A Book of Lamentations

Joanne Limburg

An intensely honest account of coming to terms with a brother's suicide; a powerful meditation on family and faith.

I remain 'enmeshed', all tangled up in the family hoard. This book has been both a continuation of my conversations with them, and an attempt to untangle myself.

This is Joanne's account of coming to terms with her brother's suicide, and through that process, her family life. She explores her childhood, her Jewishness and her mother's and brother's death.

The life and family Joanne describes is a complex combination of conflicting influences – both scientific and literary; Jewish and humanist impulses; and middle America and North London settings.

'Gripping, heart-breaking, challenging – this memoir about a family in crisis is a must-read.' Sophie Hannah

Joanne Limburg grew up in London but now lives in Cambridge with her husband and son. She has published several collections of poetry; The Woman Who Thought Too Much, a memoir about OCD, anxiety and poetry; and A Want of Kindness which was longlisted for the HWA debut novel award.

Adapt

How We Can Learn From Nature's Strangest Inventions

Amina Khan

Full of fascinating natural facts, ingenious ideas and a glimpse into the future of human innovation.

Nature can teach us a thing or two about technology and innovation. Geckos can run upside down on ceilings. Termite mounds can stay cool in the desert without air conditioning. Adapt explores the exciting new science of biomimicry, which shows how we can borrow designs from nature to solve complex problems.

Amina Khan shares how nature has been working smarter and not harder, and shows us that by looking to her for new and innovative ideas, we can design more sustainably and efficiently for our future. An entertaining eulogy to the power of evolution, this is a must-read for anyone with an interest in design, nature or technology.

'Instead of trying to crudely dominate the world around us, it's nice to learn that more smart humans are trying to figure out how we might use the clues from other species to fit in a little more easily on this tired old planet.'
Bill McKibben, bestselling author of Eaarth

Amina Khan is a science writer at the Los Angeles Times. She's covered Curiosity's landing on Mars and explored abandoned gold mines in pursuit of a dark matter detector. This is her first book.

The Power and the Story

The Global Battle for Journalism

John Lloyd

In this sweeping work of intellectual reportage, one of Britain's most distinguished journalists and media commentators analyses for the first time the state of journalism worldwide.

From the vast political power of Rupert Murdoch's News International and the merger of television and politics in Italy, to the part that Facebook and Twitter played in the Arab revolts and the radical openness stimulated by WikiLeaks; and from the growing worldwide power of public relations and the decline of the newspaper in the West, to the booming, raucous and sometimes corrupt Indian media and the growing self-confidence of African journalism, John Lloyd examines the technological shifts, the political changes and the market transformations through which journalism is passing in the 'post-truth' age.

The Power and the Story is a fascinating global survey of a trade that has claimed the right to hold power to account and the duty to make the significant interesting – while making both the first draft of history, and a profit.

John Lloyd co-founded the Reuters Institute for the Study of Journalism at the University of Oxford. He has written several books, including What the Media Are Doing to Our Politics. He is also a contributing editor at the Financial Times and the founding editor of the FT Magazine.

The Lies of the Land

A Brief History of Political Dishonesty

Adam MacQueen

A senior Private Eye journalist charts the last 50 years of political lies – and explores the ‘post-truth’ era.

Trust in our politicians is at an all-time low. We’re in a ‘post-truth’ era, when feelings trump facts, and when brazen rhetoric beats honesty. But do politicians lie more than they used to? And do we even want them to tell the truth?

In a history full of wit and political acumen, Adam MacQueen dissects the gripping stories of the biggest political lies of the last half-century, from the Profumo affair to Boris Johnson’s £350 million for the NHS. But this book is also so much more. It explains how we have rapidly moved from the implicit assumption that our rulers have our best interests at heart, to expecting the worst.

Praise for The Prime Minister’s Ironing Board And Other State Secrets:

‘Hilarious and troubling’ Daily Mail

Adam MacQueen has worked at Private Eye on and off for fourteen years. He is the author of the Sunday Times bestseller The Private Eye: The First 50 Years.

I'm a Joke and So Are You

A Comedian's Take on What Makes Us Human

Robin Ince

The popular comedian and science presenter blends memoir, wit and popular science to examine the human condition.

Robin Ince has a good life. As a successful comedian, presenter and writer, you are probably jealous of him. So why did he find himself stuck on a train platform in rural Northumberland, swearing maniacally and vowing never to do stand-up again? Was he having an existential crisis? He didn't know. But he wanted to find out.

Insightful, witty, and informed by interviews with lots of shrinks and neuroscientists, this book charts his journey to discover why he made the choices he did in life, and what makes us who we are. This fascinating book is guaranteed to amuse you, while explaining the mysteries of the human condition (and Robin).

'One of the UK's most accomplished, versatile comedians' Guardian

Robin Ince is co-presenter of the award-winning BBC Radio 4 show The Infinite Monkey Cage. He has won the Time Out Award for Outstanding Achievement in Comedy. He appears regularly on both television and radio and has two top-ten iTunes podcast series to his name.

A History of Rome in Seven Sackings

Matthew Kneale

A fascinating history of the city of Rome, seen through the eyes of its most significant sackings, from the Gauls to the Nazis and everything in between.

No city on earth has preserved its past as has Rome; its architectural survivals are remarkable considering the violent disasters that have struck the city, in particular its repeated ravishment by roving armies. A History of Rome in Seven Sackings examines the most important of these attacks and reveals, with fascinating insight, how they transformed the city – and not always for the worse.

A meticulously researched, magical blend of travelogue and social and cultural history, this is part celebration of the fierce courage, panache and vitality of the Roman people, and part passionate love letter to Rome. Kneale has written a popular history of the famous, incomparable city like no other.

Praise for English Passengers:

‘A book shouting with life ... Every page fizzles with linguistic invention. English Passengers deserves to be welcomed into port with a riot of bunting and prizes.’ Guardian

Matthew Kneale studied Modern History at Magdalen College, Oxford. He has written five novels, including English Passengers, which was shortlisted for the Booker Prize and won the Whitbread Book of the Year Award. For the last fifteen years he has lived in Rome with his wife and two children.

Science(ish)

The Peculiar Science Behind the Movies

Rick Edwards and
Dr Michael Brooks

Two bestselling authors with a huge combined platform provide the quintessential gift science book – based on a hit podcast.

Just like you, Dr Michael Brooks and Rick Edwards have watched a lot of movies. Unlike you, they've written an amusing book exploring and unpicking these much-loved stories, revealing the science within. They've chatted to some of the most respected names in science to get to the bottom of these alternate realities. And if at any point the reader is confused, relax – so is Rick. And he'll make sure Michael explains it clearly.

From Jurassic Park to The Matrix, this is a wild ride through modern astrophysics, biology, neuroscience, behavioural science, technology, and lots of other -ologies. Illustrated with shots from classic films, this banter-filled book is a must-buy this Christmas.

Praise for the Science(ish) podcast:

'It works beautifully... This is bite-sized science, expertly made' Financial Times

Rick Edwards is a writer and television presenter. His debut book, None of the Above, reached number 5 in the overall Amazon UK chart. Rick has a Natural Sciences degree from Cambridge, but only dimly recalls it.

Dr Michael Brooks is a scientist, journalist, bestselling author and consultant at the New Scientist. He wrote 13 Things That Don't Make Sense, which has sold over 200,000 copies worldwide.

Lady Fanshawe's Receipt Book

The Life and Times of a Civil War Heroine

Lucy Moore

A revealing and intimate account of one woman's life during the turbulent years of the English Civil War.

In the mid-seventeenth century, England was divided by war and bloodshed. For Ann Fanshawe and her children, it meant a life of insecurity and constant jeopardy as she and her Royalist husband dedicated their lives to the Stuart restoration.

In this uncertain world, Ann's 'receipt book' of recipes, advice and wisdom was a treasured and entirely domestic response to the upheavals of war. Using Ann's book and the memoirs she wrote for her surviving son, still remarkably intact, Lucy Moore follows her through this turbulent time to bring to life Ann's struggles and her joys, revealing how ordinary women across the country fought to protect their loved ones in the face of conflict.

Praise for Nijinsky: A Life:

'Superb... Moore recounts [Nijinsky's story] with scholarship, grace and imagination.'

Railways and the Raj

Britain, India and Empire

Christian Wolmar

The epic story of the construction of the railways in India, as told by Britain's bestselling transport historian.

By building the railways in India, Britain radically changed the nation but also unwittingly created the preconditions of independence. While the railways greatly benefitted India and were the nation's first modern development, their construction was no act of altruism by the British and ultimately contributed to a stirring of nationalist opinion.

In this expertly told history, Christian Wolmar traces the evolution of India's rail network, revealing how it was largely subverted for British economic and military purposes. He also examines the chequered role of the railways in Indian history and the part they played in the creation of today's modern state.

Blowfish's Oceanopedia

300 Awesome Things You Didn't Know
About the Sea

Blowfish

A fascinating and fun-filled book of extraordinary facts about our world's oceans, seas and waterways, by ITV's Fishing Impossible's big star, Blowfish.

The seas cover more than seventy per cent of our planet, but remain shrouded in mystery. We know more about the surface of the Moon than we do about the lifeforms that exist in the Earth's deep oceans.

In this entertaining and enlightening new book, Blowfish, a marine biologist and star presenter of BBC Earth and ITV's Fishing Impossible, lifts the lid on a treasure chest of fascinating facts to reveal what lurks beneath the waves.

For the simply curious and the budding scientist alike, Blowfish's Oceanopedia is a one-stop guide to all we know about our oceans and the weird and wonderful creatures that inhabit them.

Blowfish is a death-metal-loving marine biologist, who knows almost everything there is to know about the world's fish species. An ardent marine conservationist, he is an experienced scuba diver with a Divemaster qualification. He is one of three presenters on the new, widely-transmitted, Fishing Impossible.

Seeing Red

Lina Meruane

Translated from the Spanish by Megan McDowell

A deliciously perverse autobiographical love story of a young woman losing her sight, by one of Chile's most radical and feted contemporary writers.

Lina, a young Chilean academic living in New York, retreats to a quiet bedroom at a house party. She complains of a sharp pain in her head, right behind the eyes. She is suffering a small haemorrhage. Within minutes, blood floods her optic nerve, reducing her vision to outlines and tones of grey. As she begins to adjust to a very different life, her boyfriend begins to adjust to a very different woman – one who is angry, raw, funny, complicated, sexual and dizzyingly alive.

'Astonishing' Los Angeles Times

'Viscous, repulsive, beautiful' New Yorker

'Stunning... Black and bitter and bloody and beautiful' The Nation

Lina Meruane, Chilean author and academic, has won numerous international prizes for her work. She lives in New York, where she teaches at NYU.

Lea

Pascal Mercier

Translated from the German by Shaun Whiteside

From the author of the bestseller Night Train to Lisbon comes a heartbreaker of a novel about fathers and daughters, great rises and sudden falls.

It all starts with the death of Martijn van Vliet's wife. His grief-stricken young daughter, Lea, cuts herself off from the world, right up until the day that she hears a snatch of Bach being played on a violin by a busker. Transfixed by the melody, she emerges from her mourning, vowing to learn the instrument. Lea's all-consuming passion is matched by talent, and she becomes one of the finest players in the country – but as her fame blossoms, her relationship with her father only withers. Desperate to hold on to Lea, Martijn is driven to commit an act that threatens to destroy both him and his daughter.

Praise for Night Train to Lisbon:

Norma

Sofi Oksanen

Translated from the Finnish by Owen Witesman

From the internationally acclaimed author of Purge and When the Doves Disappeared comes a deliciously dark family drama and a searing portrait of the exploitation of women's bodies.

When Anita Naakka jumps in front of an oncoming train, her daughter, Norma, is left alone with the secret they have spent their lives hiding: Norma has supernatural hair, sensitive to the slightest changes in her mood – and the moods of those around her. And so it is her hair that alerts her, while she talks with a strange man at her mother's funeral, that her mother may not have taken her own life...

'Hold on tight, because this is the best novel you will read this fall.' Femina (Denmark)

'Sofi Oksanen is one of the brightest shining stars in Nordic literature. I want to devour Norma whole.' Norrköpings Tidningar (Sweden)

Sofi Oksanen is a Finnish–Estonian novelist and playwright. Purge was her first novel to appear in English. She has received numerous prizes for her work, including the Swedish Academy Nordic Prize, the Prix Femina, the Budapest Grand Prize, the European Book Prize, and the Nordic Council Literature Prize. She lives in Helsinki.

Soon to be a major HBO series, Tiny Beautiful Things is an advice column administered by the author of the global sensation Wild.

Many years ago, Cheryl Strayed was an anonymous internet agony aunt. But unlike most agony aunts, her advice was spun from genuine compassion and informed by a wealth of personal experience – experience that was sometimes tragic and sometimes tender, often hilarious and often heart-breaking.

'It made me laugh out loud and it made me gasp with disbelief... Breathtakingly great.'
Observer

Cheryl Strayed is the author of the novel Torch, the memoir Wild and the collection of essays Tiny Beautiful Things.

Blitzkrieg

Myth, Reality and Hitler's Lightning War – France, 1940

Lloyd Clark

'Genuinely revisionist... Excellent' Andrew Roberts

In this riveting and richly detailed book, Lloyd Clark argues that the France 1940 campaign revealed Germany's armed forces to be highly vulnerable and offers a gripping reassessment of the myths that have built up around one of the Second World War's greatest military victories.

'A compelling and fresh retelling of one of the century's most intriguing and significant campaigns.' BBC History Magazine

God Is Not Great

* RE-ISSUE *

Christopher Hitchens

A special edition of the provocative bestseller from Britain's foremost controversial thinker.

God Is Not Great is the ultimate case against religion: man-made, dangerously sexually repressive, and distorting the very origins of the cosmos. Above all, Hitchens argues that the concept of an omniscient God has profoundly damaged humanity, and proposes that the world might be a great deal better off without 'him'.

'If Hitchens didn't exist, we wouldn't be able to invent him.' Ian McEwan

Christopher Hitchens (1949–2011) was a columnist for Vanity Fair and Slate, and the author of numerous prize-winning books.

The Age of the Horse

An Equine Journey Through Human History

Susanna Forrest

The fascinating story of the horse from its origins to the present day, via centuries of global human history.

From the wild tarpans sought by the Nazis to jade-laden treasure steeds in ancient China, stallions that face fighting bulls and brewery horses that charmed the founder of the Sikh Empire, The Age of the Horse knits the history of the horse into that of humans.

‘Susanna Forrest is the outstanding writer at the erudite end of horse madness... Thinking jodhpur-wearers will love it.’ The Times

Susanna Forrest lives in Berlin where she works as a writer and editor.

White Trash

The 400-Year Untold History of Class in America

Nancy Isenberg

A groundbreaking, internationally bestselling history of the class system in America, which challenges popular myths about equality in the land of opportunity.

In this landmark book, Nancy Isenberg argues that the voters who boosted Trump all the way to the White House have been a permanent part of the American fabric, and reveals how the wretched and landless poor have existed from the time of the earliest British colonial settlements to today's hillbillies.

'A masterly and ambitious cultural history of changing concepts of class and inferiority.'

New York Times (Notable Book of the Year)

Nancy Isenberg is the author of Fallen Founder: The Life of Aaron Burr, which was a finalist for the LA Times Book Prize in Biography and won the Oklahoma Book Award for best book in non-fiction. She is the T. Harry Williams Professor of American History at LSU.

Love in Row 27 * STOP PRESS *

Eithne Shortall

A delightful debut novel about an airline check-in attendant playing Cupid to unsuspecting flyers, while accidentally discovering a match of her own.

What happens when Cupid plays co-pilot?

Still reeling from a break-up, Cora Hendricks has given up on ever finding love. For herself, that is. To pass the time while working the Aer Lingus check-in desk at Heathrow, Cora begins to play Cupid with high-flying singles.

Using only her intuition and the internet, Row 27 becomes Cora's laboratory of love. Instead of being seated randomly, two unwitting passengers on each flight find themselves next to the person of their dreams – or not.

Cora swears Row 27 is just a bit of fun, but while she's busy making sparks fly at cruising altitude, the love she'd given up on for herself just might have landed right in front of her...

Eithne Shortall studied journalism at Dublin City University and has lived in London, France and America. Now based in Dublin, she is an arts journalist for the Sunday Times. She has been a committed matchmaker from an early age and also enjoys sea swimming, cycling and eating scones.

Don't Close Your Eyes

Holly Seddon

Two sisters. A lifetime of secrets. One terrible reckoning. The astonishing new thriller from the bestselling author of Try Not to Breathe.

Robin and Sarah weren't the closest of twins. But one day, they were cruelly taken from one another.

Now, in her early thirties, Robin is agoraphobic and suffering from panic attacks; she spends her days pacing her house. Until she sees something she shouldn't...

And Sarah? Sarah got what she wanted – the perfect home and family. But she needs to come to terms with something that happened long ago; she needs to track down her twin sister.

As their paths intersect, something dangerous is set in motion, leading Robin and Sarah to fight for much more than their relationship...

The Children

Ann Leary

From a New York Times bestselling author comes the charming and captivating story of a wealthy – but entirely unconventional – family.

Charlotte Maynard rarely leaves her mother's home; the sprawling Connecticut lake house that belonged to her late stepfather.

While Charlotte and her sister grew up at Lakeside, their stepbrothers, Spin and Perry, were welcomed as weekend guests. But now the grown boys own the estate, which Charlotte's mother occupies by their grace.

When Spin, youngest and favourite child, brings his fiancée home for the summer, she breathes new life into their world. But as the wedding draws near, an array of simmering resentments and unfortunate truths are exposed – with devastating consequences.

The Captain's Girl

Nicola Pryce

A stunning second novel in Nicola Pryce's eighteenth-century Cornish saga, following the desperate struggles of heroine Celia Cavendish.

Cornwall, 1793. As the French Revolution threatens the stability of England, so too is discontent brewing in the heart of Celia Cavendish. Promised to the brutal Viscount Vallenforth, she must find a way to break free...

Inspired by her cousin Arbella, she vows to escape her marriage and take back her destiny. She enlists the help of her neighbours, Lord and Lady Polcarrow. But can the Polcarrows' mysterious friend Captain Arnaud protect Celia from a man who will let nothing stand in the way of his greed? And will the Captain himself prove to be friend... or foe?

Praise for Pengelly's Daughter:

Pocketful of Dreams

Jean Fullerton

Jean Fullerton, queen of the East End saga, returns with a charming new wartime series.

It's 1939, and the Brogan family of London's East End are ready to show Hitler what for. But things don't seem so rosy when rationing, evacuation and air raids start to put this larger-than-life family to the test.

When the mysterious young Daniel McCree arrives at the Brogans' local parish church, he provides just the dazzling distraction they need – and for eldest daughter Mattie, the promise of more than she'd ever wished for. But as the pair fall deeper in love, they are drawn into secret dangers, rife on the very London streets they call home.

The young couple must do all they can to protect life as they know it. But will their dreams be able to survive the nightmare of wartime?

Jean Fullerton is the author of ten historical novels. She is a qualified District and Queen's nurse who has spent most of her working life in the East End of London. She is also a qualified teacher and spent twelve years lecturing on community nursing studies at a London university.

The Archives of the Comptroller-General for Scrutiny and Survey

Treason's Spring

Robert Wilton

Revolution, dissent and secret plotting – trouble is rife on the streets of eighteenth-century Paris, in this stunning prequel to Treason's Tide.

It's 1792 and revolutionary Paris is in ferment. The canny Scots merchant Keith Kinnaird, invited to the French capital by companion Henry Greene, soon becomes an unwitting pawn in a far greater game – the frantic search for Louis XVI's incriminating correspondence with fellow European monarchies.

Now, Kinnaird must pit himself against the callous cunning of Joseph Fouché, the Revolution's ambitious chief of intelligence, and the aristocratic deceptions of Karl Arnim, Prussia's greatest spy.

Treason's Spring is a thrilling and meticulous panorama of Paris during the Revolution, and a tense, entangled and marvellously imagined tale of triumph in adversity.

Robert Wilton has held a variety of posts in the British Ministry of Defence, Foreign Office and Cabinet Office. He was advisor to the Prime Minister of Kosovo in the lead-up to the country's independence. Treason's Spring is his fourth novel published with Corvus.

Open Arms

Vince Cable

A sweeping, fast-paced political drama which circles from Whitehall to Delhi's slums, and combines unrivalled political detail with international intrigue.

Kate Thompson's meteoric rise from housewife to Minister of State for Trade is due more to party machinations than respect for her abilities. Until, that is, she finds her feet on a delegate trip to India.

Deepak Parrikar runs one of India's largest conglomerates, providing technology to ease the ever-escalating nuclear tension with Pakistan. But then a senior member of staff is murdered, a corporate spy is discovered, and a mysterious company called Global Technology begins to assert more and more control over their business...

Steve Grant is on the hunt for a saboteur. As senior technician at Pulsar, specialising in military navigational disruption, he must mediate between his trade union and try to steer Pulsar away from financial catastrophe, spearheaded by the shadowy Global Technology. But who are they, and what do they want?

Vince Cable was MP for Twickenham from 1997–2015. He was the Liberal Democrats' chief economic spokesperson from 2003–10 having previously served as Chief Economist for Shell from 1995–7. He was Business Secretary under the coalition government from 2010–15.

America City

Chris Beckett

Darkly prophetic and powerful, America City is another genre-defying foray by an Arthur C. Clarke award-winning author.

America, one century on: a warmer climate is causing vast movements of people. Droughts, floods and hurricanes compel entire populations to abandon their homes and trek north with whatever possessions they can carry. Tensions are mounting between north and south, with some northern states threatening to close their borders.

Holly Peacock, an ambitious young publicist, crosses paths with the charismatic Senator Slaymaker, a politician whose sole mission is to keep America together. And when he runs for President, it's Holly who becomes his right-hand woman.

But can they bring America together – or have they set the country on a new, but equally devastating, path?

Praise for the Eden trilogy:

'The Eden trilogy is a remarkable achievement... It is both politically astute and theologically compelling.' Guardian

'Eden is building into one of the most vivid and fascinating places in modern SF.' SFX

Chris Beckett is the winner of the Edge Hill Short Fiction Prize 2009 for his collection The Turing Test, the prestigious Arthur C. Clarke Award 2013 for Dark Eden, and he was shortlisted for the British Science Fiction Association Novel of the Year Award 2015 for Mother of Eden.

The Hanne Wilhelmsen Series

In Dust and Ashes

Anne Holt

Translated from the Norwegian by Anne Bruce

The tenth and final instalment of Anne Holt's explosive Hanne Wilhelmsen series.

In 2001, three-year-old Dina is killed in a tragic car accident. Not long thereafter, her mother dies in mysterious circumstances, and her father Jonas is convicted of her murder.

Fifteen years later, the cold case ends up on the desk of Detective Henrik Holme, who tries to convince his mentor, Hanne Wilhelmsen, that the father might have been wrongly convicted. Holme and Wilhelmsen discover that the case could be connected to the suicide of an eccentric blogger as well as the kidnapping of the grandson of a Euro Jackpot millionaire.

Praise for Anne Holt:

'Lively, unusual and persuasive. Holt writes with the command we have come to expect from the top Scandinavian writers.' The Times

Anne Holt is Norway's bestselling female crime writer. She spent two years working for the Oslo Police Department before founding her own law firm and serving as Norway's Minister for Justice between 1996 and 1997. All of a Winter's Night

Phil Rickman

A medieval legend spawns an unhealthy cult... and a terrifying case for Merrily Watkins.

In Hereford, the old ways are at war with the new. As the days shorten and the fog gives way to snow, a savage killing draws Merrily Watkins into a conflict centred on one of Britain's most famous medieval churches.

Praise for the Merrily Watkins mysteries:

'Few writers blend the ancient and supernatural with the modern and criminal better.' Guardian

Phil Rickman lives on the Welsh border where he writes and presents the book programme Phil the Shelf on BBC Radio Wales.

Valiant Gentlemen

Sabina Murray

A spell-binding historical epic that follows the lives of Easter Rising Irish rebel Roger Casement and English sculptor Herbert Ward.

Valiant Gentlemen takes the reader on an intimate journey, from Ward and Casement's misadventurous youth in the Congo, to Ward's marriage and flourishing family life in France, to Casement's covert homosexuality and enduring nomadic lifestyle floating between his work across the African continent and involvement in Irish politics.

When the First World War breaks out, Casement and Ward's longstanding political differences finally come to a head. What results is tragic and riveting, as both men are forced to confront notions of love and betrayal in the face of the vastly different tracks their lives have taken.

'On this side of the Atlantic, Murray is our Hilary Mantel.' Bob Shacochis, author of The Woman Who Lost Her Soul

'A wise, illuminating novel.' Washington Post

'This novel is made out of history but is every bit a modern marvel.' Alexander Chee, author of The Queen of the Night

Sabina Murray grew up in Australia and the Philippines and is currently a member of the MFA faculty at the University of Massachusetts. She is the author of Tales of the New World, A Carnivore's Inquiry, Forgery and The Caprices, which won the PEN/ Faulkner Award for Fiction.

Leaving Las Vegas

John O'Brien

* RE-ISSUE *

A re-issue of the masterpiece of modern realism about the perils of addiction and love in a city of loneliness.

Sera is a prostitute, content with the independence and routine she has carved out for herself in a city defined by recklessness. Ben is an alcoholic intent on drinking his way to an early death. Newly arrived from Los Angeles, he survived the four-hour intoxicated drive across the desert with his entire savings in his wallet and nothing else left to lose.

Looking to satisfy hungers both material and existential, Ben and Sera stumble together on the strip and discover in each other a respite from their unforgiving lives.

Leaving Las Vegas is a compelling story of unconditional love between two disenfranchised and lost souls – an overlooked American classic.

'A brutal and unflinching portrait of the low life in the city of high rollers, Leaving Las Vegas is both shocking and curiously exhilarating. John O'Brien was a stunningly talented writer who created poetry from the most squalid materials. This is a beautiful and horrifying novel.' Jay McInerney

John O'Brien was born in 1960 and lived most of his life in California until his death in 1994.

The Man Who Spoke Snakish

Andrus Kivirähk

Translated from the Estonian by Christopher Moseley

An internationally bestselling coming-of-age story set in Estonia, mixing magical realism, reinvented national myth and satire.

'The Man Who Spoke Snakish is a wild comic swoop through the histories of Estonia, magic, human-powered flight and man-bear relations. At once fantastic and emotionally engaged, underneath the narrative high-jinks lurks a deeply serious novel about how Europe became the way it is.' Lawrence Norfolk

'An incredible novel, a mystifying treasure of a book.' Psychologies magazine

Andrus Kivirähk is one of Estonia's most highly regarded contemporary writers, a journalist known for his satirical newspaper columns and bestselling novels.

The Core of the Sun

Johanna Sinisalo

Translated from the Finnish by Lola Rogers

A captivating and witty speculative satire from the queen of 'Finnish weird'.

A feisty, between-the-lines social polemic, The Core of the Sun is a witty and inventive story of a Handmaid's Tale-esque welfare state where women are either breeders or outcasts, addicts chase the elusive high of super-hot chilli peppers, and one woman is searching for her missing sister.

'An intoxicating book, sizzling to look at and as spicy as a hot pepper.'
Weltexpress (Germany)

Johanna Sinisalo has won several literary prizes, including the Finlandia Prize and the James Tiptree, Jr. Award. She lives in Finland.

The White City

Karolina Ramqvist

Translated from the Swedish by Saskia Vogel

An arresting and intimate novel of betrayal and empowerment from a bold, fearless writer.

When she fell for John, high-flying criminal and love of her life, Karin never imagined things would turn out like this. He is gone and all that remains of her former life is the big house he bought for her – and his daughter, the child Karin swore she would never bring into their dangerous world.

With the authorities zeroing in on organized crime, the house is about to be seized and Karin is forced to take drastic measures in order to claim what she considers rightfully hers.

A slow-burning psychological thriller, The White City is an unflinching examination of what it means to lose control – over your body, your life and your fate.

‘A seamless and controlled novel vibrating with subtext that cements Karolina Ramqvist’s position as one of Sweden’s most interesting writers.’ Expressen (Sweden)

‘Ramqvist handles this small, frozen thriller masterfully in every detail.’ Dagens Nyheter (Sweden)

Karolina Ramqvist is one of the most influential feminists and writers of her generation in Sweden. She has published several novels, short stories, essays and criticism, has contributed to leading political and literary journals, and is the former editor-in-chief of Arena magazine. She lives in Stockholm with her husband and children.

NK3

Michael Tolkin

A panoramic vision set in a near-future California that has been devastated by NK3, a memory-destroying virus from North Korea.

In post-NK3 Los Angeles, a sixty-foot-tall fence surrounds the hills where the rich used to live. Inside the Fence, life for the Verified, those with the power of memory, is a perpetual party. Outside the Fence, the Verified use an invented mythology to keep control over the mindless and nameless Drifters, Shamblers and Bottle Bangers.

The ruler, Chief, takes his guidance from gigantic effigies of a man and a woman in the heart of the Fence. They warn him of trouble to come, but who is the person to watch? Who will upset the delicate power balance in this fragile world?

‘Brave, brilliant and barely speculative... Part cartoon and part allegory, it’s tempting to call NK3 the first book of the Trump era.’
Chris Kraus, author of I Love Dick

‘As an existentialist horror story, NK3 tautly proposes a future that now, in post-factual America, seems closer than ever.’
Jon Robin Baitz

Michael Tolkin is an award-winning writer, director and producer. His novels include The Player, The Return of the Player, Among the Dead and Under Radar. Most recently, he has been a consulting producer and writer for the series Ray Donovan.

theMystery.doc

Matthew McIntosh

Thirteen years in the making, theMystery.doc is a 1,700-page shapeshifting novel unlike any book that has ever been published before.

Part love story, part prose poem, part documentary, part existential whodunnit, part future-fiction, part Bildungsroman and part memoir, theMystery.doc is about the quest to find something lasting in a world where everything is in danger of slipping away. Love, loss, birth, death, technology, terrorism and the American Dream come together to form a great symphonic work that dazzles in both its structure and in its deep emotional resonance.

Mixing image, textual art, and interlacing plot lines, it transcends the limits of genre and form to create a highly inventive, often hilarious and deeply moving work, which brilliantly reflects the times in which we live and the ways in which we consume and are consumed by information in the digital age.

‘Matthew McIntosh’s huge and riveting theMystery.doc stakes out its territory in the unbroken ground of a new and unsettling American century... A transfixing statement in a shimmering new language.’ Alan Moore

Matthew McIntosh is the author of the Los Angeles Times bestseller Well. He lives on the West Coast of America.

A Really Big Lunch

Jim Harrison

A collection of food writing from 'the Henry Miller of food writing' (Wall Street Journal) – beloved New York Times bestselling writer Jim Harrison.

Jim Harrison's legendary gourmandize is on full display in A Really Big Lunch. From the titular New Yorker piece about a French lunch that went to thirty-seven courses, to pieces from Brick, Playboy, the Kermit Lynch newsletter and more on the relationship between hunter and prey, or the obscure language of wine reviews, A Really Big Lunch is shot through with Harrison's keen delight in the pleasures of the senses. And between the lines the pieces give glimpses of the last fifteen years of Harrison's life. A Really Big Lunch is a literary delight that will satisfy every appetite.

Praise for The Raw and the Cooked:

'Jim Harrison has staked out a distinctive place in the world of food writing.'

Close Enough to Touch

Colleen Oakley

An untraditional but beautiful love story about the power and possibilities of the human heart.

Jubilee has a unique condition – she's allergic to people. After a humiliating near-death experience at school, Jubilee has become reclusive in adulthood. But now, circumstances have forced her to leave home and face the world – and the people in it – she's been hiding from.

One of those people is Eric. With a daughter from his failed marriage no longer speaking to him, and a brilliant, if psychologically troubled, adopted son who believes he has untapped telekinetic powers, Eric's struggling to figure out how to be the dad – and man – he wants so desperately to be. Then, one day, he meets a woman named Jubilee...

To Capture What We Cannot Keep

Beatrice Colin

A warm, lush novel of love against the odds, set in a gloriously evoked 1880s Paris.

In 1887, widow Caitriona Wallace and engineer Émile Nougier meet in a hot air balloon. But back on firm ground, their vastly different social strata become clear. As the Eiffel Tower rises, Cait and Émile must decide what their love is worth.

'This exquisitely written, shadowy historical novel will appeal to a wide variety of readers.' Library Journal

'Romantic, moving and memorable' Chris Bohjalian

Stewart O'Nan

Wish You Were Here

A family gathering brings decades of suppressed tension to the surface in this classic novel from Stewart O'Nan.

A year after the death of her husband, Emily Maxwell gathers her family for a last holiday at their summer cottage. Memories of past summers resurface, old rivalries flare up, and romance is rekindled in this timeless, beautifully judged novel.

City of Secrets

From master storyteller Stewart O'Nan, a timely moral thriller set in Jerusalem after the Second World War.

In 1945, with no homes to return to, Jewish refugees set out for Palestine in their tens of thousands. City of Secrets follows one survivor, Brand, as he tries to regain himself after losing everyone he's ever loved.

A noirish, deeply felt novel of intrigue and identity written in O'Nan's trademark lucent style, City of Secrets asks how both despair and faith can lead us astray, and what happens when, with the noblest intentions, we join movements beyond our control.

Miss Muriel Matters

Robert Wainwright

The sparkling untold story of one of the suffragette movement's leading lights.

In 1908 Muriel Matters, known as 'that daring Australian girl', chained herself to an iron grille in the House of Commons to demand votes for women, thus becoming the first woman to speak in the House. The following year she made headlines around the world when she took to the sky over the Houses of Parliament in an airship emblazoned with 'Votes for Women'.

A trailblazer in the suffragette movement, she toured England in a horse-drawn caravan to promote the cause. Bestselling author Robert Wainwright introduces us to the intelligent, passionate and brave Muriel, who fought tirelessly for women's rights in a world far from equal.

Praise for Sheila:

Dangerous Animals

Kirstin McMillan

The astonishing true story of a lion tamer's daughter who found healing through a rescue dog.

Kirstin McMillan was raised in the circus, spending the first eight years of her life as the littlest clown in Ringling Brothers. Her father worked with big cats, dominating them with his own ferocity and force of will. His 'training' methods involved clubs, whips and starvation, and Kirstin and her mother once watched, horrified, as he single-handedly beat a Bengal tiger to death. Her father's brutal dominance didn't stop with animals and his family felt his methods first-hand too.

Starved of affection and believing that strength and mastery were the key to relationships, Kirstin grew up damaged. It took a basset hound to teach her the meaning of unconditional love and heal the traumas of her childhood.

'Kirstin possesses an uncanny ability to communicate with creatures of the wild.'

Jimmy Kimmel

'The best dog trainer in LA' LA Magazine

Kirstin McMillan is a third-generation animal trainer. She lives in Los Angeles, where she works in the film industry as an animal handler.

The Shipwreck Hunter

My Life in Deep Water

David Mearns

The gripping memoir of the world's foremost marine geologist, and an enthralling blend of maritime history, popular science and Clive Cussler-style adventure.

David Mearns has discovered some of the world's most elusive shipwrecks. From the mighty battleship HMS Hood to the crumbling wooden skeletons of Vasco de Gama's sixteenth-century fleet, David has searched for and found dozens of sunken vessels in every ocean of the world.

The Shipwreck Hunter is an account of David's most intriguing finds. It details both the meticulous research and the mid-ocean stamina and courage required to locate a wreck miles beneath the sea. Combining the derring-do of Indiana Jones with precision of a surgeon, in The Shipwreck Hunter David Mearns opens a porthole into the shadowy depths of the ocean.

'For [Mearns], setting world records and recovering centuries-old treasures is just another day at the office – or ocean, rather.'

National Geographic

David Mearns has discovered twenty-two major shipwrecks, achieving an overall success rate of eighty-eight per cent, and his company Blue Water Recoveries has been awarded three Guinness World Records, including one for the deepest shipwreck ever found. David is a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and the Explorers Club. He lives in Sussex.

Code Name Suzette

One Woman's Quest to Save the Jewish Children of Occupied Paris

Anne Nelson

An inspirational tale of courage, collaboration and a fearless spirit, currently being developed for the screen by the Weinstein Company.

Born into affluence, married to a playwright, Suzanne Spaak was an intimate and muse of Magritte and a close friend of Colette. She could have spent the Second World War living in occupied Paris in relative comfort. But instead she became a leading player in the Paris underground, focusing her efforts on saving the city's most vulnerable people: Jewish children.

Moving from the darkly glamorous culture of occupied Paris to the dilapidated streets of the Jewish quarters, Code Name Suzette recreates the life of an inspirational woman who transcended boundaries of nationality and class, and worked tirelessly to protect Paris's most vulnerable and oppressed.

Suzanne Spaak

Anne Nelson is the Adjunct Associate Professor Lecturer of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University. She is the author of, most recently, Red Orchestra. Nelson is a graduate of Yale University, a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and the recipient of a 2005 Guggenheim Fellowship.

Afghan Prison Memoir

Seven Years of Hell in Afghanistan's Most Notorious Prison

Robert Langdon

A harrowing account of Afghanistan's most notorious prison, written by its longest-serving Western inmate.

Former soldier Robert Langdon was working as a security contractor in Afghanistan when he was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death in a case that would have been ruled a clear miscarriage of justice in the British legal system. His sentence was commuted to twenty years in jail, and he served his time in Kabul's most notorious prison, Pul-e-Charkhi, described as the world's worst place to be a Westerner.

Robert was there for seven years, the longest sentence served by a Westerner since the fall of the Taliban, and every one of those 2,500 days was an act of extraordinary survival in a jail filled with Afghanistan's most dangerous extremists and murderers. In 2016 Robert was pardoned and returned to Australia. In this highly anticipated book he talks about his experiences for the first time.

Robert Langdon joined the Australian Army in 1989 and was awarded several honours including the United Nations Medal for his service overseas. In 2004 he became a private security contractor in Iraq and Afghanistan, working with the US Army and civilian contractors. He lives in Australia.

The Cricketer Book of the Ashes

Ed. Huw Turbervill

Cricket's most prestigious magazine delivers its unique take on the sport's most cherished rivalry, the Ashes.

The Cricketer magazine has been covering the Ashes since it opened its doors in 1921. Sublime articles from the 45 Ashes rubbers that have been played since then, featuring luminaries including Don Bradman, Harold Larwood, Jim Laker, Fred Trueman, Geoffrey Boycott, Ian Botham, Shane Warne and Andrew Flintoff, have appeared in its pages, while the greats of cricket writing – Pelham 'Plum' Warner, Neville Cardus, Christopher Martin-Jenkins and Simon Hughes among them – have ensured the deeds of these legendary cricketers will stretch into perpetuity.

Scouring its archives to unearth the best Ashes articles published throughout its rich history, the editors of The Cricketer have produced a peerless collection that shines a unique light on cricket's most treasured contest. Blending vintage material with fresh new writing, The Cricketer Book of the Ashes includes the magazine's take on the five greatest series, the ultimate Ashes XI and lively detours into controversy, diplomacy and sledging. Every bit as colourful as the Ashes themselves, this will be an irresistible gift for every cricket lover.

And Then You're Dead

What Really Happens If You Get Swallowed by a Whale, Are Shot from a Cannon or Go Barreling over Niagara

Paul Doherty and
Cody Cassidy

A gleefully gruesome look at the actual science behind the most outlandish, cartoonish and impossible deaths you can imagine.

What would happen if you took a swim outside a deep-sea submarine wearing only Speedos? How long could you last if you stood on the surface of the sun? How far could you actually get in digging a hole to China? Paul Doherty and Cody Cassidy explore the real science behind these and other fantastical scenarios, offering insights into physics, astronomy, anatomy and more along the way.

Is slipping on a banana peel really as hazardous to your health as the cartoons imply? Answer: Yes. Banana peels ooze a gel that turns out to be extremely slippery. Your foot and body weight provide the pressure. The gel provides the humour (and resulting head trauma).

'A great read, full of interesting anecdotes and funny commentary.' Ali Almosawi, author of Bad Choices and An Illustrated Book of Bad Arguments

Paul Doherty is co-director and senior staff scientist at San Francisco's famed Exploratorium Museum. Cody Cassidy is a freelance writer living in San Francisco who, when not slipping on banana peels, spends his time playing ultimate frisbee and surfing.

Wonderful Feels Like This

Sara Lövestam

Translated from the Swedish by Laura Wideburg

A feel-good story of friendship and the transformative power of music.

Brought together by their love of a quirky jazz musician from the 1940s, bullied schoolgirl Steffi's friendship with retired musician Alvar helps her find her place in the world.

'A well written, warm and cosy story about how unexpectedly you can find a friend when you most need one.' Värmlands Folkblad (Sweden)

'Lövestam is a musical writer, with such an eye on language and storytelling that she can do almost anything she wants.' Amelia (Sweden)

Sara Lövestam used to teach Swedish to immigrants and is a freelance journalist. She lives in Stockholm.
