Becoming Nicole

The Extraordinary Transformation of an Ordinary Family

Amy Ellis Nutt

Luminous, compassionate and tear-jerking, Becoming Nicole is the New York Times-bestselling true story of a transgender girl and her ordinary American family's extraordinary journey.

When Wayne and Kelly Maines adopted identical twin boys, they thought their lives were complete. But it wasn't long before they noticed a marked difference between Jonas and his brother, Wyatt. Jonas preferred sports and trucks and many of the things little boys were 'supposed' to like, but Wyatt liked princess dolls and dressing up and playing Little Mermaid. By the time the twins were toddlers, confusion over Wyatt's insistence that he was female began to tear the family apart...

Praise for Becoming Nicole:

'If you aren't moved by Becoming Nicole, I'd suggest there's a lump of dark matter where your heart should be' New York Times

Amy Ellis Nutt won a Pulitzer Prize in 2011. She is a writer at the Washington Post, the author of Shadows Bright as Glass, and the co-author of the New York Times bestseller, The Teenage Brain. She lives in Washington, D.C.

Snowball in a Blizzard

The Tricky Problem of Uncertainty in Medicine

Steven Hatch

A captivating discussion of why our overconfidence in medicine can be more deadly than any disease.

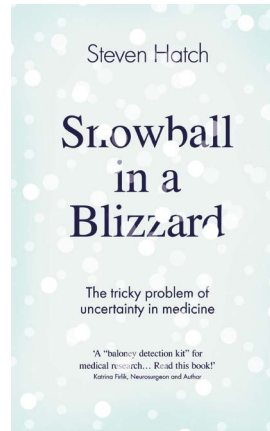

According to some radiologists, finding a possible tumour in a mammogram is akin to finding a snowball in a blizzard. The result? Up to 30 per cent of breast-cancer surgeries are done on those who have no cancer at all.

Covering everything from the efficacy of Prozac to the regular barrage of health advice by the media (e.g. bacon causing cancer), Hatch introduces why it's essential that doctors and their patients know how to understand data and uncertainty. Filled with the kind of counter-intuitive revelations that made Thinking Fast and Slow a bestseller, this is the must-read medical book for 2016.

Praise for Snowball in a Blizzard:

'How can we figure out which "discoveries" to trust or to take with a grain of salt? First step: Read this book.' Katrina S. Firlik, Neurosurgeon and author of Another Day in the Frontal Lobe: A Brain Surgeon Exposes Life on the Inside

'Masterfully-argued' Larry Tye, Director of the Boston-based Health Coverage Fellowship and author of New York Times bestseller Satchel

Steven Hatch is an Assistant Professor of Medicine at the University of Massachusetts Medical School. He is also a practising doctor, clinical consultant and medical student educator. Prior to his medical training, Hatch worked as a science writer for the Boston University School of Medicine.

The Queen

A. N. Wilson

From the critically acclaimed author of Victoria comes a celebration of the life and times of Queen Elizabeth II, as she celebrates her goth birthday.

In this unusual and vibrant examination of the life and times of Britain's most iconic living figure, Wilson considers the history of the monarchy, painting a vivid portrait of 'Lilibet' the woman, and of her reign, throughout which she has remained stalwart and steadfast. In part historical overview, but with a keen eye to the future, A. N. Wilson writes with his signature warmth, intelligence and humour, celebrating the life of the Queen and her role as figurehead of Britain and the Commonwealth, while asking candidly whether we can remain a constitutional monarchy.

Praise for Victoria:

'Wilson clearly loves and admires his subject... this biography is... funny, insightful, original and authoritative. At last Victoria has been rescued from her widow's weeds.' Spectator

A. N. Wilson is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, holding a prominent position in the world of literature and journalism. He is a prolific and award-winning biographer and celebrated novelist. He lives in North London.

Vitamin N

The Essential Guide to a Nature-Rich Life

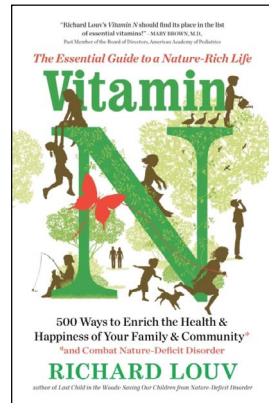

Richard Louv

From the author of the backlist bestseller that reconnects kids with nature, Last Child in the Woods, comes a handbook that will inspire, educate and entertain, naturally.

Richard Louv is the pioneering advocate who calls for children to be reunited with the natural world from which modern life has too long estranged them. In his international bestseller Last Child in the Woods (published in 14 languages), Louv diagnosed an epidemic of 'nature-deficit disorder' and outlined the benefits of restoring a strong connection with nature – from boosting mental acuity and creativity to reducing obesity and depression. Now he provides a comprehensive practical handbook: Vitamin N aims to help the whole family grow, with suggestions for calming infants, building a nature vocabulary with toddlers, measuring weather with primary-school children, helping tweens become citizen scientists and exploring geocaching with teens.

Praise for Last Child in the Woods:

'Its message is about connection to nature and the crucial part it plays in developing us and society in general... This restatement of a truth well known, deep inside, has never been more timely.' Tim Smit, Chief Executive of the Eden Project

Richard Louv, recipient of the 2008 Audubon Medal, is Chairman of the Children & Nature Network, and also honorary co-chair of the US National Forum on Children and Nature.

AUGUST

The ISIS Hostage

Puk Damsgård

The Number One International Bestseller.

In a tense and riveting narrative, The ISIS Hostage details freelance photographer Daniel Rye's thirteen-month ordeal at the hands of Islamic State after he was captured in Syria and the misery inflicted upon him, and nineteen other hostages, by the British guards, which included Jihadi John.

Written with Daniel's full cooperation and based on interviews with former fellow prisoners, jihadists and key figures who worked behind the scenes to secure his release, The ISIS Hostage reveals for the first time the torment suffered by the captives and tells a moving and terrifying story of friendship, torture and survival.

'Excellent... The ISIS Hostage gives a unique insight into how a Dane experienced and survived being a hostage at the hands of the violent psychopaths of Islamic State.'

Ekstra Bladet

'No one who reads the story of Daniel Rye will escape untouched by the experience of his horrific stay as an involuntary guest of ISIS... Genuine and heart-breaking' Politiken

Puk Damsgård has been a Middle East correspondent since 2011, having previously lived for many years in Afghanistan and Pakistan. As a journalist and writer she has received a number of awards for her work.

God's Wolf

The Life of the Most Notorious of All Crusaders: Reynald de Chatillon

Jeffrey Lee

The sweeping story of one of history's most controversial crusader knights.

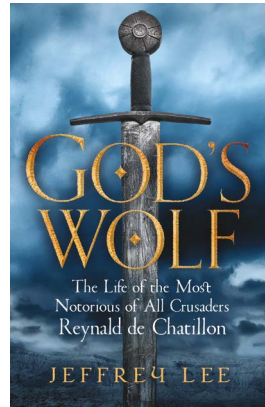

Born in twelfth-century France and bred for violence, Reynald de Chatillon was a young knight who joined the Second Crusade and rose through the ranks to become the pre-eminent figure in the Crusader Kingdom of Jerusalem – and one of the most reviled characters in Islamic history.

In the West, Reynald is often dismissed as having been nothing more than a bloodthirsty maniac. However, by using contemporary documents and original research, Jeffrey Lee overturns this popular perception and reveals him to be an influential and powerful leader, whose actions in the Middle East had a far-reaching impact that endures to this day.

'Well written, well informed, and exciting'

Patricia Crone, Former Professor of Islamic History, Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton

'God's Wolf is enormously readable. It is written in a very lively style and with vigour and pace' Carol Hillenbrand, Professor of Islamic History, University of Edinburgh

Jeffrey Lee has a First in Arabic and Islamic History from Oxford and as an award-winning broadcast journalist he reported and produced TV news and current affairs in more than thirty countries. He lives in London.

Blitzkrieg

Myth, Reality and Hitler's Lightning War –
France, 1940

Lloyd Clark

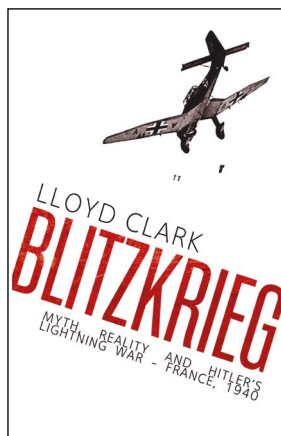

From celebrated military historian Lloyd Clark comes a riveting and richly detailed reassessment of one of the greatest military victories of the Second World War.

The German campaign in France during the summer of 1940 was pivotal to Hitler's ambitions and fundamentally affected the course of the Second World War. Having squabbled about fighting methods right up to the start of the campaign, the German forces provided the Führer with a swift, efficient and decisive military victory over the Allies.

Yet, as Lloyd Clark shows in this enthralling new book, it was far from being a foregone conclusion. Blitzkrieg tells the story of the campaign, while highlighting the key technologies, decisions and events that led to German success, and also reveals that Hitler's plan could easily have failed had the enemy been less inept and the Germans less fortunate.

Praise for Kursk: The Greatest Tank Battle, Eastern Front 1943:

'Clark's narrative is both moving in its use of testimony of ordinary soldiers and insightful in its interpretation of the generals' strategy.'
Sunday Times

Lloyd Clark is a senior academic in the Department of War Studies at the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst and Professor of Modern War Studies at the University of Buckingham. He is the author of several books, including Anzio, Arnhem and Kursk.

Mail Men

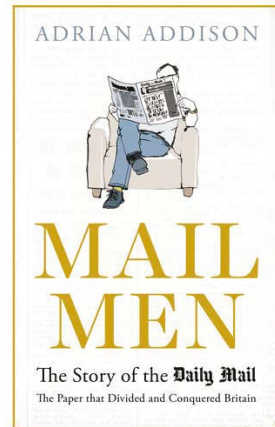

The Story of the Daily Mail - The Paper that Divided and Conquered Britain

Adrian Addison

1.8 million read it, many millions more hate it.
Get the unauthorized inside scoop on Britain's most controversial daily.

From its founding by the Harmsworth brothers in 1896, to turning 'compact' in 1971 and becoming the world's biggest newspaper website in 2011, Mail Men explores the rise and rise of the Daily Mail, Britain's most profitable newspaper.

Charting the controversy that has always dogged the publication – from its flirtation with fascism in the 1930s to its fractious relationship with celebrities today – Addison explains how the divisive paper has shaped British journalism and, indeed, Britain itself. With colourful portraits of rambunctious life behind the masthead, Mail Men includes fascinating biographical details of key figures in the history of the paper – including idiosyncratic boss Paul Dacre, unrivalled moral arbiter for Middle England and the highest-paid newspaper editor in the UK.

Adrian Addison is a freelance journalist. He has worked as a staff reporter for the News of the World and The Sun and later as the News Editor on the Today programme and an investigative reporter on the BBC Six O'Clock News. He lives in Barcelona.

The Age of the Horse

A History of Humans and Horses

Susanna Forrest

The fascinating story of the horse from its origins to the present day, via centuries of global human history.

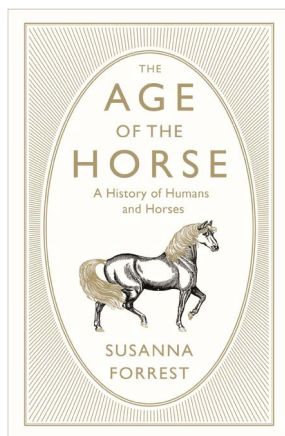

From the wild tarpans sought by the Nazis to jade-laden treasure steeds in Ancient China, broken-down nags recycled into sausages, stallions that fight bulls and brewery horses that charmed a maharajah, The Age of the Horse knits the history of the horse into that of humans, through war, social change and uneasy peace.

In this captivating book, Susanna Forrest travels from Mongolia to France, China, Portugal and America, revealing how our culture and economy were generated, nourished and shaped by horse power and its gifts and limits.

Praise for If Wishes Were Horses:

‘Fantastic... If Wishes Were Horses brought back all my childhood obsessions about ponies.’
Jilly Cooper

‘Tackling what exactly the appeal of ponies really is, while powerfully conveying her passion for them, Susanna Forrest has written a beautiful book.’ Daily Telegraph

Susanna Forrest lives in Berlin where she works as a writer and editor. She grew up in Norwich and later studied social anthropology at Cambridge.

Quid Pro Quo

What the Romans Really Gave the English Language

Peter Jones

A surprising, witty and entertaining journey through the Latin roots of the English language, by the author of Veni, Vidi, Vici and *Eureka!

In this original and highly accessible book, Peter Jones takes the reader on a fascinating journey along the highways and byways of Roman life and culture, telling the amazing stories behind the original Latin meanings and uses of hundreds of our everyday words.

Taking in every aspect of the ancient world, including science, religion, military matters, politics and literature, Jones shows just how much the English language owes to the ancient Romans and the role Latin has played in the creation of our vast vocabulary.

Praise for Eureka!:

‘Like everything else Jones writes, Eureka! is packed with intriguing nuggets for novices and experts alike’ Natalie Haynes, The Times

‘Jones is a storyteller at heart, unashamed to entertain while educating by stealth, as all the best teachers do.’ Spectator

Peter Jones has written a regular column, ‘Ancient & Modern’, in the Spectator for many years and is the author of various books on the Classics, including the bestselling Learn Latin and Learn Ancient Greek, as well as Reading Virgil’s Aeneid I and II, Vote for Caesar, Veni, Vidi, Vici and Eureka!

Rules for My Son Rules for My Daughter

Indispensable Advice from Someone Who's Been There

Walker Lamond

Two charming and witty books celebrating the homespun advice of parents everywhere.

Based on the hit blog, these two titles present a collection of traditional, humorous and urbane fatherly advice for boys and girls as they grow up. From the sartorial ('Men should not wear sandals. Ever.') to the practical ('Yes, you can be too rich and too thin.') to even a couple of sure-fire hangover cures ('There is no better remedy than a dip in the ocean.'). These two books of rules, photos and accompanying quotations are all you will ever need to become industrious, thoughtful, charming and, of course, well-dressed.

Hip and witty with a decidedly traditionalist flavour, these books are meant to evoke simpler times when fathers knew best and a suitable answer to 'Why?' was 'Because I say so.'

Praise for Rules for My Son:

'Will surely be a Christmas bestseller.'

Daily Telegraph

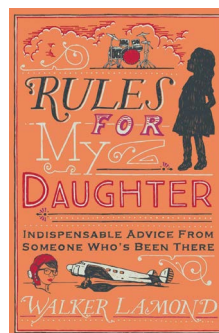

'This may be one book that actually has changed my life.' Wall Street Journal

JULY

Nine Folds Make a Paper Swan

Ruth Gilligan

A gorgeous literary novel that braids together the stories of two of the great wandering diasporas – the Jews and the Irish.

1901. Cork can sound similar to New York to foreign ears, so it's no surprise that Ruth's family – Jewish refugees – disembark from their steamer to America a few stops and a few countries too soon.

1958. Shem, struck mute at his bar mitzvah, has been under the care of Catholic nuns for years. It's a lonely existence, but at least his deepest secret remains safely locked up in his mouth.

2015. Aisling came to London to escape the recession, not to fall in love with a Jewish magician. Should she convert for his sake? She looks to the past – to a girl who never saw America and a boy who never spoke again – to decide on her future.

Praise for Ruth Gilligan:

'Reminiscent of Téa Obreht, Nicole Krauss and Maggie O'Farrell... A wonderful new novel from a writer to look out for.'

Colum McCann

Ruth Gilligan has written three previous novels, including Forget, which reached number one on the Irish Bestsellers' List when she was 19, making her the youngest person in Ireland ever to have done so. She writes and reviews for the Irish Times, the Irish Independent, the TLS and the Guardian.

Eleven Hours

Pamela Erens

The visceral story of two women, nurse and patient, in the moments leading up to childbirth.

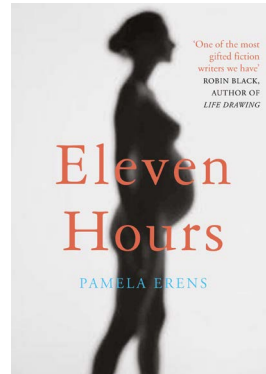

Eleven Hours is a vital, microcosmic illumination of the most pivotal moment of any woman's life: giving birth. With taut, sensitive prose, Erens explores the lives of two women in New York – one in labour, the other her Haitian midwife, and both with complicated pasts – to gracefully reveal the seminal moments that have led them to meet here, now, during childbirth.

With this riveting, insightful and sometimes harrowing novel, Erens cements herself as one of modern fiction's most diverse and discerning authors.

Praise for Pamela Erens:

'Erens evokes the layered experience of living in a body – its tides of memory, sensation, and emotion – like no other writer I know.'

Karen Russell, author of Swamplandia!

Pamela Erens received 2015 fellowships from the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference and Wesleyan Writers' Conference. Her short fiction, reviews and essays have appeared in a wide variety of literary, cultural and mainstream publications, including the New York Times, Vogue and Salon. For many years Pamela was an editor at Glamour magazine.

Infinite Ground

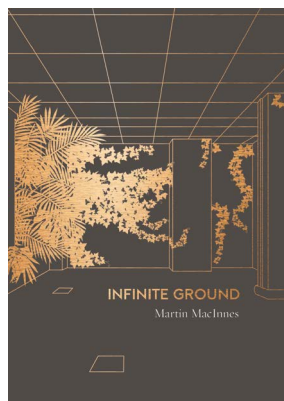

Martin MacInnes

A mighty debut about the swarming, sinister beauty of our own microbiology, the all-too-brief splendour of being alive and the enduring splendour of the natural world.

During a sweltering South American summer, a family convenes for dinner. Midway through the meal, Carlos disappears. An experienced, semi-retired inspector takes the case, but what should be a routine investigation becomes something strange, intangible, even horrifying. The corporation for which Carlos worked seems to serve no purpose; the staff talk of their missing colleague's alarming physical symptoms; a forensic scientist uncovers evidence of curious abnormalities in the traces of bacteria left in the victim's office. The inspector, prone to distressing doubts about the authenticity of what is happening around him, begins to suspect he has been infected by something unnamed and unthinkable...

'A talent of the first rank... Writing of genuine bravura and originality'

Christopher Potter, author of How to Make a Human Being

Martin MacInnes was born in Inverness in 1983. He has an MA from the University of York, has read at international science and literature festivals, and is the winner of a Scottish Book Trust New Writers Award and the 2014 Manchester Fiction Prize. He lives in Edinburgh.

Resolution

A. N. Wilson

A breathtakingly vivid novel that recalls Captain Cook's three voyages to the southern hemisphere, which culminated in his brutal murder.

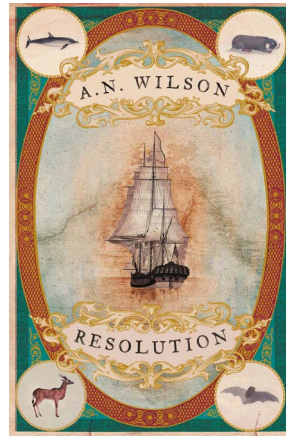

Cook's epic voyages of discovery led to the mapping of lands in the Pacific Ocean in intricate detail and on a heroic scale, culminating in his tragically violent death during his last voyage, where he was hacked to death on the island of Hawaii. A. N. Wilson's protagonist is George Forster, who travelled with Cook as botanist on board the Resolution and penned a famous account of the journey. This powerful new novel explores the life and times of one of the greatest British explorers, and the golden age of Britain's period of expansion and exploration.

Praise for The Potter's Hand:

'A delight, easy reading that is the result of deep research, high intelligence, and a masterly style.' Allan Massie, Books of the Year, Scotsman

'Full of fascinating historical detail... a magnificent achievement' Daily Mail

'This is a splendid story, vividly told'
Economist

A. N. Wilson was educated at Rugby and New College, Oxford. A Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, he holds a prominent position in the world of literature and journalism. He is a prolific and award-winning biographer and celebrated novelist.

The Jesus Man

Christos Tsiolkas

A violent, darkly humorous and vividly imagined portrayal of modern family life behind closed doors.

The Jesus Man tells the story of one family, trapped between conflicting identities – while the parents were born Greek and Italian, their boys have grown up as Australians. Haunted by their history and increasingly unable to understand each other, the middle son, Tommy, inexorably descends into a cycle of violence, pornography and psychosis.

When Tommy commits a terrible crime, his family must try to come to terms with the terrifying stranger he had turned into. With page-turning, thrilling urgency, Tsiolkas's uncompromising examination of the soulless void that life can become is an extremely powerful and timely novel.

Praise for The Slap:

'A cool, calm, irresistible masterpiece'

Chris Cleave

'The Slap is nothing short of a tour de force'

Colm Tóibín

'Honestly, one of the three or four truly great novels of the new millennium' John Boyne

Christos Tsiolkas is the author of eight novels, including The Slap, which won the Commonwealth Writers' Prize 2009 and was longlisted for the Man Booker Prize 2010. He lives in Melbourne.

Lea

Pascal Mercier

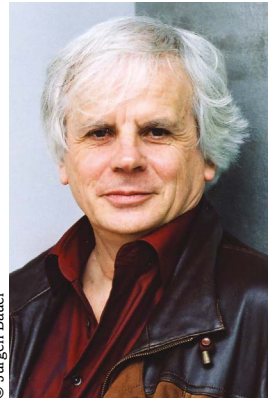

Translated from the French by Shaun Whiteside

From the author of the giant bestseller, Night Train to Lisbon, comes a finely calibrated heartbreaker of a novel about fathers and daughters, great rises and sudden falls.

It all starts with the death of Martijn van Vliet's wife. His grief-stricken young daughter, Lea, cuts herself off from the world, right up until the day that she hears a snatch of Bach being played on a violin by a busker. Transfixed by the sweet melody, she emerges from her mourning, vowing to learn the instrument. Lea's all-consuming passion is matched by talent, and she becomes one of the finest players in the country – but as her fame blossoms, her relationship with her father only withers. Desperate to hold on to Lea, Martin is driven to commit an act that threatens to destroy both him and his daughter.

Praise for Night Train to Lisbon:

Goodnight, Beautiful Women

Anna Noyes

A dark and brilliant debut collection of short stories by a gifted young author.

Set largely on the rural coast of Maine, and imbued with the overcast beauty of that region, these stories depict the inhabitants of small towns and even smaller domestic circles, exploring the boundaries of familial intimacy in resonant detail.

Throughout these gorgeously unclassifiable, hypnotic stories are women mad with longing, muted by heartache, mired in the slipperiness of their own memory. With breathtaking control and a rhythmic, lucid prose that is distinctly her own, Anna Noyes has produced a powerful, mesmerizing collection.

Praise for Goodnight, Beautiful Women:

‘An extraordinary book of stories... energetic, often mysterious, and beautifully written, and they will stay in your memory long after you finish.’

Charles Baxter, author of The Feast of Love

Anna Noyes is a recent graduate of the Iowa Writers' Workshop. Her fiction has appeared in VICE, A Public Space, and Guernica amongst others. She has received the Aspen Words Emerging Writer Fellowship and the James Merrill House Fellowship. Goodnight, Beautiful Women, received the 2013 Henfield Prize for Fiction.

Peacekeeping

Mischa Berlinski

A dazzling, daring display of sex, small-town politics and the stifling Haitian sun, by the National Book Award finalist of Fieldwork.

When Terry White, a former deputy sheriff and a failed politician, goes broke in the 2007–2008 financial crisis, he takes a job working for the UN, helping to train the Haitian police. He's sent to the remote town of Jérémie, where there are more coffin makers than restaurants, more donkeys than cars, and the dirt roads all slope down sooner or later to the postcard sea. Terry is swept up in the town's complex politics when he befriends an earnest, reforming American-educated judge. Soon he convinces the judge to oppose the corrupt but charismatic Sénateur Maxim Bayard in an upcoming election. When Terry falls in love with the judge's wife, the electoral drama threatens to become a disaster.

Mischa Berlinski was born in New York in 1973. He studied classics at the University of California at Berkeley and at Columbia University. He is the author of the novel Fieldwork.

The Rise and Fall of the Supersonic Airliner

Jonathan Glancey

A new history of the iconic aircraft, by the bestselling author of Spitfire and Harrier.

Concorde tells anew the story of this magnificent and hugely popular aircraft. It is a tale of national rivalries, technological leaps, daring prototypes, tightrope politics and a dream of a Dan-Dare future never quite realized.

A frequent broadcaster, Jonathan Glancey's books include Harrier, Giants of Steam, Spitfire, Nagaland, Tornado, The Story of Architecture and The Train.

'A thoughtful hymn to a great symbol of the analogue age... Concorde will be the standard long read on the subject for a good few years' The Times

The Invitation-Only Zone

The Extraordinary Story of North Korea's Abduction Project

Robert S. Boynton

A fascinating investigation into the systematic abduction of Japanese citizens by North Korea.

During the 1970s and 1980s, Japanese civilians were systematically kidnapped by North Korean commandos and resettled in 'Invitation-Only Zones', high-security exclusive areas near Pyongyang. Boynton's fierce exposé of these mysterious machinations also uncovers the bewildering and vexed politics of Northeast Asia.

Robert S. Boynton is a journalist, director of NYU's magazine journalism programme, and the editor of The New New Journalism.

*'Reads like a modern day episode of The Twilight Zone, except it's completely true.'* Mark Bowden, author of Black Hawk Down

And Yet...

Essays

Christopher Hitchens

A final, peerless volume of previously uncollected essays by the late, great Christopher Hitchens.

Hitchens was an unparalleled, prolific writer, who raised the polemical essay to a new art form. Now comes the last of the last: a volume of previously uncollected essays, reminding us, once more, of Hitchens' fierce, brilliant and trenchant voice.

Christopher Hitchens (1949–2011) was a columnist for Vanity Fair and Slate, and the author of numerous, prize-winning books.

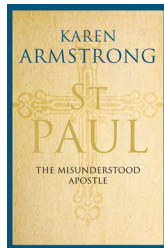

'If Hitchens didn't exist, we wouldn't be able to invent him.' Ian McEwan

St Paul

The Misunderstood Apostle

Karen Armstrong

A fascinating account of the life of St Paul, by the world's foremost religious historian.

St Paul is known throughout the world as the first Christian writer, authoring fourteen of the twenty-seven books in the New Testament. But as Karen Armstrong demonstrates in St Paul, he also exerted a more significant influence on the spread of Christianity throughout the world than any other figure in history.

Karen Armstrong is a bestselling author of over twenty-five books and a passionate campaigner for religious liberty.

Versailles

Elizabeth Massie

Based on the scenario by Simon Mirren and David Wolstencroft

Introducing the novelization of a forthcoming
10-part lavish BBC2 drama series about a young Louis XIV and the creation of the Palace of Versailles.

Versailles, 1667. Louis XIV is King of France. Haunted by the memory of an opposition led by the nobility against his father, Louis knows that he must tame the French aristocracy or risk being toppled by them. Louis conceives of the construction of Versailles – the greatest palace the world has ever seen – as a gilded prison designed to keep the nobles under his control. As his enemies circle, there is nothing Louis will not do to ensure his sovereignty.

Meanwhile, the court becomes a battlefield of tactical liaisons and private passions. As tensions rise, Versailles proves to be more than a palace, it is a labyrinth of treason and hushed secrets, of political schemes and deadly conspiracies. It is a place of passion and death, love and vengeance.

Elizabeth Massie has written several historical novels as well as the novelization of The Tudors TV series.

British screenwriter David Wolstencroft is best known for his work on the TV series Spooks and is the author of two spy novels.

Simon Mirren has gained global acclaim for his work on the hit TV series Criminal Minds.

The North/South Series

South

Frank Owen

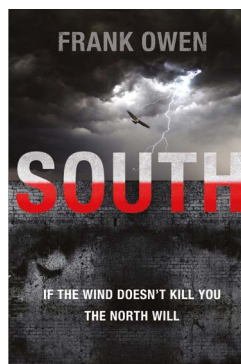

A stunning high-concept post-apocalyptic debut novel in the vein of The Passage by Justin Cronin and Wool by Hugh Howey.

South takes place in a USA ravaged by Civil War. It's been thirty years since the first wind-borne viruses ended the war between North and South – and still they keep coming. Every wind brings a new and terrifying way to die. The few survivors live in constant fear, hiding from the wind – and from each other.

In this harsh Southern expanse, brothers Garratt and Dyce Jackson are on the run from brutal law-enforcers. They meet Vida, a lone traveller on a secret quest. Together, they will journey into the dark heart of a country riven by warfare and disease.

'An absolute blinder of a book. With its cracking pace, unforgettable characters, deliciously gruesome premise and you-won't-see-them-coming twists, if this doesn't make "book of the year" shortlists, I will eat my Stetson. The Sisters Brothers meets The Stand, it's a post-apocalyptic genre game-changer.'

Sarah Lotz

Frank Owen is the pseudonym for two authors – Diane Awerbuck and Alex Latimer. Diane Awerbuck's debut novel Gardening at Night (Secker & Warburg) won the 2004 Commonwealth Writers' Prize. Alex Latimer is an award-winning writer and illustrator whose books have been translated into several languages.

Carver's Truth

Nick Rennison

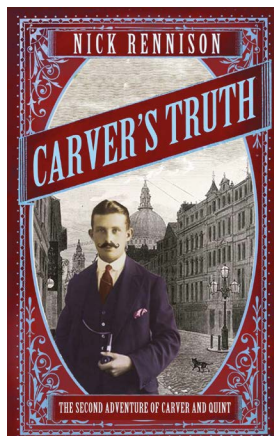

Featuring Adam Carver and his trusty assistant Quint, Carver's Truth is a clever and compelling Victorian mystery.

London, 1871. Traveller, photographer and intelligencer Adam Carver is surprised when an old friend asks him to find Dolly Delaney, a West End dancing girl who has been involved with a diplomat and has since disappeared. What seems a straightforward case soon proves otherwise. Carver is discomfited to find daguerreotypes of Dolly and is drawn to one of her fellow dancers, Hetty Gallant. But the stages and hostleries of the capital offer precious few clues, so the investigator and his manservant Quint travel to York, where they are implicated in a shocking death, before heading to the imposing and dangerous Berlin.

Praise for Carver's Quest:

Be Frank with Me

Julia Claiborne Johnson

A remarkable debut novel with the heart of The Rosie Project and the plot twists of Where'd You Go, Bernadette.

Meet Frank – a modern nine-year-old boy with the wit of Noël Coward and the wardrobe of a 1930s movie star.

Meet Mimi Banning – reclusive literary legend and mother to Frank. Mimi has been holed up in her Bel Air mansion for years, keeping her secrets, hiding from the world. Until Alice.

Meet Alice – a level-headed young woman who finds herself thrust into the Banning household, charged with looking after Mimi's unusual son. Alice doesn't want mysteries, she doesn't want eccentricity and she certainly doesn't want a love affair. But she finds all of them under the Banning roof. In so doing, she discovers a part of herself she never knew was missing.

'This magnificently poignant, funny, and wholly original debut goes beyond page-turner status' Library Journal

'Witty dialogue, irresistible characters, and a touch of mystery' Booklist

The Eden Trilogy

Daughter of Eden

Chris Beckett

From a rising star of British SF comes the third and final part of the Eden trilogy.

Angie Redlantern is the first to spot the boats. As the people of New Earth declare war on the people of Mainground, a dangerous era has dawned for Eden. Angie must flee with her family across the pitch black of Snowy Dark to the place where it all started, the stone circle where the people from Earth first landed, where the story of Gela – the mother of them all – began.

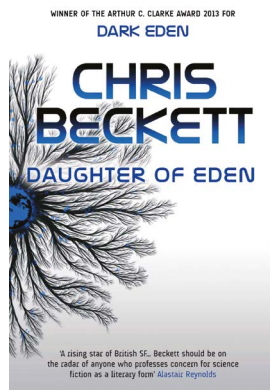

It is there that Angie witnesses the most extraordinary event, one that will change the history of Eden forever.

It is the true story of Eden.

Praise for Mother of Eden:

'Every bit as compelling as Dark Eden was... Eden is building into one of the most vivid and fascinating places in modern SF.'

Eddie Robson

Chris Beckett is a university lecturer living in Cambridge. He is the winner of the prestigious Arthur C. Clarke Award, 2013, for Dark Eden.

The first female US president is kidnapped on a state visit to Norway. Johanne Vik and Adam Stubo must work against the clock to solve the case.

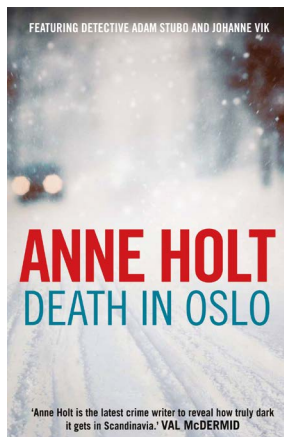

Can the US president really disappear into thin air...?

Helen Barclay becomes the first female US president, and the whole world takes notice. It is a high-profile visit to Norway that President Barclay chooses for her first state visit. But when she goes missing from a locked, heavily secured bedroom, the FBI and Norwegian police are forced – unwillingly – to work together to find her. As Johanne Vik assists on the investigation, she learns that the President has a secret that could destroy all she has worked for. And by helping on the case, Johanne's own past may come back to haunt her.

The Hanne Wilhelmsen Series

Beyond the Truth

Anne Holt

A family is murdered and the surviving relatives are all acting guilty. Will Hanne Wilhelmsen get to the truth? Find out in this seventh gripping thriller from Anne Holt's bestselling series.

Four people are found shot dead at the home of the wealthy Stahlberg family: shipping merchants and notorious for family disputes. Three of the dead are members of the family, and the fourth victim a seeming nobody.

As Hanne Wilhelmsen and her police partner Billy T. investigate, they learn that each surviving member of the Stahlberg family had good reason to want the victims dead. But Hanne doesn't believe the full story has been revealed and concentrates her efforts on uncovering why an undistinguished author was at the home of one of Oslo's wealthiest families. As Hanne seeks the truth, she will once again risk everything for justice. But will she finally pay the ultimate price?

'Anne Holt is the godmother of modern Norwegian crime fiction.' Jo Nesbø

'Holt writes with the command we have come to expect from the top Scandinavian writers.'

All of Us and Everything

Bridget Asher

An instantly addictive tale of family secrets, told through unforgettable characters and razor-sharp writing.

In the aftermath of a huge storm, the three Rockwell sisters each flee their tumultuous lives and return to the family home. As the women reconvene, a box of letters churned up by the storm is delivered to the house. Contained within it are clues to a mystery that the sisters have long since given up on solving: who was their father, and why did he leave? The answers are beyond anything they could imagine, and will forever change the way they view their lives. That's if they don't kill each other first...

'Asher's newest title spotlights her unique voice plus an affinity for quirky, wounded characters that are both realistic and likeable... An entertaining yet astute look at family, self, story and connections.' Kirkus

Bridget Asher is a pseudonym for Julianna Baggott, author of the bestselling Pure trilogy. She also writes as N. E. Bode. She has published more than twenty books and is married with four children.

The Last Night

Cesca Major

Two women, separated by years, tied by secrets untold and haunted by tragedies that could not be foreseen.

In a quiet village, Irina spends her days restoring furniture. A family secret, long held, casts a dark shadow and Irina chooses to withdraw into her work. When an antique bureau arrives, Irina senses a history to the object that makes her uneasy. As she investigates the origins of the piece, Irina unearths the secrets it holds within...

Decades earlier, there was another young woman who kept secrets. Her name was Abigail. Over the course of one summer, she fell in love. But Abigail could not know that a catastrophe loomed, and this event would change the course of many lives...

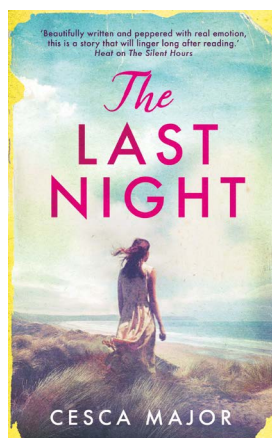

Will Irina unlock the mystery of what happened to Abigail? And will solving the mystery allow her to let go of her own heartbreak?

Eccentric Orbits

The Iridium Story

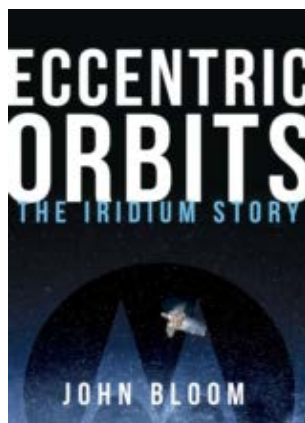

John Bloom

The incredible story of Iridium and one man's desperate race to save it.

The story of one of the largest corporate bankruptcies in American history, second only to Enron. Eccentric Orbits is a fascinating exploration of how the largest man-made constellation in the heavens was built by dreamers in the Arizona desert, targeted for destruction by Motorola and saved by a single Palm Beach retiree who battled the Pentagon, thirty banks, Congress, the White House and a mysterious Arab prince to rescue the only phone that links every inch of the planet.

Freeman's 2

The Best New Writing on Family

Ed. John Freeman

Features never-before-published writing by Tracy K. Smith, Claire Messud, Aminatta Forna, Aleksandar Hemon, Kiese Laymon, Alexander Chee and more.

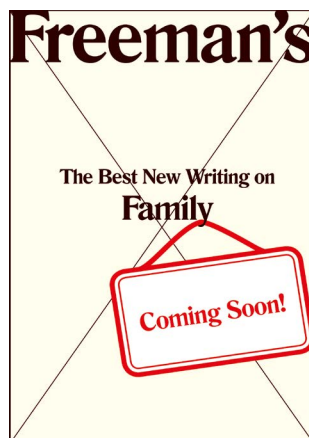

Families are hardly stable entities, so many writers discover. Award-winning novelist Claire Vaye Watkins delivers a stunning portrait of a woman in the throes of postpartum depression. Aminatta Forna muses on the legacy of slavery as she settles her mixed race British and African family in the city of Washington, D.C. Recent Booker Prize finalist Sunjeev Sahota and winner Marlon James remember the way work stretched the limits of their childhood networks.

With outstanding, never-before-published pieces from literary heavyweights and up-and-coming writers, this issue of Freeman's circles the globe and collects the most amusing, heart-breaking and probing stories about family life.

'A new literary journal that is sure to become a classic in years to come' San Francisco Chronicle

'There's an illustrious new literary journal in town...' Vogue.com

'The world has certainly arrived in the pages of Freeman's.' New York Observer

John Freeman was the editor of Granta until 2013. His books include How to Read a Novelist and Tales of Two Cities: The Best of Times and Worst of Times in Today's New York. His work has appeared in the New Yorker, the New York Times, and the Paris Review.

The Man Who Spoke Snakish

Andrus Kivirähk

Translated from the Estonian
by Christopher Moseley

An extraordinary coming-of-age story set in Estonia, mixing magical realism, reinvented national myth, and satire.

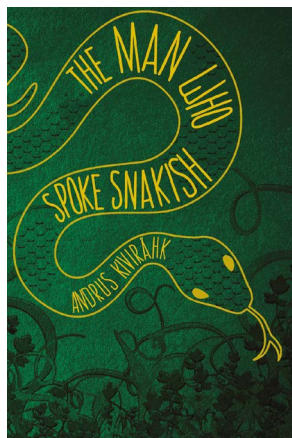

Leemut, a young boy growing up in the forest, is content living with his hunter-gatherer family. But when incomprehensible outsiders arrive aboard ships and settle nearby, with an intriguing new religion, the forest begins to empty – people are moving to the village and breaking their backs tilling fields to make bread. Meanwhile, Leemut and the last forest-dwelling humans refuse to adapt: with bare-bottomed primates and their love of antiquity, promiscuous bears, and a single giant louse, they live in shacks, keep wolves and speak to snakes.

Told with moving and satirical prose, this fiercely imaginative allegory is about being truly alone as a young boy, and a nation, standing on the brink of dramatic change.

‘Marvellous in all senses of the word’ Le Monde

‘Epic, fantastical... Speaks powerfully to our world’s ever present conflicts.’ Kirkus

‘An incredible novel, a mystifying treasure of a book’ Psychologies Magazine

Andrus Kivirähk is one of Estonia’s most highly regarded contemporary writers, a journalist known for his satirical newspaper columns and bestselling novels. A popular board game has been created on the basis of The Man Who Spoke Snakish.

Christopher Moseley is an acclaimed translator of Estonian and Latvian.

Secessia

Kent Wascom

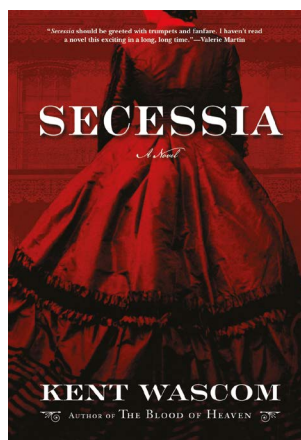

A gothic portrait of a city ravaged by war and struck by vice and disease.

New Orleans, May 1862. The largest city in the ill-starred confederacy has fallen to Union troops. Twelve-year-old Joseph Woolsack disappears from his home, putting his mother Elise into a panic and his father Angel into a rage.

Elise must struggle to maintain a hold on her sanity, her son and her station, but is threatened by the resurgence of a troubling figure from her past. Their paths all intersect with General Benjamin 'the Beast' Butler, whose avarice and brutal acumen are ideally suited to the task of governing an 'ungovernable city'.

With the richly historical prose that marked The Blood of Heaven, Wascom carves a gothic tale of insurrection and ill-advised romance in the city at the heart of Secessia, the rebellious just-conquered South.

'Wascom, who was born in New Orleans, has justly been compared to Cormac McCarthy, but the spirit of his new novel is touched by the lurid energy of Anne Rice and Joyce Carol Oates and even Edgar Allen Poe.' Washington Post

Kent Wascom spent his childhood in Louisiana and Florida. In 2012, he won the Tennessee Williams/New Orleans Literary Festival Prize for fiction for The Blood of Heaven.

Anatomy of a Song

The Inside Story Behind 50 Iconic Hits

Marc Myers

Fifty oral histories of iconic rock and R&B hits based on the popular Wall Street Journal column 'Anatomy of a Song'.

Songs that sell the most copies become hits, but some of those hits transcend commercial value, touching a generation of listeners and altering the direction of music. In Anatomy of a Song, writer and music historian Marc Myers tells the stories behind fifty rock, pop, R&B, country and reggae hits through intimate interviews with the artists who wrote and recorded them.

Hits range from Lloyd Price's 'Lawdy Miss Clawdy' to Pearl Jam's 'Go' and include oral histories with Mick Jagger, Joni Mitchell, Rod Stewart, Loretta Lynn, the Clash, Elvis Costello, Ron Isley, Roger Waters, Jimmy Cliff and many more.

Praise for Why Jazz Happened:

'A serious contribution... Myers captures aspects of the music's history that are too frequently ignored.' Wall Street Journal

'Fantastic, eye opening' Creed Taylor, multi-Grammy Award-winning jazz producer

Marc Myers is a frequent contributor to the Wall Street Journal, where he writes about jazz, rock and soul, as well as the arts. He is author of the critically acclaimed book Why Jazz Happened.

The Core of the Sun

Johanna Sinisalo

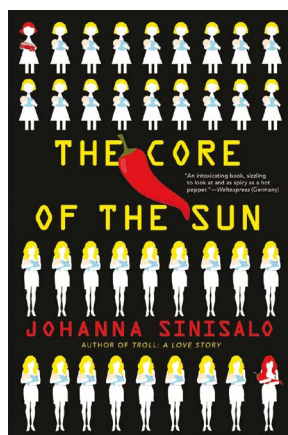

Translated from the Finnish by Lola Rogers

From the queen of 'Finnish weird', a captivating and witty speculative satire of a Handmaid's Tale-esque welfare state

Set in an alternative historical present, in a 'eusistocracy' – an extreme welfare state – that holds public health and social stability above all else, it follows a young woman whose growing addiction to illegal chilli peppers leads her on an adventure into a world where love, sex and free will are all controlled by the state.

Johanna Sinisalo's tautly told story of fight and flight is also a feisty, between-the-lines social polemic – a witty, inventive and fiendishly engaging read.

'An intoxicating book, sizzling to look at and as spicy as a hot pepper.' Weltexpress (Germany)

Johanna Sinisalo is the author of the novels Troll: A Love Story, Birdbrain and The Blood of Angels. Praised by readers and critics alike, she has won several literary prizes, among them the Finlandia Prize and the James Triptree Jr. Award. Her works have been translated into nineteen languages. She lives in Finland.

High Season (The Polo Season Series: 1)

Nacho Figueras with Jessica Whitman

In the irresistible tradition of Jilly Cooper, Nacho Figueras dives into the glamorous, treacherous world of high-stakes polo.

Georgia never wanted to be a jetsetter. A plain old country vet was fine for her. But one distress call from her best friend and she's neck deep in the world of polo's most elite international players – complete with designer dresses, fine champagne and some of the most gorgeous thoroughbreds (and men) she's ever seen.

Alejandro Cisneros needs his family's team to win the season's biggest polo tournament to keep them in business. But as the championship match approaches, he wants to win Georgia, too. Can he claim the trophy and convince her that his world is where she truly belongs?

Happy People Read and Drink Coffee

Agnès Martin-Lugand

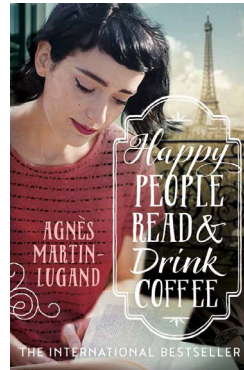

Translated from the French by Sandra Smith

The bestselling novel that outsold Fifty Shades of Grey in France and is now being developed as a film by The Weinstein Company.

A wife, mother and owner of Happy People, a cosy coffee shop-turned library in Paris, Diane seems to have the perfect life. But when she suddenly loses her husband and daughter in a car accident, her life is overturned and the world as she knows it disappears.

A year later, still grieving, Diane's bookshop no longer offers sanctuary. Searching for a way to remain close to her husband, she takes a trip to Ireland, a place he always wanted to visit. Once there, she discovers a whole new sanctuary in the form of a mysterious neighbour, and must decide whether she is ready – or able – to love again.

'Poignant, this story of resilience finds itself served by... an elegance of writing into which slip moments of humour.' Le Parisien

Agnès Martin-Lugand was a clinical psychologist for six years. Happy People Read and Drink Coffee is her first novel.

Sandra Smith is a critically acclaimed translator of French literature. She has previously worked on Suite Française and subsequent novels by Irène Némirovsky, as well as a new translation of The Outsider by Albert Camus.

Overcoming Multiple Sclerosis

The Evidence-based 7 Step Recovery Program

Professor George Jelinek
MD

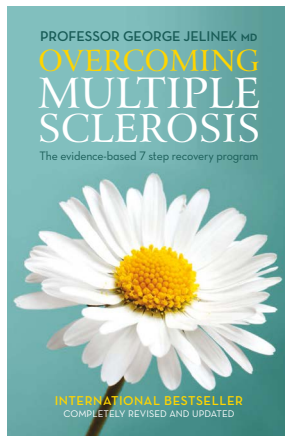

A completely updated edition of the proven, research-based approach to treating the devastating neurological condition multiple sclerosis.

Overcoming Multiple Sclerosis is an established and successful programme of treatment. Once a diagnosis of MS meant an inevitable decline and disability. Now thousands of people around the world are living healthy, active lives on the Overcoming Multiple Sclerosis recovery programme.

Overcoming Multiple Sclerosis explains the nature of MS and outlines an evidence-based seven step programme for recovery. Professor George Jelinek devised the programme from an exhaustive analysis of medical research. It has since been refined through a major ongoing clinical study, creating an invaluable resource for anyone recently diagnosed with MS, living with MS for years or with a family member with MS.

'He [Jelinek] is perfectly placed to analyse medical data and research and to evaluate their worth. I found it invaluable.'

After Isabella

Rosie Fiore

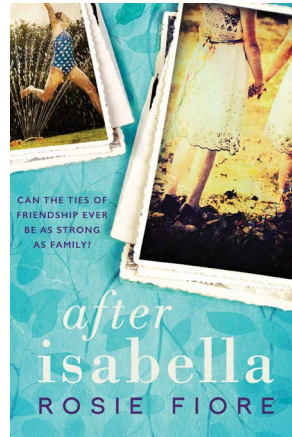

When you are at your most vulnerable, in whom do you put your trust?

When Esther's childhood best friend Isabella dies of cancer, she is devastated. Years later, she is brought together with Isabella's sister Sally, who cared for Isabella in her last days, and who subsequently nursed their mother through years of dementia.

English professor Esther sees shy, innocent Sally emerge from a life of isolation and loneliness. But as Esther herself suffers blow after blow, and sees her carefully ordered life collapse around her, she is forced to contemplate the notion of friendship and trust. Do the ones we hold dearest always have our best interests at heart?

Praise for Wonder Women:

'Heartwarming and beautifully written, it's a story of crossroads and choices, friendship and family.' Daily Express

Rosie Fiore has worked as a writer for theatre, television, magazines, advertising, comedy and the corporate market. She has lived in London for the past fifteen years. The Eye of the Sheep

Sofie Laguna

Winner of the 2015 Miles Franklin Literary Award, an extraordinary novel about a family coping with a different and difficult child.

Meet Jimmy Flick. He's not like other kids – he's both too fast and too slow. He sees too much, and too little. Jimmy's mother Paula is the only one who can manage him. She teaches him how to count sheep so that he can fall asleep. She holds him tight enough to stop his cells spinning. It is only Paula who can keep Jimmy out of his father's way. But when Jimmy's world falls apart, he has to navigate the unfathomable world on his own, and make things right.

The Haters

Jesse Andrews

From the New York Times bestselling author of Me and Earl and the Dying Girl comes a wry and witty new coming-of-age story.

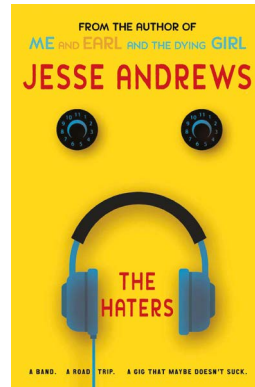

Corey and Wes are convinced nothing cool can come of their lame summer at jazz camp, when along comes Ash, who cracks their world wide open. Certain that a great musician is made on the road, the three friends flee camp and begin the epic, hilarious road trip: The Haters 2016 Summer of Hate Tour.

Amidst sneaking into seedy bars and evading their parents and the police, romance blossoms, hygiene takes a back seat and Wes begins to realize the limitations of hating everything – it keeps you at a convenient distance from something, or someone, you just might love.

Praise for Me and Earl and the Dying Girl:

'This was probably the funniest book I've ever read... Everyone should read this book.' Guardian

'Dead funny... Shows just how much fun reading and writing can be.' The Australian

Jesse Andrews is a writer, musician and former German youth hostel receptionist. His debut novel Me and Earl and the Dying Girl is now an award-winning film.

Wolf Boys

Two American Teenagers and Mexico's Most Dangerous Drug Cartel

Dan Slater

A chilling look inside the infamous Zeta cartel.
Perfect for fans of Killing Pablo and Narcos.

At first glance, Gabriel Cardona is an exemplary American teenager: athletic, bright, handsome and charismatic. But his Texan town is poor and dangerous, and it isn't long before Gabriel abandons his promising future for the allure of the Zetas, a drug cartel with roots in the Mexican military.

Meanwhile, Mexican-born Detective Robert Garcia has worked hard all his life and is now struggling to raise his family in America. As violence spills over the border, Detective Garcia's pursuit of the Zetas puts him face to face with the urgent consequences of a war he sees as unwinnable.

In Wolf Boys Dan Slater shares their stories, taking us from the Sierra Madre mountaintops to the dusty, dark alleys of Laredo, Texas, on a harrowing, often brutal journey into the heart of the Mexican drug trade.

Dan Slater is the former legal affairs reporter for The Wall Street Journal and has written for The New York Times, The New Yorker, The Washington Post, New York magazine, The Atlantic and many other publications. He lives in New England.

The Auctioneer

Adventures in the Art Trade

Simon de Pury

Simon de Pury offers an intimate look at the art world and its most famous collectors.

In the glamorous and secretive world of art, Simon de Pury is the ultimate insider. Having elevated the auction into performance art, he is the most famous of all auctioneers. He has been chairman of the global auction house Phillips de Pury, challenging the duopoly of Sotheby's and Christie's. Before that, he was director of the Thyssen Collection, one of the world's greatest private art collections, then the chairman of Sotheby's Europe.

The Auctioneer gives us a brilliant behind-the-scenes look at the multi-billion-pound international art-dealing world – where sometimes the buyer really should beware.

About Simon de Pury:

'The Mick Jagger of art auctions' Guardian

'He has the energy and power of an Enzo Ferrari, the elegance of a Maserati.'
Lapo Elkann

'The world's most celebrated auctioneer'
Harper's Bazaar

Simon de Pury began his career at Sotheby's in 1974. He rose to become chairman of Sotheby's Europe before reinvigorating the ancient auction house of Phillips, creating a new entity called Phillips de Pury, which challenged the global might of Sotheby's and Christie's. He lives in London.

City of Secrets

Stewart O’Nan

From master storyteller Stewart O’Nan, a timely moral thriller of the Jewish underground resistance in Jerusalem after the Second World War.

City of Secrets follows one survivor, Brand, as he tries to regain himself after losing everyone he’s ever loved. Now driving a taxi provided – like his new identity – by the underground, he navigates the twisting streets of Jerusalem as well as the overlapping, sometimes deadly loyalties of the resistance.

A noirish, deeply felt novel of intrigue and identity written in O’Nan’s trademark lucent style, City of Secrets asks how both despair and faith can lead us astray, and what happens when, with the noblest intentions, we join movements beyond our control.

‘A remarkable book’ Chris Pavone

‘Stewart O’Nan’s City of Secrets will keep you up all night reading – what a beautifully crafted novel.’ Alan Furst

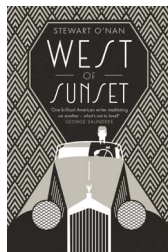

Stewart O’Nan is the author of fifteen previous novels, including West of Sunset, The Odds, Emily Alone, Songs for the Missing, A Prayer for the Dying and Snow Angels. His novel Last Night at the Lobster was a US bestseller and a finalist for the Los Angeles Times Book Prize.

A Beautiful Game

Mark Nicholas

A former title-winning player, Channel 5 commentator Mark Nicholas gives his personal and fascinating account of the world of cricket.

Mark Nicholas, the face of Channel 5's Cricket on Five show in the UK and anchor for Channel 9's Test commentary team in Australia, has a unique knowledge and perspective on the world of cricket.

As both a former player and now a professional observer and commentator, he gives us his personal account on the game as he's experienced it across the globe. From epic Test matches and titans of the game like Lara, Warne and Tendulkar, to his own childhood love for the sport, Mark gives us his informed, personal and fascinating views on cricket – the world's other beautiful game.

Mark Nicholas captained Hampshire for more than a decade, leading them to three title victories. He went on to become a TV commentator with Sky, ITV, Channel 4 and Channel 5, and a Daily Telegraph journalist. In 2001 he was named Sports Presenter of the Year by the Royal Television Society.

Gruesome

The World's Most Interesting Ways to Die

Paul Doherty and Cody Cassidy

The ideal stocking filler for anyone looking for some good, clean, grisly fun this Christmas.

What would happen if you stuck your head into a nuclear particle accelerator? What if you jumped into an interstellar black hole, or slipped out of a deep-sea submarine wearing only a Speedo?

Gruesome gives serious answers to these horribly interesting questions. Illustrated with straightforward technical art and leavened by small doses of dry humour, it is both scientifically informative and gruesomely entertaining.

Relying on the deeply human observation that things that actually happen compel little interest, there is no discussion of heart attacks or car wrecks. But there is plenty to learn about those people unfortunate enough to get swallowed by a whale.

Paul Doherty has co-written numerous books, including The Exploratorium Science Snackbook, Explorabook and Klutz Book of Magnetic Magic.

Cody Cassidy is a writer who has worked as a sports reporter and editor for various magazines and websites.
