Atlantic Books

Fiction

Atlantic Fiction has a reputation for publishing bold, innovative, award-winning writing from around the world. This season includes Death living with his cat in Peterborough, a bestselling twisty heartbreaker, and time-bending forbidden love.

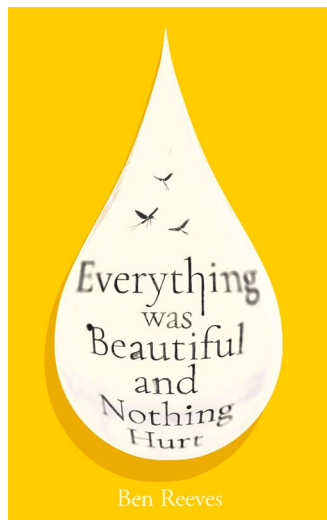

Everything Was Beautiful and Nothing Hurt

Ben Reeves

Winner of the Bath Novel Award, a gorgeous, speculative tear-jerker about Death, the people he takes, and the glorious stuff of being alive.

Travis Smith is Death in the modern world. He lives with his cat in a grey English town. He offers people comfort in their final days and hours of life. He never intervenes, never judges, just listens before escorting each of them to rest.

But Travis is desperately lonely, and when he crosses paths with a young single midwife called Dalia and her boisterous eight-year-old daughter Layla, he can't help but be drawn to them. Dalia is beautiful and overwhelmed, and Layla seems to have a never-ending trove of small treasures to show Travis, and he's never felt the importance of making every moment count so clearly. Because he knows what's to come, and knows he still has his role to play.

Ben Reeves lives in Peterborough with his wife and two children, and he won the Bath Novel Award 2024 for this novel. When he's not writing, he paints, makes music, and works as a web designer for a book printing company.

'This made everyone cry; it shows life's precious, fleeting beauty' Bath judges' statement

The Bombshell

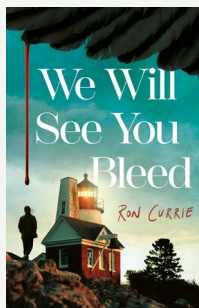

Darrow Farr

The perfect summer literary thriller: 'heady, reckless and dangerously fun'
New York Times

Corsica, 1993. Seventeen-year-old Séverine Guimard, the daughter of a French diplomat, is beautiful, charismatic and always gets whatever she wants. That is until one sun-drenched evening when three masked men emerge from a car and kidnap her. While her parents try to negotiate for her release, Séverine finds herself beginning to sympathise with her captors, particularly the group's charismatic leader, Bruno...

'Lush, cinematic and propulsive... Filled with sex, violence, glamour' Adam Johnson, winner of the Pulitzer Prize

Darrow Farr is a Salvadoran-American writer. She was a Stegner Fellow in Fiction at Stanford University.

We Will See You Bleed

Ron Currie

'A thriller in the best sense. You can't put the damn thing down' Stephen King

It's late summer 1984: as head of the union, Babs has presided over a strike at the local paper mill, even as it has brought the town to its knees. But she needs to make a stand against bigger, darker forces, and the only way to do that is to do what is bred in her very bones: assume control. Completely. Mercilessly. Violently.

Praise for The Savage, Noble Death of Babs Dionne:

'A tour de force' Guardian

'A bloody yet surprisingly warm-hearted spin on The Godfather. Great stuff'
The Times, Best Thrillers of 2025

Ron Currie is the award-winning author of five novels. He has won the New York Public Library's Young Lions Award, the Addison M. Metcalf Award, the Alex Award and the Pushcart Prize. His books have been translated into fifteen languages.

Some People

Parini Shroff

A man on the brink of divorce must care for his future-ex-mother-in-law in this heartfelt follow-up to The Bandit Queens.

Malti Patel is absolutely fine. Certainly fine enough to not need her daughter's soon-to-be-ex-husband, Nathan Whitlock, playing nurse. And yet her doctor insists on in-home supervision for seven days, and with her daughter, Kavya, studying overseas, Nathan proves too much of a do-gooder to let Malti rehabilitate alone.

They want nothing to do with one another. But over the course of the week, they must face the fact that they are the two people who know Kavya best – and the ones who have hurt her the most.

Rich with emotional depth, Some People paints a nuanced portrait of love, forgiveness and our timeless quest for understanding and acceptance.

Praise for The Bandit Queens:

'A darkly funny revenge drama. . . [A] vivid, unsentimental story that succeeds in being both satirical and moving' Guardian

'A radically feel-good story' New York Times

'A mordantly humoured, pacey feminist revenge thriller' Sunday Times

Parini Shroff is the bestselling author of The Bandit Queens, which was a Good Morning America Buzz Pick and longlisted for the Andrew Carnegie Medal and the Women's Prize for Fiction. She is a practising attorney and currently lives in the Bay Area.

The Book of Lost Hours

Hayley Gelfuso

A sweeping, speculative novel for fans of The Ministry of Time and The Book Thief.

Nuremberg, 1938. Lisavet Levy escapes the Nazis through a doorway into the Time Space, a vast library of the memories of everyone who's ever lived. Trapped there, she forges a forbidden love that could threaten the whole course of history...

'An astounding debut!' Jamie Ford

'A love story that defies the boundaries of time, memory and reality' Patti Callahan Henry

Hayley Gelfuso is an author and poet who works in the environmental non-profit sector.

Vera, Or Faith

Gary Shteyngart

*'Pull up a beach chair: The book of the summer is here... A poignant Harriet the Spy-esque delight' People

The Bradford-Shmulkin family – Russian, Jewish, Korean and WASP – is falling apart under modern American pressures. Their young daughter Vera, observant and sensitive, seeks friendship, family stability and her birth mother's secrets in this bitterly funny and poignant satire.

'A novel you can read in one sitting that will stay with you forever' Karen Russell

'A classic American road adventure. Gary Shteyngart keeps getting better' Literary Review

Gary Shteyngart, born in Leningrad, is a bestselling satirist whose novels include the New York Times bestselling Super Sad True Love Story and Our Country Friends.

Children of the Wild

Kevin Powers

A timeless story of love, friendship and sacrifice during World War I, by a prize-winning novelist, poet and war veteran.

Set in 1917 Virginia and beyond, Children of the Wild centres on the unbreakable friendship between local hero Roy Young and enigmatic orphan Ennis Duke – and the enduring love of the minister's daughter, Samantha. A sweeping, poignant, poetic novel, it explores the aftermath of Roy's decision to join a foreign war, and the extraordinary lengths good people will go to to protect and save those they love.

Praise for The Yellow Birds:

'A masterpiece' Hilary Mantel

'A stunning achievement' Sunday Times

'All Quiet on the Western Front for America's Arab Wars' Tom Wolfe

Kevin Powers was born and raised in Richmond, Virginia. Since publishing his first novel in 2012, his books have been translated into more than a dozen languages. He has been a finalist for the National Book Award and has won the PEN/Hemingway Award and the Guardian First Book Award.

Hustle, Baby

Priya Guns

A wickedly comic tale of scammers as a Tamil refugee family tries to get-rich-quick at the turn of the millennium.

Dilo: Teenager. Refugee. Hustler.

Dilo escaped from Northern Sri Lanka to America five years ago. Between selling pirate CDs and shoplifting, she lives hand-to-mouth, constantly struggling for her family's next meal. Until her aunt brings home her new fling Mark, a day trader. He can double every dollar on the stock market.

The family quickly becomes enmeshed in his scheme, but when the bubble bursts Mark disappears as quickly as the cash. Betrayed and enraged, Dilo knows what she has to do.

This is the hustle, baby, and there's no line Dilo won't cross to get what she's owed...

The Falling

Carole Hailey

From a No. 1 bestselling author comes a stunning, speculative novel about the end of the world.

Kit had an unconventional childhood, growing up with a father who spent all of his time preparing for apocalypse. Instead of going to school, she had learned at the kitchen table with her mum, and instead of going out to play, she either snuck off to go see her beloved grandparents or would go to the family safe space, a garage that had been sealed off and stocked with tinned food.

Now middle-aged and living alone in London, Kit continues the rhythms of preparing for the worst, even though her dad failed to prepare for the slow-motion tragedy that became their family. But when an asteroid is located in the solar system, the chance of impact in northern Europe climbing every day, the worst finally seems to be confirmed, and Kit's strange dad might just turn out to have been her salvation...

Praise for Carole Hailey:

'Has the humour and terror of Killing Eve and the whip-smart structure of Penance... and it's compulsive as hell' Abigail Dean

'A gripping psychological thriller'
Bernardine Evaristo

Carole Hailey completed the six-month Guardian/UEA novel writing course taught by Bernardine Evaristo, then abandoned her career in law to undertake an MA in Creative Writing at Goldsmiths and a PhD in Creative Writing at Swansea University. Carole's debut, The Silence Project, was a BBC Radio 2 Book Club Pick, Waterstones Welsh Book of the Month and a Kindle No. 1 bestseller.

Our autumn 2026 offering includes the next volume in Sir Anthony Seldon's Sunday Times bestselling series on prime ministers, and his analysis of the downfall of the Conservative Party, Sunak at 10; Catherine Grace Katz's Shadow Before the Flame, a captivating narrative portrait of the 1937 Hindenburg airship disaster; and historian Sophie Shorland's All the Queen's Men, a new biography of Elizabeth I through the lens of the dukes, kings and emperors who vied to marry her, revealing how Elizabeth used her single status to guarantee England's survival.

STOP PRESS

This is Fascism

Rosan Smits

Translated by Johanna McCalmont
and Florian Duijsens

A bestseller in the Netherlands, this urgent book outlines how fascism has returned to Europe – and how we can stop it.

Fascism hollows out a democracy from within. It starts with language, not tanks. With democratic elections, not a coup.

But how do fascists mobilise citizens? How has fascism become normalised in Europe again? And how do we stop it?

'An excellent read' Timothy Snyder

'A wake-up call' Rutger Bregman

Rosan Smits is a political scientist and has conducted research on radicalisation and violence in war zones for many years. She led the Conflict Research Unit at the Netherlands Institute of International Relations. Since 2017, she has been deputy editor-in-chief of De Correspondent.

The Absent Woman

The Genius of Janet Malcolm

Eve Sneider

An illuminating critical biography of one of the most important and admired non-fiction authors of the twentieth century, New Yorker journalist Janet Malcolm.

Janet Malcolm was a writer with a far-reaching impact and cult-like following, even as she actively opposed being a literary celebrity. For The Absent Woman, journalist Eve Sneider, one of the first people to be given access to Malcolm's archive, creates a portrait of this notoriously private writer at work, delving into the people and themes that consumed her during an over-fifty-year career. From questions of narrative form to cultural criticism, psychoanalysis and the role of subjectivity, Sneider explores these obsessions of Malcolm's through her manuscript drafts, photographs, correspondence, art and interviews with those who knew her.

Eve Sneider curated the inaugural exhibit from Malcolm's archive as a Yale senior. Sneider's work has been published in WIRED, where she was an editor, as well as in the New York Review of Books and Lapham's Quarterly. She lives in Brooklyn.

The Script of the Stones

A Short Walk at the End of the World

Francis Gooding

A short clifftop walk becomes an expansive meditation on nature, memory and climate change in this elegant work of environmental elegy.

The Script of the Stones traces a short walk made myriad times along the South Wales clifftops at Gower. Through intimate observations of the stone, sand, rockpools, clifftop flora, birds and insects, Francis Gooding explores his lifelong connection to this landscape while confronting the fragile and intimate nature of our relationship to the earth. Weaving together personal and natural history, philosophy and poetry, this is a book about insignificance and wonder, immensity and minuteness, about how the smallest creatures and briefest encounters can illuminate our precarious relationship with a rapidly changing Earth.

Francis Gooding is a writer and researcher in music, art and film. He is a contributing editor to the London Review Of Books and Critical Quarterly, and a regular columnist at The Wire.

Gwyneth

The Biography

Amy Odell

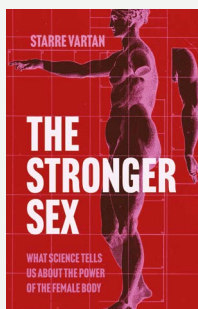

An intimate account of one of the most influential, aspirational and polarising celebrities of the last thirty years.

Gwyneth is the definitive account of how Gwyneth Paltrow rose to prominence, has stayed in the limelight and continues to shape culture – for better or worse.

'Brimming over with gossip' Guardian

'Juicy as hell' Marie Claire

Amy Odell is the New York Times bestselling author of the Anna Wintour biography Anna. A veteran culture and fashion journalist, she writes the influential newsletter Back Row.

The Stronger Sex

The Power of the Female Body

Starre Vartan

A myth-busting exposé that tosses aside the notion of a muscular man as the measure of strength.

Using cutting-edge research from biology to sports science, Starre Vartan demonstrates how women's bodies are incredibly powerful and resilient in ways men's bodies aren't: endurance, flexibility, immunity, pain tolerance, and the ultimate test of any human body, longevity.

'Fun, rooted in science... May this book give all women strength for the times we now live in' Cat Bohannon, author of Eve

Starre Vartan is a freelance science writer with a focus on health-related biotech, mental health, disease and women's bodies.

Peacemaker

U Thant, the United Nations and the Untold Story of the 1960s

Thant Myint-U

An unparalleled biography of U Thant, the United Nations' longest-serving Secretary General.

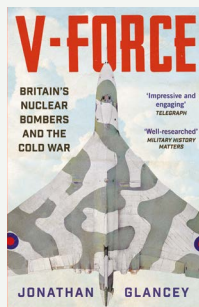

Acclaimed historian Thant Myint-U traces his grandfather's integral yet forgotten roles in some of the twentieth century's most critical crises: from battling white supremacist mercenaries in the Congo and mediating an end to the Cuban Missile Crisis to desperately trying to prevent the 1967 Six-Day War.

'Essential' Peter Frankopan

'Wonderful' Rory Stewart

'Extraordinary' William Dalrymple

Thant Myint-U is an award-winning historian, writer, conservationist and international public servant, and the author of five books.

V-Force

Britain's Nuclear Bombers and the Cold War

Jonathan Glancey

The definitive account of the rise and fall of the RAF's Cold War nuclear bombers – the Valiant, Victor and Vulcan.

From the time they first entered service between 1955 and 1957, the V-bombers stole the public imagination. V-Force sets these charismatic, high-flying aircraft in the story of the development of twentieth-century weapons of mass destruction and Britain's Cold War experience.

'Impressive, engaging and affectionate'
Daily Telegraph

Jonathan Glancey is the former architecture and design correspondent of the Guardian, and the author of over a dozen books on aircraft and architecture.

Shadow Before the Flame

The Hindenburg Disaster and the Prelude to War

Catherine Grace Katz

A gripping, character-driven history of how the rise of Nazism and the stirrings of World War II collided in the Hindenburg Disaster.

In the 1930s, the airship was viewed as the future of transatlantic travel. Germany's safe, fast and efficient airships brought it back into the international fold after its humiliation in World War I – until the Hindenburg airship caught fire over New Jersey, in May 1937, in a blaze that shocked the world and presaged another era of senseless violence.

Drawing on the experiences of a captivating cast of characters, Shadow Before the Flame is an absorbing, ticking-clock narrative that begins with the promise of a future made bright by technological innovation and ends with caskets draped in swastikas in New York City.

Catherine Grace Katz is a writer and historian and author of The Daughters of Yalta. She graduated from Harvard with a BA in History and received her MPhil in Modern European History from Christ's College, University of Cambridge. Catherine worked in finance in New York City before a very fortuitous visit to the book store in the lobby of her office in Manhattan led her to return to history and writing. She received her JD from Harvard Law School in May 2023.

Praise for The Daughters of Yalta:

'Superb' Spectator

'Entertaining' New York Times

Deadwood

Gold, Guns and Greed in the American West

Peter Cozzens

The true story of the American gold rush settlement described as 'the most diabolical town on earth'.

Peter Cozzens pulls back the curtain on the outlaw town of Deadwood – infamous for its stage-coach robbing, whiskey-guzzling and rampant prostitution – introducing us to colourful Deadwoodites from Wild Bill Hickok and Calamity Jane to Judge Kuykendall, Seth Bullock and Sol Star.

'In these pungent pages, you can smell the whiskey, the gunsmoke, the horse lather, the gold dust, and the mining chemicals' Hampton Sides, New York Times bestselling author of The Wide Wide Sea

Peter Cozzens is the award-winning author of The Earth is Weeping and over seventeen other books on the Civil War and the American West.

Facing Infinity

Black Holes and Our Place on Earth

Jonas Enander

How do black holes affect us here on Earth, as well as the furthest reaches of the cosmos?

Based on interviews with over twenty leading researchers, Jonas Enander discovers the myriad ways black holes impact life on Earth: from the invention of Wi-Fi and GPS to how our looking outward gave us critical evidence of the impact of climate change.

'Weaves a captivating account of the most extraordinary objects in the universe' Marcus Chown, author of The Ascent of Gravity

Jonas Enander is a cosmology and astrophysics researcher who participated in the construction of the IceCube observatory at the South Pole.

The Flight Nurses' War

The Women Who Saved Thousands of Lives at Iwo Jima and Okinawa

Leah Garrett

Hidden Figures meets Saving Private Ryan in this gripping account of extraordinary courage that helped win the war.

The Pacific Theatre witnessed World War II's bloodiest combat, yet much of its history remains untold. As casualties mounted during the final push toward Japan, the United States Navy deployed combat nurses to the front lines of Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Award-winning historian Leah Garrett traces eight remarkable nurses from small-town America to contested airfields and hospital ships, where they triaged desperately wounded men under constant enemy fire. Flying in unpressurised aircraft and enduring kamikaze attacks, these women evacuated thousands from danger, freeing troops to secure victory.

Praise for X-Troop:

'Gripping... Garrett's chief strength is her ability to relight the lamps of the past so that they glow anew' The Times

'A thrilling, stirring story, well told'
Daily Telegraph

Leah Garrett is a professor at Hunter College, City University of New York. The author of five previous books, most recently X-Troop: The Secret Jewish Commandos of World War Two Who Helped Defeat the Nazis, she lives in New York City.

The Education of an Artist

Daniel Pollack-Pelzner

How did Lin-Manuel Miranda become the preeminent musical storyteller of the twenty-first century?

Daniel Pollack-Pelzner traces Miranda's path from a friendly but often isolated child to the winner of multiple Tonys and Grammys for his Broadway hits Hamilton and In the Heights, and his songs in Disney's Moana and Encanto.

'Essential reading' Andrew Lloyd Webber

'A vibrant portrait of Miranda and the influences and creatives that have shaped him' BBC Music

Daniel Pollack-Pelzner writes about theatre and contemporary culture for the New Yorker, the Atlantic and the New York Times. He lives in Portland, Oregon.

Turncoat

Roundhead to Royalist, the Double Life of Cromwell's Spy

Dennis Sewell

George Downing: savvy soldier, politician, diplomat and spy... or the biggest scoundrel in Stuart England?

As Oliver Cromwell's head of military intelligence, George Downing forged a career as a politician and diplomat, bribing, blackmailing and browbeating his way to success, before spectacularly betraying his friends by defecting to the Royalist camp. Sewell follows this elusive figure to the heart of power in Restoration London.

'A gripping, well-researched, fascinating book' Mail on Sunday

Dennis Sewell is a writer, broadcaster and a contributing editor of the Spectator. He spent twenty-two years on the staff of BBC News.

Year of the Snake

The End of the American Order and the Future of Geopolitics

Robin Niblett

By the former Director of Chatham House, a bold analysis of how small states will thrive in a post-American order.

When Donald Trump returned to the White House in January 2025, he ended the Pax Americana which had underwritten eighty years of global stability since World War II. But 2025 is the Year of the Snake, which Chinese astrologists believe presages profound transformation; a year in which individuals, institutions and countries are expected to shed their old skin and emerge as something new.

Combining deep geopolitical analysis with contemporary reportage, Year of the Snake argues that we are unlikely to go back to an imperialist order dominated by the US, China and Russia. Instead, smaller states will help to shape the disordered world and chart an unexpected and more promising future.

'An important, crystal-clear account of contemporary global geopolitics' Peter Frankopan on The New Cold War

Robin Niblett is a Distinguished Fellow with Chatham House, where he was previously Director from 2007–2022. He is also Senior Adviser to the Center for Strategic & International Studies (CSIS), Washington DC, and Distinguished Fellow with the Asia Society Policy Institute. His commentary and analysis have appeared in the world's leading journals and newspapers.

All the Queen's Men

The Competition to Marry Elizabeth I

Sophie Shorland

A unique biography of Elizabeth I through the lens of her suitors, repositioning Tudor England within the dramatic power struggles of sixteenth-century Europe.

When Elizabeth I ascended the throne in 1558, she became Europe's most eligible woman. Every prince wanted the same prize: marry Elizabeth, rule England. Ambassadors flooded her court with portraits, jewels and proposals.

For nearly five decades, Elizabeth played each suitor against the other. Erik XIV wrote her love letters for a decade. She strung along the Duke of Anjou, exchanging rings before securing an alliance. Robert Dudley laid always in the background, making foreign ambassadors tremble with envy.

Written with Sophie Shorland's eye for gossiping asides and acerbic wit, All the Queen's Men is a new biography revealing how Elizabeth turned courtship into statecraft and her single status into England's survival.

Praise for Queen Catherine's Court:

'A splendidly sympathetic and sparky portrait... Wittily written and rich in detail' Miranda Seymour

'Wonderfully rich in the 17th century details of lives, loves, politics and power' Suzie Edge

Sophie Shorland has a PhD in Early Modern English Literature and is a former Research Fellow at the University of Warwick. She was a semi-finalist in the BBC's New Generation Thinkers competition and is the author of Queen Catherine's Court: Power and Rebellion in Restoration England.

The Path of Light

Walking to Auschwitz

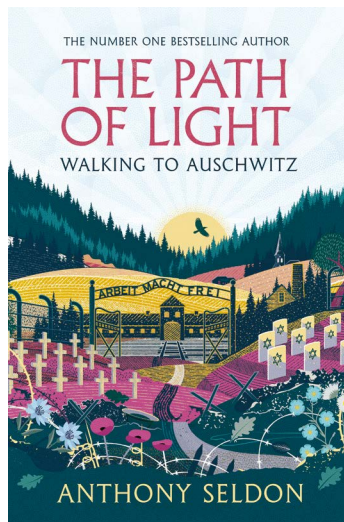

Anthony Seldon

An inspiring and reflective memoir about walking the 1,300km route from where World War I ended to Auschwitz.

Seldon walks from Germany through Czechia and Poland to Auschwitz, discovering in the towns and villages through which he walks stories of women and men who bravely protected the vulnerable and stood up to Nazi evil during World War II.

Praise for The Path of Peace:

'A formidable achievement' Rory Stewart

Sir Anthony Seldon is an educator, historian, and the writer of over forty books on contemporary history, politics and education.

Fatal Monsters

Sister Queens, Sibling Rivalry and the Downfall of a Dynasty

Jane Draycott

A re-examination of the tumultuous period when Cleopatra and her sisters Berenike and Arsinoe all took turns ruling Egypt.

A dramatic political, cultural and social historical narrative of the period 60–40 BCE in Egypt and Rome, and the three sister queens each seeking power for themselves during this time: Cleopatra, Berenike (executed by their father) and Arsinoe (murdered at sister Cleopatra's request).

Fatal Monsters approaches the three sister queens equally, rather than simply privileging Cleopatra, and examines them in the correct historical and archaeological context, not just through Roman eyes but also Greek and Egyptian ones. This story, the story of three sister queens and the sibling rivalry that brought down a 300-year-old dynasty, has yet to be told.

Jane Draycott is a historian and archaeologist, and the author of Cleopatra's Daughter: Egyptian Princess, Roman Prisoner, African Queen. She is currently Lecturer in Ancient History at the University of Glasgow and Co-director of the University of Glasgow's Games and Gaming Lab.

Praise for Fulvia:

'Light and thorough, wide-reaching and focused, entertaining but not sensationalist' Financial Times

'Makes a persuasive case that, in the Roman Republic, any woman who dared do things differently was virtually certain of going down in history as an evil femme fatale' Mail on Sunday

Plebs Romana

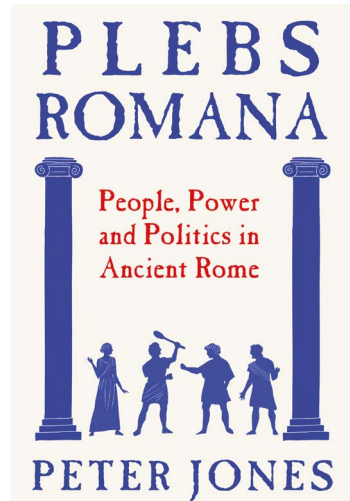

People, Power and Politics in Ancient Rome

Peter Jones

The true story of the real people who built an empire.

From debt crises to dinner parties, graffiti to gladiators, slaves to strikes, Peter Jones takes us through the twists and turns of Rome's turbulent history to reveal how the Plebs evolved from disparate, downtrodden underclass into a political force that transformed the Roman Republic.

'Jones has an eagle's high eye for the history of Rome from Aeneas to Augustine and a pigeon's ground-level eye for the graffiti scratcher of Pompeii' The Times

Peter Jones is the author of various books on the Classics, including the bestselling Learn Latin and Veni, Vidi, Vici.

Empire of Booze

British History Through the Bottom of a Glass

Henry Jeffreys

A humorous and informative look at Britain's contributions to the world of alcohol over the centuries.

From award-winning drinks writer Henry Jeffreys comes this rich and full-bodied history of Britain and the Empire, told through the improbable but true stories of how the world's favourite alcoholic drinks came to be.

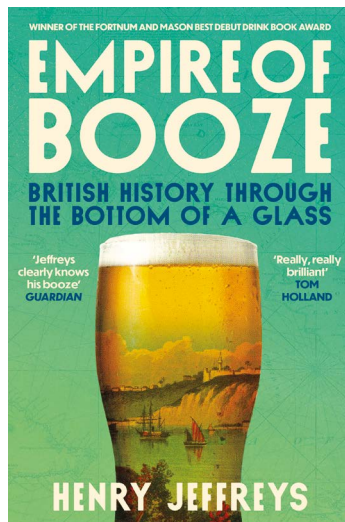

Empire of Booze traces the impact of alcohol on British culture and society, from madeira and India Pale Ale being created to withstand the long, hot journeys to overseas territories, to why whisky became the favoured choice for weary empire builders longing for home.

Filled to the brim with fascinating trivia, this colourful history underlines that Britain's alcoholic innovations are some of its greatest, most lasting gifts to the world.

'Well argued and full of fascinating booze-related facts' Daily Mail

'He clearly knows his booze' Guardian

'Really, really brilliant. If you have any interest in drink or history or drink in history, it's absolutely unmissable' Tom Holland

Henry Jeffreys is a contributor to Good Food, the Guardian, Harpers Wine & Spirit and The Spectator, wine columnist for The Critic magazine, and host of the Intoxicating History podcast with Tom Parker Bowles. He is the author of four award-winning books. He lives in Kent with his wife and two daughters.

Superhero Leadership

28 Rules for Turnarounds and Transformation

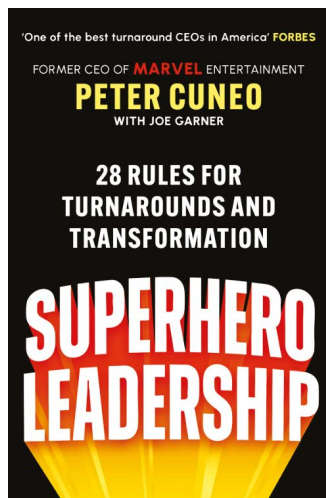

Peter Cuneo with Joe Garner

The definitive leadership playbook for how to turn around a business, by the man behind Marvel's turnaround, for fans of Jim Collins, Amy Edmonson and Bruce Daisley.

Peter Cuneo, who rescued Marvel Entertainment from near bankruptcy and orchestrated its $4.5 billion Disney sale, distils decades of turnaround expertise into leadership fundamentals. Drawing from successful transformations at Marvel, Black & Decker, Remington and Clairol, Cuneo identifies the essential attitudes, philosophies, behaviours and instincts that define transformative leadership.

Through narratives and case studies, he teaches core competencies including company values, culture building, change management, crisis leadership and self-maintenance – equipping readers to become leaders who inspire loyalty, drive success and unlock their team's full potential.

'One of the best turnaround CEOs in America'
Forbes

Peter Cuneo is a recognised leader in strategic and financial turnarounds. Since 1983, he has completed seven turnarounds of distressed branded businesses in the global media and consumer products sectors, including Clairol, Black & Decker, Remington and Marvel Entertainment.

Eleven

We Burn Them in the Sun

Christian Ryan

The author of Golden Boy, declared by a Wisden Cricket Monthly panel the 'best cricket book ever', returns with another singular masterpiece.

Dream/remember this: hands holding radios to eardrums, beating in the rhythm of ball-by-ball description. Cricket, the way it catches human life like light.

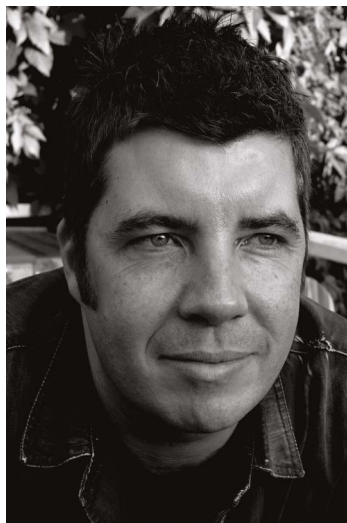

Follow the trails of eleven whose destinies don't make sense. See what it says about living with failure, the limits of non-fiction and fiction, how the fall of West Indies is cricket's tragedy, and how but for a freak minute there may have been no fall. Raja. RR. Jane (i). Shirvan.

Instead of 'this book is about –' a better word's into: one thought into another, one person into another, one moment into... A life's (messy) undertaking, this is an audacious re-reckoning of non-fiction's potentialities and velocities, and joy.

Praise for Golden Boy:

'At once unputdownable and also unpickupable, because if you pick it up you will eventually finish it and what are you going to do then?' Guardian

'Heartbreaking to read but such is the quality of Ryan's work you can't stop' Telegraph

Christian Ryan is the author of Feeling is the Thing that Happens in 1000th of a Second, longlisted for the William Hill Sports Book of the Year, and Golden Boy, winner of the Cricket Book of the Year. He lives in Melbourne.

The Courage to Be Yourself

Fumitake Koga

Translated by Cat Anderson

From the co-author of the international sensation The Courage to Be Disliked comes this new book translating its message for a younger audience.

Here the philosopher–student conversation of The Courage to Be Disliked is relocated to an underwater world, transforming into a child-friendly encounter between an old, wise hermit crab and young octopus Ockley, and introducing themes such as letting go of things you can't control, getting to know yourself better and learning self-acceptance. Blending fiction and self-help, The Courage to Be Yourself will empower and inspire young readers in the way other books in the Courage series have done for millions of adults.

Fumitake Koga is the co-author (with Ichiro Kishimi) of the global bestsellers The Courage to Be Disliked and The Courage to Be Happy. He lives in Japan.

The Temptation Test

Rachel North

The gripping, high-concept new thriller from the author of Happily Never After and How the Other Half Die.

She's lived many lives, but her goal is always the same: survival.

ER Doctor Dev Balakrishnan is late for work when he sees her: slumped on the curb like a broken doll, covered in blood. Everyone else walks by. Not Dev.

He saves people's lives every day, but Brooke is different: prey one minute, predator the next. As she spins her web of stories, Dev finds himself hopelessly caught up in her world of danger and deceit.

Brooke will test Dev in ways he never dreamed of. Whether he passes or fails will become a matter of life and death – for both of them...

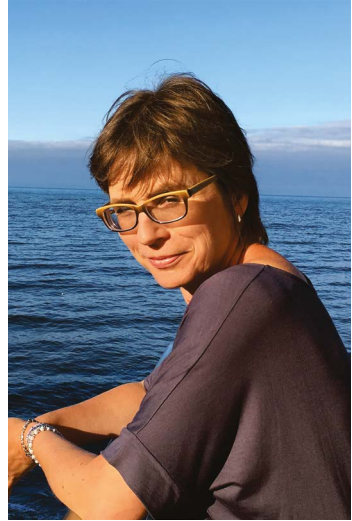

Praise for Rachel North:

'Absolutely enthralling' Antony Johnston

'Relentlessly page-turning' Philippa East

'Pure escapism' L D Smithson

'Hugely gripping, deliciously tense, and completely unputdownable'
Carole Hailey

Rachel North was born in Scarborough and now lives in Leeds. She studied English Literature at Oxford University and has worked as a cleaner, a receptionist, a kitchen designer, a market researcher, a company director, a celebrity shopper and a victim support volunteer. She has an MA in Creative Writing.

Sucker For You

Rose McGee

A charming, sexy STEMinist romcom filled with heart, heat and fake dating hijinks from the author of Talk Data to Me.

H2O = hero + heroine + ...octopus?

A scheduling screw-up leaves meticulous marine biologist Isabel Wright and tattooed wildlife photographer Wes Monaghan stranded at the same California beach house.

She needs a US visa now. He needs a boat and a date to his family holiday party. The solution? A fake engagement that turns eight levels of 'it's complicated' after they accidentally take joint custody of an octopus.

Can their agreement not to catch feelings survive sunset picnics, bioluminescent skinny-dipping, and a secret investigation into a shady ocean research lab?

Or will their charming cephalopod and their own hearts sucker Wes and Isabel into diving straight into love?

Rose McGee is a California-based author who writes romcoms full of sugar, spice and statistics. She holds a degree in English from Stanford University and lives in the Bay Area with a dog and several succulents.

Praise for Rose McGee:

'Smart, sweet, and simply irresistible to anyone looking for a steamy STEM romance'
Deidre Duncan

'Science has never been sexier!' Jenna Levine

The Stray Dogs

Ruth Hogan

An uplifting, heartwarming tale about the power of canine companionship from the bestselling author of The Keeper of Lost Things.

When vet Leona moves to Fiddlers Green to set up a rescue centre, Desmond promises to get his band back together for some fundraising gigs.

Reforming as The Stray Dogs, Desmond manages to recruit all his old bandmates – everyone except charismatic frontman Darcus McGuire, and Desmond is strangely reluctant to track him down.

After a disastrous first gig, the future of the rescue centre looks uncertain. But the residents of Fiddlers Green are not to be underestimated, particularly when the fates of their four-legged friends are at stake.

Meanwhile, the elusive Darcus McGuire might be ready to make a comeback...

Praise for Ruth Hogan

‘Warm, compassionate, witty’ Mike Gayle

‘Moving, uplifting and thought-provoking’ Celia Anderson

‘Told with wit and heart’ Beth Morrey

Ruth Hogan studied English and Drama at Goldsmiths College and worked in local government until a car accident and a run-in with cancer convinced her to pursue her dream of becoming a writer. The result was the 2-million copy bestseller The Keeper of Lost Things. She lives with her husband and rescue dogs in a rambling Victorian house stuffed with treasure that inspires her novels.

The Breakup Bookshop

Breea Keenan

A bookish, Scottish-set, small-town romcom for readers of Emily Henry, Beth O'Leary and Laurie Gilmore.

Ava Campbell is in crisis. Fresh out of a breakup, she's now lost her high-flying city job too.

Heartbroken and broke-broken, Ava moves to the Highlands and opens a bookshop. There, she discovers she's not the only one who's hurting – and maybe the bookshop can help. The breakup support group turns out to be a surprise hit with the locals.

But Rory MacGregor, the annoyingly handsome owner of the next-door hardware store, isn't impressed.

With books to balance in more ways than one, can Ava build a new life in Scotland? And, more urgently, can she get Rory off her case?

Praise for Breea Keenan

'Perfect for fans of Emily Henry and Catherine Walsh' Sunday Mail

'Funny, surprising and as fresh as a glass of lemonade' Jenny Colgan

'Beautiful, funny and smartly crafted'
Andrés N. Ordorica

Breea Keenan is from the southside of Glasgow. She worked as a journalist for various media titles before moving into communications. Her debut novel, Plot Twist, won the Debut Novel of the Year Award at the Romantic Novelists' Association Awards. She lives near Glasgow with her husband and three children.

The Girl from Marseille

Carol Drinkwater

A life-affirming, heartfelt novel of love, freedom and community from a beloved author and TV personality.

Provence, 1938.

Seventeen-year-old Yvette Barbarin lives on a small rural farm in the lavender-soaked hills behind the great port-city of Marseille, with her widowed father and her five younger sisters.

When she learns of her father's plans to marry her off to a local farmer, Yvette flees to the city where she dreams of joining a troupe of travelling players.

In Marseille, Yvette is bowled over by the magic of cinema, and the thrill of make-believe. She falls deeply in love with a rising star actor, but all is not as simple in real life as it is in the world of movies. War is coming...

Praise for One Summer In Provence:

'A superb read' Miriam Margolyes

'Perfect escapism' Prima

'Simply delicious' Joanne Harris

'Terrific story that emphasises the real, true things in life' Elizabeth Buchan

Carol Drinkwater is an actress and writer, best known for her portrayal of Helen Herriot in All Creatures Great and Small. She is the author of twenty-five books, including the bestselling Olive Farm memoir series set in the south of France. Her latest TV series is Carol Drinkwater's Secret Provence.

The Neighbour

Emma Curtis

The latest twisty psychological thriller from bestselling author of The Babysitter and The Psychiatrist.

On quiet streets, there are secrets behind every turn...

Ed and Megan have just moved into the house of their dream neighbourhood. They couldn't believe their luck when their offer was accepted. Megan is pregnant. Life couldn't be better.

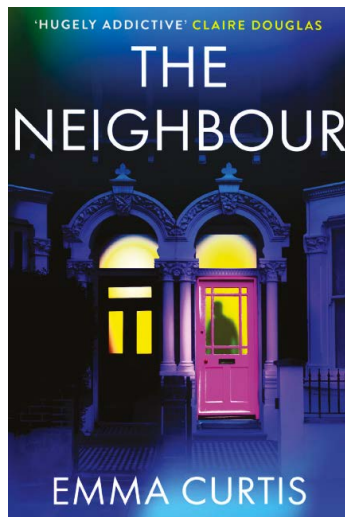

But as soon as they move in, the problems begin. Their new neighbour is a nightmare, being a constant disturbance and causing damage to their property.

When one of their neighbour's outbursts endangers Megan's pregnancy, Ed decides he must take action – one way or another...

Praise for Emma Curtis

'Emma Curtis is a genius!' Andrea Mara

'I'm a big fan of Emma Curtis. Gripping, addictive, kept me guessing until the last page' Claire Douglas

Emma Curtis spent many years as a primary school secretary, becoming fascinated by the dynamics of family life and the fault lines hidden behind seemingly perfect facades. The Neighbour is her ninth psychological suspense novel. She lives in West London with her husband.

Dirty Work

Kate Posey

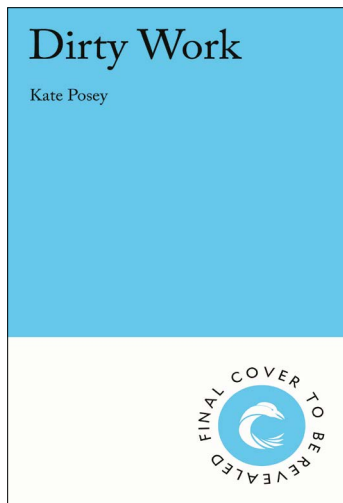

Two crime scene cleaners find that cleaning up murders is a lot easier than wiping their pasts in this bitinglly funny novel from the author of Serial Killer Games.

The past is rarely so easily cleaned up...

Max Lee has seen all the ways criminals screw up. As the decade-long owner of an under-staffed crime scene cleaning company, she knows – theoretically – the best way to erase a murder.

Nate Wilder has had too many jobs to count in his life, and as Max's newest trainee, he displays an unusual attention to detail and a lack of squeamishness.

When Max needs Wilder's help to clean up the biggest mess from her childhood – one she's kept secret her whole life – he brings a surprising set of skills to the task. With a history like Wilder's, what's a little more dirty work?

Kate Posey lives in Canada with her family. Serial Killer Games is her first novel.

Praise for Kate Posey:

'Twisty, turn-y delight' Oprah Daily

'Dangerously edgy delight from start to finish' Jane Casey

'Expect the unexpected' Sarra Manning

'Humorously gruesome love story with a murder in the mix' Library Journal

Grove Press

Grove Press is an imprint of the renowned US publisher Grove Atlantic, who publish a boutique selection of their finest fiction and non-fiction into the UK market via Atlantic Books. Highlights for the second half of 2026 include an electrifying (and depressingly timely) account of Hitler's first days in power, and the first addition in some years to Martha Grimes's much-loved Richard Jury crime series.

The Red Queen

A Richard Jury mystery

Martha Grimes

A sudden murder in a quiet pub sets off the latest novel in the bestselling Richard Jury series.

One calm night in Twickenham, a businessman named Tom Treadnor is shot off his barstool at The Queen pub. Superintendent Richard Jury is called in to investigate.

Meanwhile, Wiggins, Jury's partner at New Scotland Yard, becomes sidetracked by an investigation of his own: his sister, missing for years and presumed dead, has just sent a postcard to their mother. When Wiggins takes off in search of his sister, the two investigations begin to converge.

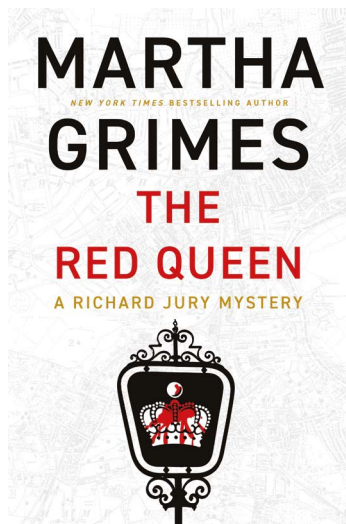

Funny, eccentric and fuelled by Richard Jury's talent for seeing clues in the most unlikely places, The Red Queen sees the welcome return of a classic character.

Praise for the Richard Jury series:

'Delightful, surprising, even magical'
Washington Post

'Intricate and entertaining . . . A delicious puzzle'
Boston Globe

'Wondrously eccentric characters . . . The details are divine' New York Times Book Review

Martha Grimes is the bestselling author of more than thirty books, twenty-six of them featuring Richard Jury. The recipient of the 2012 Mystery Writers of America's Grand Master Award, Grimes lives in Bethesda, Maryland.

53 Days

How Hitler Dismantled a Democracy

Timothy Ryback

A dramatic recounting of the early days of Adolf Hitler's leadership, from the internationally acclaimed author of Takeover.

In a court appearance in September 1930, Adolf Hitler declared he would never again try to overthrow the Weimar Republic by violent means. Rather, he informed the packed courtroom, once he had achieved power legally, he intended to destroy the country's democratic systems by moulding the government as he saw fit. 'So, through constitutional means?' the presiding judge asked. 'Jawohl!' Hitler replied.

It took just 53 days – one month, three weeks, two days, eight hours and forty minutes – from the moment Hitler became Chancellor on January 31, 1933 for him to transform the Weimar Republic into the Third Reich. And the minutes mattered. In a short, compelling book, and in our era of astonishing far-right political gains, historian Timothy Ryback chillingly evokes the playbook by which the democratic German constitutional republic was torn down.

Timothy Ryback is a historian and director of the Institute for Historical Justice and Reconciliation in The Hague. Previously he was a lecturer in the Concentration of History and Literature at Harvard University.

Praise for Takeover:

'Ryback tells a grippingly important tale'
Philippe Sands

Winter Stories

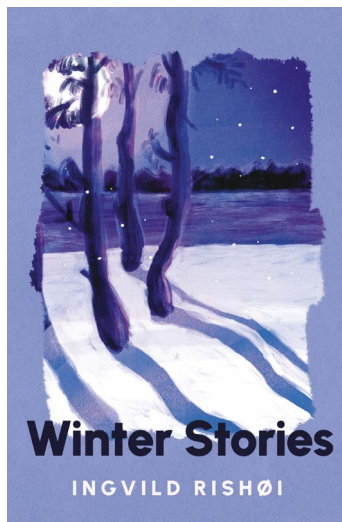

Ingvild Rishøi

Translator: Diane Oatley

Three contemporary tales about personal resilience in the face of adversity from the bestselling author of Brightly Shining.

In this collection of three stories, we watch characters stumble, fall and climb to their feet again, even though the deck inevitably seems to be stacked against them. With empathy and sensitivity, Ingvild Rishøi beautifully illuminates the vulnerability of the human condition.

'With sympathetic characters, expert pacing, and palpable tension, Rishøi builds each tale toward a gripping conclusion' Booklist (starred review)

Ingvild Rishøi lives in Oslo. Her debut novel, Brightly Shining, was instantly deemed a modern classic, and was selected by Dua Lipa for her Service95 book club.
