.

Saturday morning, dawn. Mother-of-two Sally finds herself on a cliff top, miles away from home. The place is familiar but the journey is a blank. She's lost the last ten hours of her life.

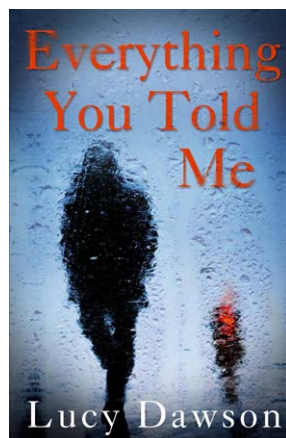

To all appearances, Sally was there to jump. She had nothing on her apart from a suicide note when the local police took her in. But Sally knows she would never leave her children behind...

Which leaves the question: who has done this to her? And who would believe Sally if she told?

Praise for You Sent Me a Letter

The Merrily Watkins Series

All of a Winter's Night

Phil Rickman

A medieval legend spawns an unhealthy cult in the chilling eleventh instalment of the Merrily Watkins series.

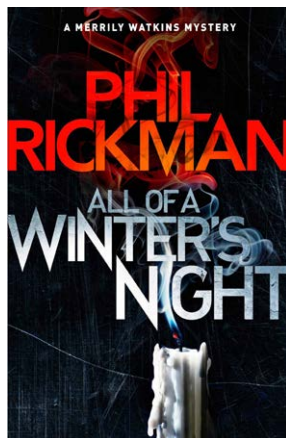

It's already a fraught time for Merrily Watkins, her future threatened by a bishop committed to restricting her role. Meanwhile, DI Frannie Bliss must confront the growth of organized crime which is contaminating the Hereford countryside, where the old ways are at war with the modern world.

As the days shorten and the fog gives way to ice and snow, Merrily is drawn into a conflict centred, it seems, on one of Britain's most famous medieval churches.

Praise for the Merrily Watkins series

'Compassionate, original and sharply contemporary, Rickman's crime series is one of the best around.' Spectator

'Ancient history, violent deaths, feuds, intrigues and murder. A most original sleuth.' The Times

Phil Rickman lives on the Welsh border where he writes and presents the book programme Phil the Shelf on BBC Radio Wales. He is the acclaimed author of Dr Dee, The Bones of Avalon, Midwinter Spirit (now a major ITV series), the Merrily Watkins Mysteries and the John Dee Papers.

All the Missing Girls

Megan Miranda

A nail-biting, breathtaking story about the disappearance of two young women – a decade apart – told in reverse.

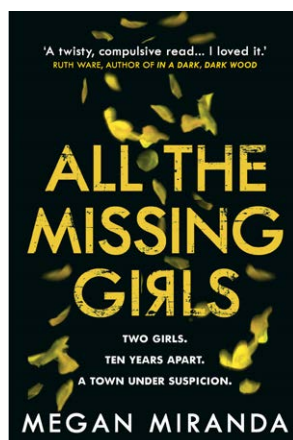

It's been ten years since Nicolette Farrell left her rural hometown after her best friend, Corinne, disappeared without trace. Then a letter from her father arrives – 'I need to talk to you. That girl. I saw that girl.' Returning home, Nicolette must finally face what happened on that terrible night all those years ago.

Then another young woman goes missing and, like ten years ago, everyone in town is a suspect.

Told backwards – Day 15 to Day 1 – Nicolette works to unravel the truth, revealing shocking secrets about her friends, her family and what really happened to her best friend.

'This thriller will test your brain with its reverse chronological structure, and it's a page-turner to boot.' ELLE

'Intricately plotted... Ms. Miranda brings heightened suspense and a twist to this familiar scenario by telling the story... in reverse chronological order.' New York Times

The Vik/Stubo Series

What Dark Clouds Hide

Anne Holt

The stunning conclusion to Anne Holt's phenomenal series featuring Johanne Vik and Adam Stubo.

On a summer's day, Johanne Vik arrives at the home of her friends Jon and Ellen Mohr to be greeted by a scene of devastation: their young boy, left unattended, has tragically fallen to his death.

Simultaneously, Oslo is under attack. An explosion has torn the city apart, and newly qualified officer Henrik Holme is the only one available to attend the Mohr household. As Holme and Johanne investigate, they start to cast doubt on the claim that the death was a tragic accident.

But there are shadowy figures at work, as yet unseen, determined to hide the truth.

The Hanne Wilhelmsen Series

Offline

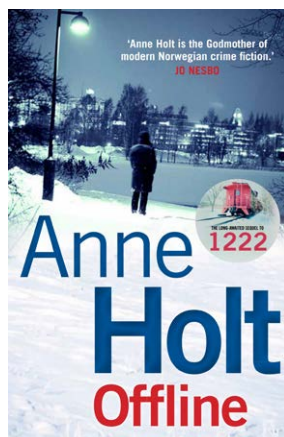

Anne Holt

Ninth in the Hanne Wilhelmsen series, Offline is the long-awaited sequel to 1222.

Eleven years ago, Hanne Wilhelmsen's life was forever changed by an assault that left her wheelchair bound. Now, Hanne's self-imposed exile is nearing its end.

When Oslo comes under attack from Islamic extremists, the city is rocked. A militant group claims responsibility. The unfolding drama is brought to Hanne's door by her former partner Billy T., who is convinced that his son, Linus, is involved in the terrorism. He begs Hanne for help. But Hanne soon learns that she cannot protect Linus, Billy T. or the people of Oslo.

Those bent of destruction are one step ahead, and lives will be lost before the truth is revealed...

How to Get a (Love) Life

Rosie Blake

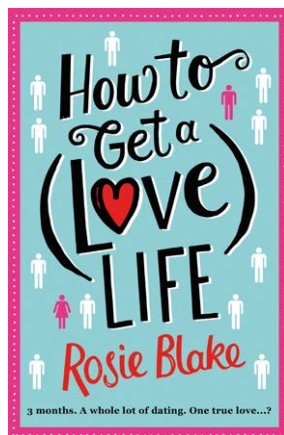

Nicola Brown is thrown into the deep end of the modern dating scene in a hilarious, feel-good romcom.

Nicola Brown doesn't like to lose control. Her flat is always meticulously tidy and her weekly meals carefully planned; Nicola keeps her life in order. When her carefree colleague Caroline challenges her to find a date for Valentine's Day, it's a surprise to them both when Nicola agrees.

As Nicola's search for a man begins, she is thrown in at the deep end – sometimes quite literally – of the dating scene. But as the deadline looms closer, she realises it isn't so bad to lose control. It turns out that trying to get a love life can be rather a lot of fun...

'Wonderfully likeable characters and a realistic plot.' Sun

'The dates in How to Get a (Love) Life can be excruciatingly awkward, but they're hilarious... a great read.' Hello

Rosie Blake is an author of comic commercial fiction and has written short stories and features for a range of publications including Cosmopolitan, The Lady, Sunday People, Best and Reveal magazines. She worked in television as a presenter on shows in Bristol and London. She has written three novels.

The London Series

Death Message

Kate London

A gritty, believable crime novel about the disappearance of a teenage girl, from a former detective in the Met's murder squad.

1987: the morning after the great storm. Tania Mills, fifteen years old, kisses her mother, walks out her front door and disappears...

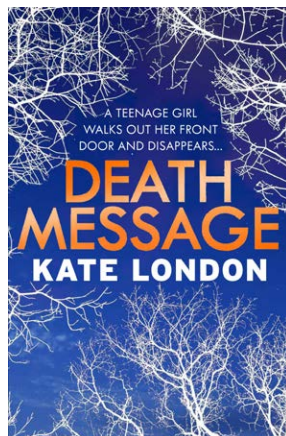

2014: DS Collins, a new member of the Met's Homicide Command, inherits Tania's old case file. Collins has plenty of fresh crimes to occupy her time, but there's something about Tania's story that won't leave her be.

As Collins investigates, her path intersects with a young police officer, Lizzie Griffiths. Together, they have a chance to uncover what happened that fateful day, when the nation woke up to a storm-ravaged Britain and a mother's world was ripped apart forever.

Praise for Post Mortem

'An absorbing debut... The author vividly re-creates the everyday experience of uniformed police... The result is a complex novel that offers rare insights into how the police operate.' Sunday Times

'Knowledgeable, thoughtful, sensitive and well written.' Literary Review

Kate London graduated from Cambridge University and moved to Paris where she trained in theatre. In 2006 she joined the Metropolitan Police Service, first on the beat before moving to the CID and then the Met's Homicide Command. She left in 2014. Her debut novel Post Mortem was published in 2015.

Where I Lost Her

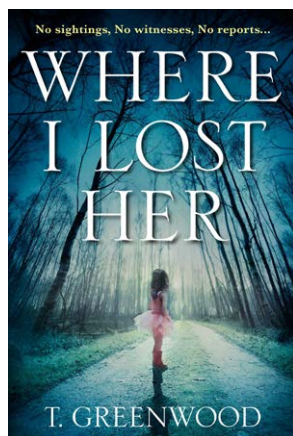

T. Greenwood

Where I Lost Her follows one woman's journey through heartbreak, as she searches for the truth about a missing little girl.

Eight years ago, Tess and Jake were considered a power couple of the New York publishing world; happy, in love, planning a family. But then a tragic event fractured their marriage. A visit to friends in rural Vermont throws Tess's world into further chaos when she sees a young, half-dressed child in the middle of the road, who then runs into the woods...

The entire town begins a search. But there are no sightings, no other witnesses, no reports of missing children. And yet Tess is compelled to keep looking, in a desperate effort to save the little girl she can't forget.

A superbly crafted and suspenseful thriller, Where I Lost Her is a gripping, haunting novel from a remarkable storyteller.

T. Greenwood lives with her family in San Diego, California, where she teaches creative writing and studies photography.

The Blood and Iron series

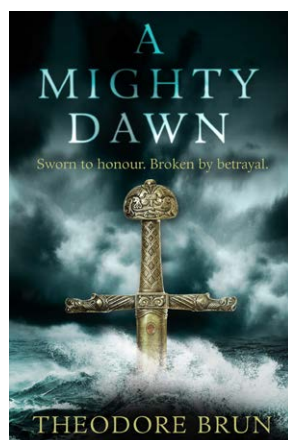

A Mighty Dawn

Theodore Brun

A brilliantly realized debut epic adventure set in eighth-century Denmark. An ambitious new series in the vein of A Game of Thrones.

Hakan, son of Haldan, chosen son of the Lord of the Northern Jutes, swears loyalty to his father in fire, in iron and in blood. But when a tragedy befalls Hakan's household he is forced to leave his home. He must seek to pledge his sword to a new king. Nameless and alone, he embarks on a journey to escape the bonds of his past and fulfil his destiny as a great warrior.

Whispers of sinister forces in the north pull Hakan onwards to a kingdom plagued by mysterious and gruesome deaths. But does he have the strength to do battle with such dark foes? Or is death the only sane thing to seek in this world of blood and broken oaths?

Theodore Brun studied Dark Age archaeology at Cambridge. In 2010, he quit his job as an arbitration lawyer in Hong Kong and cycled 10,000 miles across Asia and Europe to his home in Norfolk. A Mighty Dawn is his first novel.

The Girls of Ennismore

Patricia Falvey

An evocative, sweeping historical saga about two girls united in friendship though separated by class, set in early twentieth century Ireland.

It's the early years of the twentieth century, and Victoria Bell and Rosie Killeen are best friends. Growing up in rural Ireland's County Mayo, their friendship is forged against the glorious backdrop of Ennismore House. However, Victoria, born of the aristocracy, and Rosie, daughter of a local farmer, both find that the disparity of their class and the simmering social tension in Ireland will push their friendship to the brink...

Both girls leave the idyllic Ennismore of their childhood to move to the gritty, politically charged streets of Dublin. On the cusp of the Easter Rising and the impending First World War, each girl finds herself deeply involved in the fray while immersed in forbidden romance. The Girls of Ennismore is a sweeping, emotional story, exploring the enduring power of friendship and love against a turbulent backdrop.

Patricia Falvey was born in Newry, County Down, Northern Ireland, immigrating alone to the United States at the age of twenty. Patricia still has close family in Ireland and returns often.

The Tyrant's Shadow

Antonia Senior

A richly imagined tale of passion and loyalty, set against the backdrop of Oliver Cromwell's rule.

1652: England is without a monarch. Since Charles I was executed, control of both Church and Parliament remains there for the taking. Patience Johnson craves change. When she meets the preacher Sidrach Simmonds her life is transformed.

Meanwhile, Patience's brother Will has been hired as lawyer to Oliver Cromwell. Unannounced, Sam Challoner, brother to Will's late wife, returns from the court of exiled Charles II, putting Will and Patience in danger.

Both must question their loyalty: one to a ruler, the other, a spouse. They face the impossible choice of whether to save themselves, their loved ones or their country...

Praise for The Winter Isles

Dead Letters

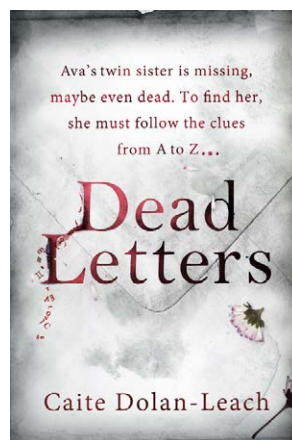

Caite Dolan-Leach

Ava's twin sister is missing, maybe even dead. To learn the truth, she must follow the clues from A to Z...

Ava Antipova doesn't believe her identical twin sister is dead. It's not grief or denial that gives rise to her scepticism – it just feels too perfect to be anything other than Zelda's usual twisted, manipulative scheming. And Ava knows her twin.

Returning from her new life in Paris, Ava is plunged back into the disarray of her family home. However, as mysterious notes and emails start to arrive from her supposedly dead sister, Ava becomes determined to unravel Zelda's intricately plotted secret.

Letter by letter, Ava unfolds the missing pieces of her sister's disappearance, whilst unveiling harrowing truths of her own. A is for Ava, and Z is for Zelda; but deciphering the letters in between isn't so simple...

Caite Dolan-Leach is a literary translator and critic, whose translations from French have been published by Dalkey Archive Press. Her criticism has appeared in Music and Literature, Quarterly Conversation and the White Review. She currently lives in Paris. Dead Letters is her debut novel.

Amnesia

Michael Ridpath

How would you feel if you woke up to discover that you had killed the only woman you had ever loved?

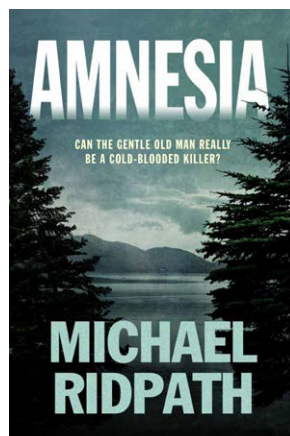

Alastair, a retired doctor now in his eighties, wakes up in hospital having fallen and hit his head, inducing almost total amnesia. Clémence – his young carer – soon discovers a hidden manuscript, unearthing the chilling story of how Alastair murdered her own French grandmother, Sophie.

Clémence decides to read the book to Alastair, and the relationship between the student and the old man turns from horror and shame to trust and compassion, a fortunate bond because there are people closing in who are willing to kill to make sure that the old man's secrets stay hidden.

Praise for the Fire & Ice series

Open Arms

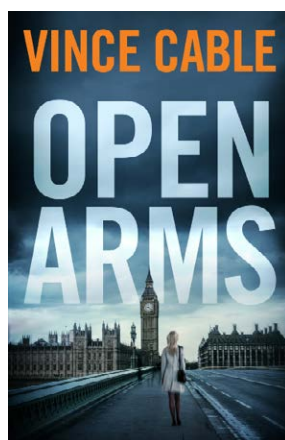

Vince Cable

A sweeping, fast-paced political drama that circles from Whitehall to Delhi's slums, and combines unrivalled political detail with international intrigue.

Kate Thompson's meteoric rise from housewife to Minister of State for Trade is due more to party machinations than respect for her abilities. Until, that is, she finds her feet on a delegate trip to India.

Deepak Parrikar runs one of India's largest conglomerates, providing technology to ease the ever-escalating nuclear tension with Pakistan. But then a senior member of staff is murdered, a corporate spy is discovered, and a mysterious company called Global Technology begins to assert more and more control over their business...

Steve Grant is on the hunt for a saboteur. As senior technician at Pulsar, specialising in military navigational disruption, he must mediate between his trade union and try to steer Pulsar away from financial catastrophe, spearheaded by the shadowy Global Technology. But who are they, and what do they want?

Vince Cable was MP for Twickenham from 1997–2015. He was the Liberal Democrat's chief economic spokesperson from 2003–2010, having previously served as Chief Economist for Shell from 1995–1997. He was Business Secretary under the Coalition Government from 2010–2015.

Troll

David Thorne

An explosive psychological thriller about a young woman who disappears in suspicious circumstances having been hounded by a vicious online troll.

Years ago, Fortune gave up on his daughter, Sophie, after a troubled adolescence. Now she's gone missing, vanished without trace. And after weeks of investigation, the police have given up on her, too.

Driven by guilt, and a determination to atone for his failures as a father, he takes on the search himself. He soon finds that his daughter had been living in fear of a vicious online troll who seemed to know far too much about her. Could Sophie's disappearance be linked to this anonymous predator? Fortune is about to discover that monsters that live online don't always stay there...

The Veins of the Ocean

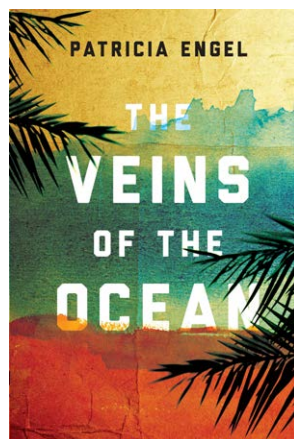

Patricia Engel

A heart-rending story of one woman's journey away from a painful past.

Reina Castillo's beloved brother is serving a death sentence for a crime that shocked the community, throwing a baby off a bridge – a crime for which Reina secretly blames herself. With her brother's death, Reina is finally released from her prison vigil. Seeking anonymity, she moves to the Florida Keys where she meets Nesto Cadena, a recently exiled Cuban awaiting with hope the arrival of the children he left behind in Havana.

Through Nesto's love of the sea and capacity for faith, Reina comes to understand her own connections to the life-giving and destructive forces of the ocean that surrounds her as well as its role in her family's troubled history, and begins to find freedom from the burden of guilt she carries for her brother's crime.

'An indelible novel of loss, grief, and redemption. Patricia Engel has created a world that is at once sensuous and dangerous, authentic and poetic, harrowing and hopeful.'
Laila Lalami

Patricia Engel is the author of Vida, which was a New York Times Notable Book of the Year and a finalist for the PEN/Hemingway Fiction Award, and the acclaimed novel It's Not Love, It's Just Paris, winner of the International Latino Book Award.

Every Man a Menace

Patrick Hoffman

A vital, edgy new novel centred on a ruthless international drug trafficking ring.

San Francisco is about to receive the biggest delivery of MDMA to hit the west coast in years. Raymond Gaspar, just out of prison, is sent to the city by his boss – still locked up on the inside – to check in on the increasingly erratic dealer expected to take care of distribution.

Meanwhile, in Miami, the man responsible for shipping the drugs from Southeast Asia to the Bay Area has just met the girl of his dreams – a woman who can't seem to keep her story straight.

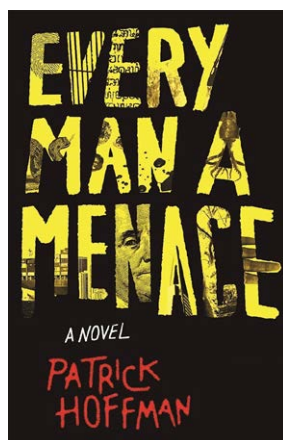

And thousands of miles away, in Bangkok, someone further up the supply chain, a former conscript of the Israeli army, is about to make a phonecall that will put all their lives at risk.

Praise for The White Van

How the Hell Did This Happen?

The US Election of 2016

P. J. O'Rourke

An essential take on the stranger-than-fiction 2016 presidential elections from a quintessential voice on American politics and culture.

No comedian could have written the joke this election cycle has been. The punchline is too ridiculous (whoever the punchline is going to be). Celebrated political satirist, journalist and diehard Republican P. J. O'Rourke brings his critical eye and inimitable voice to some serious risky business.

How The Hell Did This Happen? covers the whole election process from the pig pile of presidential candidates circa June 2015, the dreadful key primaries and candidate debates through his come-to-Satan moment with Hillary – 'She's the second worst thing that could happen to our nation. I endorse her.' – to the Beginning of End Times in November.

How The Hell Did This Happen? answers the key question of the 2016 presidential election: should we laugh or should we cry or should we hurl? (They are not mutually exclusive.)

'Whether you agree with him or not, P. J. writes a helluva piece.' Richard Nixon

P. J. O'Rourke has written seventeen books on subjects as diverse as politics and cars, and etiquette and economics. He is a columnist for the Daily Beast. He lives in rural New England, as far away from the things he writes about as he can get.

Legends of the Fall

Jim Harrison

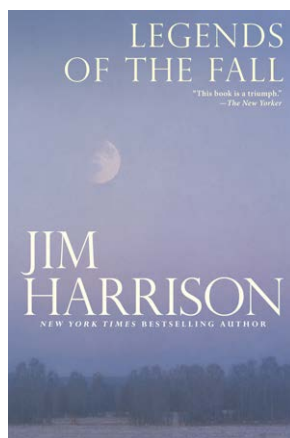

An anniversary edition of the classic novellas, to be released a year after Harrison's death.

The New York Times bestselling author Jim Harrison was one of America's most beloved and critically acclaimed writers. The classic Legends of the Fall is Harrison at his most memorable: a striking collection of novellas written with exceptional brilliance and a ferocious love of life. The title novella was made into an Academy Award-winning film of the same name starring Brad Pitt and Anthony Hopkins.

'I can't begin to do justice to the nuances of character and honest complexities of plot in this work. The writing is precise and careful – and sings withal.' Raymond Carver

'Fast pace, enormous narrative power... Legends of the Fall stays firmly in the unputdownable class.' Daily Telegraph

'Jim Harrison stands high among the writers of his generation. This book is rich, alive and shattering visceral.' New Yorker

Jim Harrison (1937–2016) was the author of nine volumes of novellas, twelve novels, fourteen collections of poetry, a book of children's literature, a memoir and two collections of non-fiction. A member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters and winner of a National Endowment for the Arts grant and a Guggenheim Fellowship, his work was published in twenty-seven languages.

The Voyeur's Motel

Gay Talese

A remarkable new work of reportage more than thirty years in the making.

In 1980, Gay Talese received an anonymous letter containing an astonishing secret. The writer had bought a motel for the express purpose of satisfying his voyeuristic desires, observing his guests.

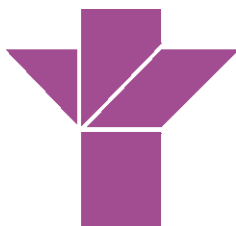

Over the next thirty-five years, the man occasionally reached out to Talese but continued to insist on anonymity. Finally, he's ready to go public.

'By turns fascinating and illuminating, very creepy and very funny'

Mail on Sunday

Gay Talese is the bestselling author of twelve books, including Thy Neighbor's Wife. Tom Wolfe credited him with the creation of 'New Journalism'.

Allen & Unwin

Now 100 years old, Australia's leading independent publisher of accessible fiction and non-fiction is proud to publish the likes of Richard Russo, Toni Jordan, Dean Karnazes and Stewart O'Nan through Atlantic Books in the UK.

Nobody's Fool

Richard Russo

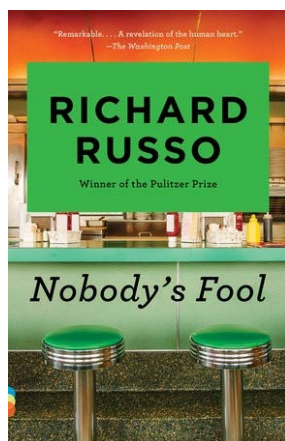

A much-needed new edition of this warm-hearted tale of an incorrigible ne'er-do-well who gets a chance to change his luck.

Richard Russo's funny and moving classic follows the unexpected workings of grace in a deadbeat town – and in the life of one of its unluckiest citizens, Sully, who has been doing the wrong thing triumphantly for fifty years.

Divorced from his own wife and carrying on half-heartedly with another man's, saddled with a dodgy knee and friends who make enemies redundant, Sully has a new problem: a long-estranged son who is in imminent danger of following in his father's footsteps. With its sly and uproarious humour and a heart that embraces humanity's follies as well as its triumphs, Nobody's Fool is storytelling at its most generous.

'Nobody's Fool is big, funny and richly human, a garrulous book that buttonholes you in the first few pages... In Sully, Russo has created a character you cannot resist.' Financial Times

'A great-hearted, unforgettable comedy in the best tradition of John Irving and Anne Tyler.' Vogue

Richard Russo is the author of seven previous novels, two collections of stories, and On Helwig Street, a memoir. In 2002 he received the Pulitzer Prize for Empire Falls, which, like Nobody's Fool, was adapted to film in a multiple award-winning HBO miniseries.

Everybody's Fool

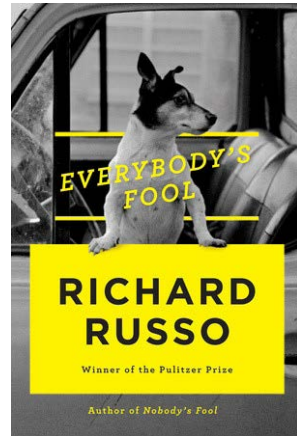

Richard Russo

The American master, at the very top of his game, returns to the characters who made Nobody's Fool a contemporary classic.

Sully is trying to ignore his cardiologist's estimate that he has only a year or two left. Ruth, his long-time lover, is increasingly distracted by her former son-in-law, fresh out of prison and intent on making trouble. Police chief Doug Raymer is obsessing over the identity of his dead wife's boyfriend, while local wiseguy Carl Roebuck might finally be running out of luck. Add a funeral, an escaped cobra, a collapsed building and a lot of beer to the equation and you have a novel which is a pure pleasure to read – genuinely funny, enormously heartfelt and imbued with the warmth and wisdom that are Richard Russo's stock-in-trade.

'A delightful return... to a town where dishonesty abounds, everyone misapprehends everyone else and half the citizens are half-crazy. It's a great place for a reader to visit, and it seems to be Russo's spiritual home.'

Primal Fat Burner

Live Longer, Slow Aging, Super-Power Your Brain and Save Your Life with a High-Fat, Low-Carb Paleo Diet

Nora Gedgaudas

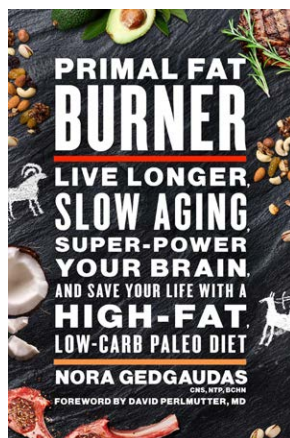

Prominent nutritionist Nora Gedgaudas presents a revolutionary, scientific, accessible high-fat diet for maintaining health, losing weight and reversing some chronic diseases.

Nora Gedgaudas's advice may sound counterintuitive: eat fat to burn fat. In Primal Fat Burner she explains the benefits and science behind a ketogenic (or fat-burning) diet, which switches your metabolism from a dependence on sugar to running on healthy fats. Gedgaudas communicates a real appreciation for, and understanding of, the central role that dietary fat plays in your body and brain, and explains how you can eat to feel better, look better, think clearer and live longer.

In her accessible, enjoyable style, she also lays out a practical meal plan with recipes.

‘Wonderfully actionable, compassionately taking the reader from “why” to “how.”’

Dr David Perlmutter, author of Grain Brain (from his foreword)

Nora Gedgaudas is an experienced clinical expert and highly successful nutritional consultant. She is widely recognised as the expert on the Paleo diet and is the author of the international bestseller Primal Body, Primal Mind: Beyond the Paleo Diet for Total Health and a Longer Life.

Our Tiny, Useless Hearts

Toni Jordan

A romantic comedy about sex, marriage and the realities of being a grown-up.

Henry has ended his marriage to Caroline and run off with Martha. Caroline, having shredded Henry's suits, has gone after them.

Craig and Leslie have dropped over from next door to hear about Henry and Caroline's row. And Janice, Caroline's sister, is staying for the weekend to look after the children because Janice is the sensible one.

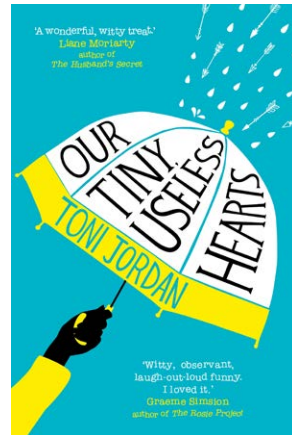

Then Craig enters through the bedroom window expecting a tryst with Caroline and finds Janice instead, Leslie storms in full of threats and Henry, Caroline and Martha arrive back from the airport in separate taxis.

Janice can cope with all that. But when her ex-husband Alec knocks on the door, things suddenly get complicated...

'A new Toni Jordan is always a special pleasure and her latest is a wonderful, witty treat.'

Liane Moriarty

'Witty, observant, laugh-out-loud funny. I loved it.' Graeme Simsion

Toni Jordan's debut novel, Addition, was a Richard and Judy Book Club pick, was longlisted for the Miles Franklin Literary Award and was published in sixteen countries. Our Tiny, Useless Hearts is her fourth novel. Toni lives in Melbourne, where she is co-director of the Faber Academy's Writing a Novel course.

Smuggler

A True Story of Marijuana, the Hippie Mafia and One of America's Most Wanted International Drug Traffickers

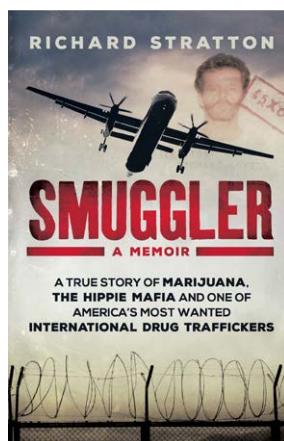

Richard Stratton

Goodfellas meets Catch Me If You Can in this true tale of high-stakes smuggling from pot's outlaw years.

Richard Stratton was the unlikely of kingpins. A clean-cut college student, he saw his search for a joint morph into a thrill-filled dope run smuggling two kilos across the Mexican border in his car door. He never looked back.

Stratton became a member of the Hippie Mafia, living an underground life, rejecting hard drugs in favour of marijuana and hashish. From Lebanon to the Caribbean, from improvised airstrips in New England to the badlands of the US-Mexican border, and from five-star Manhattan hotels to the brutal reality of federal prison and a twenty-five-year sentence, we follow Stratton's story as his fortunes rise and fall.

'Smuggler is an adrenaline rush, a high-stakes ride... This book will get under your skin, enter your blood stream, and mess with your head.' T.J. English

Richard Stratton is a film-maker whose feature film Slam and documentary Crude won prizes at Cannes and the Berlin Film Festival, respectively. He is the founder of Prison Life, the editor/publisher of High Times and a contributor to Rolling Stone, Esquire, GQ, Details, Newsweek and Playboy. He lives in New York City.

Paris Undressed

The Secrets of French Lingerie

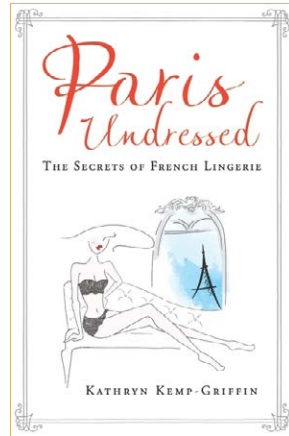

Kathryn Kemp-Griffin

Paris Undressed goes behind the seams, combining cultural references, expertise and practical advice in an inspirational homage to the joys of lingerie.

French women seem inherently more confident in their bodies, able to embrace the sensuality of life and love. What's their secret? Lingerie.

With illustrations by French lingerie designer Paloma Casile, Paris Undressed will help women feel at ease with their figures and show them how to integrate a lingerie lifestyle à la française to enhance their own femininity, confidence, and joie de vivre. It will transform the way women perceive their undergarments – and their bodies – and reveal how to co-ordinate a lingerie wardrobe to reflect personality and to meet lifestyle needs with the right dose of reverie.

'Real elegance is everywhere, especially in the things that don't show.' Christian Dior

Kathryn Kemp-Griffin is a journalist and entrepreneur. She has been working in the lingerie industry since 1990. Born in Canada, she lives in an old mill house outside Paris with her husband, five children and assorted pets.

Paloma Casile designs a line of eponymous lingerie.

To Capture What We Cannot Keep

Beatrice Colin

A warm and engaging novel set against the backdrop of the construction of the Eiffel Tower in 1880s Paris.

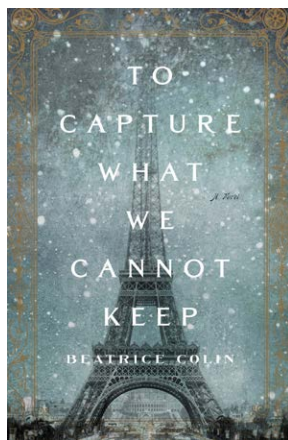

In February 1887, Caitriona Wallace and Émile Nouguier meet in a hot air balloon, floating high above Paris – a moment of pure possibility. But back on firm ground, their vastly different social strata become clear. Cait is a widow who, because of her precarious financial situation, is forced to chaperone two wealthy Scottish charges. Émile is expected to take on the bourgeois stability of his family's business and choose a suitable wife. As the Eiffel Tower rises, a marvel of steel and air and light, the subject of extreme controversy and a symbol of the future, Cait and Émile must decide what their love is worth.

'Exquisitely written... will appeal to a wide variety of readers.'

Library Journal (starred review)

'Romantic, moving and memorable.'

Chris Bohjalian, bestselling author of Midwives

Beatrice Colin is a novelist based in Glasgow. Her third novel, The Luminous Life of Lilly Aphrodite, was translated into eight languages and was a Richard and Judy pick. Beatrice also writes radio plays and adaptations for BBC Radio 4, and is a lecturer in creative writing at Strathclyde University.

Last Night at the Lobster

Stewart O'Nan

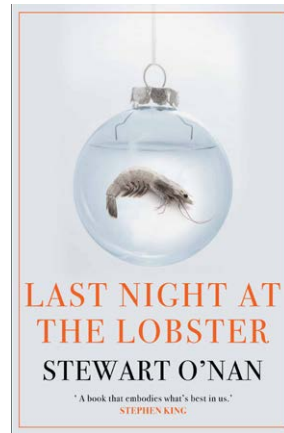

Small but perfectly formed, this frank and funny tale of a restaurant's last day of operation has become a modern classic.

The Red Lobster chain restaurant perched in the far corner of a run-down American mall hasn't been making its numbers, and headquarters has pulled the plug. But manager Manny DeLeon still needs to navigate a tricky last shift with a near-mutinous staff and the final onslaught of hungry retirees, lunatics and office parties. All the while, he's wondering how to handle the waitress he's still in love with, what to do about his pregnant girlfriend and where to find the Christmas present that will make everything better.

Stewart O'Nan has been called 'the bard of the working class', and Last Night at the Lobster is a masterclass of precision and empathy.

'A book that embodies what's best in us.'
Stephen King

Wonderful Feels Like This

Sara Lövestam

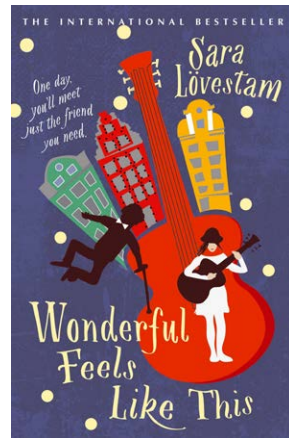

Translated by Laura Wideburg

A feel-good story of friendship between a retired jazz musician and a young girl trying to find her place in the world.

Brought together by their love of a quirky jazz musician from the 1940s, bullied schoolgirl Steffi and retired musician Alvar become firm friends and before long he starts telling her his story. In his youth, as the Second World War tore across Europe, he travelled to Stockholm. While there he discovered music and learnt how to get by in a big city.

Intrigued and inspired by Alvar's story, Steffi spends more and more time at his retirement home, learning about jazz and forgetting about school. She begins to realize that she doesn't have to be the Steffi other people know; instead, as Alvar did, she can recreate herself through music.

*'I know of no writer who can make me so genuinely happy as Sara Lövestam does... And if I'm ever asked what the best book I've ever read is, I will definitely answer: Wonderful Feels Like This.'* Annika Koldenius

Sara Lövestam used to teach Swedish to immigrants and is a freelance journalist. In 2009 she won the Bok-SM award for her first novel, Udda. Wonderful Feels Like This is Sara's first novel to be published in English.

Ultramarathon Man

Confessions of an All-Night Runner

Dean Karnazes

The international bestseller which has inspired thousands of people to pull on their trainers is finally published in the UK for the first time.

Ultrarunning legend Dean Karnazes has run 262 miles – the equivalent of ten marathons – without rest. He has run over mountains, across Death Valley and to the South Pole, and is probably the first person to eat an entire pizza while running. With an insight, candour and humour rarely seen in sports memoirs, Ultramarathon Man has inspired tens of thousands of people – nonrunners and runners alike – to push themselves beyond their comfort zones and simply get out there and run.

‘Heart-stopping stuff.’ The Economist

‘Full of euphoric highs... His book describes a journey into distance running that is much less about sweat than about the emotional terrain that unfolds at the frontier of endurance.’ New York Times

Dean Karnazes has been called one of the ‘Top 100 Most Influential People in the World’ by TIME magazine and has been featured in publications including Newsweek, People, GQ, the New York Times, USA Today and the Washington Post. His bestselling books include Ultramarathon Man, 50/50 and RUN! He lives in California.

The Road to Sparta

Running in the Footsteps of the Original Ultramarathon Man

Dean Karnazes

The story of the 153-mile run that inspired the marathon and saved democracy, as told – and experienced – by ultramarathon runner Dean Karnazes.

In 490 BC, Pheidippides ran for thirty-six hours straight from Athens to Sparta. In doing so, he both saved Greece and inspired the birth of the marathon as we know it. Some 2,500 years later, that run stands enduringly as one of the greatest physical accomplishments in the history of mankind.

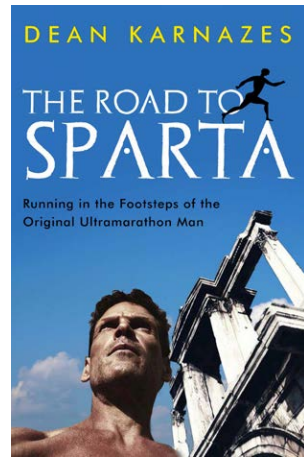

Ultramarathon runner Dean Karnazes personally honours Pheidippides and his own Greek heritage by recreating this ancient journey in modern times. His account of running the gruelling Spartathlon, fuelled only by the figs, olives and meats available to Pheidippides, will captivate even the most sedentary readers.

‘A remarkable and inspiring memoir that will have casual and serious runners cheering.’

Publishers Weekly

‘Running with Karnazes is like setting up one’s easel next to Monet or Picasso.’

See You in September

Charity Norman

Can Paradise ever really exist on Earth?

It was supposed to be a short trip – a break in New Zealand before her best friend's wedding. But when Cassy waved goodbye to her parents, they never dreamed that it would be years before they'd see her again.

Having broken up with her boyfriend, Cassy accepts an invitation to stay in the idyllic farming collective of Gethsemane. Overcome by the peace and beauty of the valley and swept up by the charisma of Justin Calvin, the community's leader, Cassy becomes convinced that she should stay, and cuts herself off from her previous life.

As Cassy becomes increasingly entrenched in Gethsemane's rituals and beliefs, her frantic parents fight to bring her home – before Justin's prophesied Last Day can come to pass.

The Last Painting of Sara de Vos

Dominic Smith

A mesmerising story set between 1630s Holland, 1950s New York and 2000s Sydney, following a trail of art, forgery and deception.

In the 1600s Sara de Vos loses her daughter suddenly to illness. In 1950s Brooklyn, art student Ellie Shipley accepts a commission to paint a forgery of de Vos' sole surviving work, not realising that her decision will come to haunt her.

'Fiendishly clever and beautifully written.' The Times

'Gorgeous storytelling: wry, playful and utterly alive.' Boston Globe

Dominic Smith is the author of three previous novels. He lives in Texas.

A Beautiful Game

My Love Affair with Cricket

Mark Nicholas

The cricketing memoir of former Hampshire captain and award-winning sports presenter Mark Nicholas.

Mark Nicholas offers a personal and entertaining account of cricket as witnessed first as a player and then as professional observer. He looks back at some of the sport's greatest moments and considers what the future holds for cricket.

'A love letter to cricket.' Stephen Fry

'No one does it better' Geoffrey Boycott

Mark Nicholas captained Hampshire for more than a decade, and is now a leading TV commentator. He lives in London.

A Forger's Tale

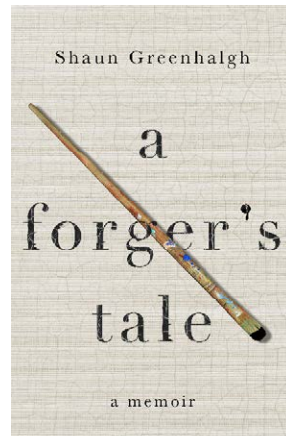

Shaun Greenhalgh

The riveting account of how Britain's most prolific and versatile forger hoodwinked the art world.

In 2007, Bolton Crown Court sentenced Shaun Greenhalgh to four years in prison for forgery. Working out of a shed in his parents' garden, Greenhalgh had successfully fooled some of the world's greatest museums.

Written in prison, A Forger's Tale details Shaun's notorious career and the extraordinary circumstances that led to it. From Leonardo drawings to L.S. Lowry paintings, from busts of American presidents to Anglo-Saxon brooches, from cutting edge Modernism to the ancient art of the Stone Age, Greenhalgh could – and did – copy it all. Told with great wit and charm, this is the definitive account of Britain's most successful and infamous forger, a man whose love for art saturates every page of this extraordinary memoir.

'In these pages, Shaun Greenhalgh is funny, charming, self-deprecating, warm-hearted and, above all, instructive.' Waldemar Januszczak (from his introduction)

Shaun Greenhalgh lives in Bolton.
